Our European intelligence is increasing in interest. A regular pitched battle has been fought between the Dance and the Holsteiners, and the war is waged with a forceness which shows that some definite retuit must soon be reached.

An item of much importance to this country is, that the crops of Europe are generally fine, showing that we cannot depend upon that country as a market for the immense surplus products of this year. At the tariff of '46 has nearly ruined the home market, our faragres must look for low rates, unless Congress will take some action which will

In all the comments we have read, from the Eoglish papers, on the accersion of Mr. Fillmore, the Eoglish papers, on the accersion of Mr. Fillmore, of the name and acts of John Tyler are spoken of the people generally, who have the most awarding disappubation, and frequently with contempt and scorn. Thus is a fisgrant case, of haze treachery most righteously punished. John Tyler might have lived a respected and honored man, and died universally lamented, and his name have gone down to history as one of the great and venerated men of the Republic. In an evil hour he yielded to the breath of finitery, and the woorings of ambition, and fell so low as to be held up as an example to be avoided in all future ages.

The principal actor in the slave escape at Washington, referred to by "Junius," was Generical Caspita, of N-w York, a geniteman of first to sixty years of age, concewhat widely known as the editor of a paper, called Cheplan's Portfolio, published at Albayr. He has been for roome time published at Albayr, acting as corresponda resident of Washington, acting as correspondent of his own paper, and probably for others. A Gross Outrage—No Action—A Harvellous Story Exposed.

The House of Representatives have closed the docket of some half a dozen of the least important of the Appropriation Bills, having this day passed that for the dupport of the Post Office during the current year, which, however, regulates the disposition of delaying that part of the public money arising from the receipts for postage, and of course applicable to the very service by which it is raised. The amount involved in the Bill is over five militions of dollars. The only incident of any general interest connected with its passage is a vote by which the House plainly indicated, by a large majority, that they did not intend to permit cheap postage to be smothered by either accident or design. The bill contained an item of $220,000 for certain expenses which could properly form no part of the charges upon the revenue from postages, and if allowed might give the appearance of a shortness of funds in the Department that would be seized hold of by the anti-reformers as an argument against the contemplated further reduction.
