Rambo,

These apples were raised by Mr. Thomas Thornloy, of Fallston, Réaver county, and we have the authority of good judges for saying that they excel say fruit grown in this county. Nothing in the way of further perfection in this useful description of fruit could scarcely be desired, which these specimens do not present. Mr. Thornley informs us that he confines his attention to welve kinds, rauging through the different seasons, and he has succeeded in thorning them to the statement of the seasons. We would ground as European. The rent of such a house is only about 1500 piasters, or eighty doilars a year.

With Captain Hill and an attacks of the British Consultat, I visited yesterday one of the richest Jewish families of the city. Passing from the afreet through a long vaulted archway, we entered, the court, which as usual, was paved with marble, and ornamented with fountains and fruit free. Here we were received by the family. First, the master of the house, a gentleman about thirty years of age, with keen eyes, light complexion, black beard and mustaches, and attired with a white turban, and a light silk robe, secured by a sash. Next was a young Bebecca of eighteen, (I say next, for her was of course the next to eldin my attention, being a bachelor) with rich brunette complexion, with full fair forchead, eye brows shaven into a perfect circle and colored with Kohol, dark limped eyes, and ighorously wreathed lips, and with a small and yet finely rounded figure.

A jaunty velvet cap, bordered withs a broad filler of rose diamonds covered her head, and her silky brown hair hung behind in long, livaided plais, each of which was decovated at the extremity by a gold sequin. A green, tower sleeved wilk vas, with its front just open enough to show the silk tunic beneath, reached down to be reasin, which was girded by a beautiful silk was.
