Mr. EDITOR—I was surprised to see the follow-ing remark in the Gazette of this morning:—"There Mf. Editors—I was surprised to see the following remark in the Gazette of this morning:—There is no hope for this Usion if some compromise—to adopted."

Is it really true that the citizens of the Southern Is it really true that the citizens of the Southern Is it really destroy it, if they are not allowed in infamous privilege of extending still farther he degradation and wrong of human Slavery!

Do you really believe that there is any sincerity in the kind of treason which is proclaimed from the tones tops, in a manner that treason was never proclaimed before? Is it possible that you can really believe that two millions of non slavehold—the first of the House to day; and I learned from a mittee of the House to day; and I learned from the mittee of the House to day; and I learned from a mittee of the House to day; and I learned from the mittee of the House to proclaimed before? Is it possible that you can really believe that two militons of non slavehold—interes in the slave states would stand idle spectators, while three hundred thousand slaveholders destroyed the Union, not in defence of equal rights, not in the assertion of their first privileges as freemen, not to improve the condition of their slaves, or even to elevate the position of the already down trodden non slaveholding white men, but to open a new market for the sale of their human

But why should alayes not be taken to New Manderson. Texas, a slave state, immediately adioins it. Will it not be easy to migrate thence to New Mexico? It is said the soil is not good, generally, but still there must be some good lands scattly, but still there must be some good lands scattly. townsty, it is a question of doubt whether without a prohibition slavery will be extended there. Let us, then, remove all doubt, and make "assurance doubly sure." Let us teach southerns that we understand their game of brag, though we do not some times successfully, some times not. They played it pretty boldy in 1833, and, had Mr. Clay not interfered, Jackson would have given them a lesson, which they would not have forgotten in a iesson, which they would not have forgotten in a half a century. Even if their case was one of leas infamy, at this time concession is utterly inserted in the halls of legislation.

Perhaps some of your readers may have forgotten or never heard of, an early autempt of slave holders to play the game of bully and bragadocic with our beloved Washington. The reminiscence may not be unprofitable at this time.

After John Jay, one of the purest and wiscest patriots this or any other country ever produced, had negotiated the famous treaty. known by his name, one of the best we have ever had with Eagland, a most bitter opposition to its ratification was gotten up. Among other means adopted, a notice was published in Richmond, on the Sits Johy, 1795, from which the fallowing is an extract:

"Notice is hereby given that, in case the treaty entered into by that damned arch traitor, John Jay, with the British tyrant, should be ratified, a pelition will be presented to the next General Assembly of Virginia praying that the said State may recede from the Union, and be left under the government and protection of one hundred thousand from an integrated all the opposition, the Washington disregarded all the opposition, the services and first some adding was probably eld virginia praying that the said State may recede from the Union, and be left under the government and protection of one hundred thousand from and independent Virginiants."

The Compromise of 1833 was no sacrifice of moral principle.

The parties had a perfect right to make it. It was a mere question of dollars and cents on both sides, one in which a bargain could fairly be made. We talk, to be sure, "the principle, pile of protection," but mean not moral principle.

The writer always opposed that Compromise on because it was nursies and a concession to menance and braggadosio.
