It was in taking for granted, from the published statements, and commenting upon them as true, that the new Whig Collector at New Orleans had turned out some many whigs appointed. It seems he did not dispoint some twenty or thirty of those whose term employment had expired. He would have done right, however, had he refused to re-appoint a single one of them. A whig of New Orleans complained to me to day, that the identical "Young Virginian, ardent as a Southern sun could make him," who did so well at the beginning of Polk's term, has just secured an appointment of travelling agent of some sort in the South, worth upwards of $2,000 per annum. The name of this ardent young gent man is Southall, and the office which has, as my informant states to me, just been conferred upon him, is the same which Mr. Tyler originally gave him, and from which he was only translated by Polk to another as good. The devotion of this ar dent young man was commemorated by M which the above quotation is a specimen. I hope some explanation will be given of this appoint ment that will take away its present strange ap NANIGATION OF THY KARLASHA-The Belleville Republican of yesterday, says than Capt. D. Riley, of the teamer Pearl, has been successful in his effort to navigate the Kashaskia river. Under a contract for the purpose, Capt. Riley proceeded to a point in the river single as Tamarswah, which he reached on the foldings, and be intended to proceed as high as Carlyte, if the water would permit. The practicability of the navigation of this river by steam boats is thus demonstrated, and very soom boats will be built which may be used there for several months of the year. A wasternount of produce will thus find its way to market.
