Dr. Pomroy, one of the secretaries, stated, that, in connection with their various Missions, they had now twelve Seminaries for educating ministers and teachers, with corresponding numbers of academies and schools for children, aside from those of the Sandwich Islands, which are now generously sustained by the native government. They had also eleven printing establishments, that were issuing the Scriptures, school books, and reacts, in some thirty different languages. The receipts of the Society, for the last nine nonths, had been upwards of $217,000; but, in connection with their extending operations $90,000 are would be needed, previous to their September Anniversary.

He siluded to remarkable revivals among the Sandwich Lianders, the Nestorians, and the Stockbridge Indians, in Wisconsia, and said that at no former period had their prospects been more encouraging.

Rev. Dr. Scott, of Newark, spoke of the special interventions of Providence in behalf of our country and missions:—especially of the wooderfuc circumstance of the Sandwich Islands being Chris circumstance of the Sandwich Islands being Christianized, just in time to prevent an avalanche of heathenism and polintion from being thrown on our Pacific coast. We lived at an eventtul period—the age of sabbath schools and kindred institutions. We heard the crashing of itrones, and the failing of heathen temples; and at such a period, it especially becomes each parent, each teacher, and each individual of any influence, to mark the indications of Providence, that in the end they might not hear from the lips of the Redeemer and Judge,—"Ye knew your duty, but ye do it not."

A Chinese might move through this city on an elephant, proclaiming the doctrines of Conficulty and interest excited, it might be thought for the moment, that he had many converts—many followers. So with the Missionary of the Cross on his poney, in Eastern cities and villages—but in gaining any real conquests over the superattions and prejudices of contaries, he must have long patience and toils. Still, in Ceylon, benides working the press successfully, preaching the gospel, and gas theiring towards 1,000, hopeful converts into the fold of Christ, they had, commencing with their own domestics and dependants, organized 175 christian schools in as many villages; the blessed results of which, in time and eternity the arithmetic of heaven alone could estimate.

Whee he understood by what windom in council, energy in action, and therehilty of the soul in the community, a great city had been supplied with pure water from distant bills, he could not but hope and pray, that, in this day of wonders, there might be seen in christian churches of every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and zeal, for carrying the waters of asturches for every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and zeal, for carrying the waters of asturches of every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and zeal, for carrying the waters of asturches of every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and zeal, for carrying the waters of asturches of every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and zeal, for carrying the waters of asturches of every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and zeal, for carrying the waters of asturches of every name, a like promptitude, wisdom, energy and the learner.
