In the vicinity of the cit-is a warm spring, which has been brought into the city, and public byths eredied. The wate-is highly medicinal. Each citizen has a building lot appropriated to his use, but is not the abso-lute owner, as he cannot dispose of it to a gen-tile without the cannot of the citrch; achies-can a Marmon move away or take a journey without the consent of the Church. Each mem-ber is allowed to take up and cultivate as much land as he pease, but he can only sell such im-one tests of the province of the land, or the ac-cumulation of each individual, as well as one tent of his time, be ongs to the church, and is

The houses are monify one story high, though seem of them are nest lattle contages. Chey have nearly completed a spacious court house, two stories high, firity feet squire. The first story is built of free stone, and the second of san burnt high; house built of these brink are very warm in winter, and cool in summer, and appear wellt adapted to the ollimate. They are shout to erec a temple and other public buildings. Deer Kimball's house is a large two story stone building, some 50 feet by 25 feet, yell its not large enough to contain one half of his numerous wives. The prosperity of this prople is truly automishing.—They have the take and find, and most of the good.

they recommend a southern Congress, and denounce all President making Conventions.

The language used by Mr. Donelson towards the close of the Gonvention has been erroneously reported through the Telegraph. As stated in the Nashville papers has expressions were: "It pronounced toe attempt to cut off debate as unworky of the Convention; I claim the right to enter my protest against the unhallowed purpose of the Convention; "I was the repetition of these words," re echoed as they were by thouderings of the people of Tennessee assembled in the gallerien;" which convents the conditions amidst which the Convention finally adjourned, without observing any of the formalities usual on similar occasions. The proceedings of the Convention bave soaroused the apprit of the Union men of Nashville that immediately after the Convention adjourned a call was made, which was signed by almost every body, for a great Union mending, which was to have been held on Saturday last.

There will be no difficulty in finding gentlemen willing to serve in the capacity; but the due to be elected will be the one who gas the total wheels in dealing with the great question of the Sentorship. The election of Speaker will be only the preliminary to that election. Lavely times are expected in Harrisburgh about the commencement of the session.—[Har. Tel.]
