He worked into an old cave which had been excavated centuries of the first works of the same sort, and they have found a number of sinks in the earth which they have traced a long distance. By digging into those sinks they find them to look for other works of the same sort, and they have been made by the hand of man. It appears that the ancient miners were on a different principle from what they do at the present time. Ligothery Fig. 1888—1888—188 and the present time. The greatest depth yet found in these holes is 30 feet—after getting down a certain depth they drifted along the vein, making an open cut.
