A Greely in music.
Illegible handwriting, which has given rise to so many comedies, led to a tragedy in the case of Bacher, a musical enthusiast of the last century, who devoted several years to the composition of a history of Viennese music. His task finished, he submitted the manuscript to the Austrian Imperial academy, which he had been led to believe would defray the cost of its publication. After three months his manuscript was returned; despite their best efforts the members had been unable to decipher it. Bacher then endeavored to have his work copied; but every professional copyist who undertook the task had to confess himself baffled. He thereupon attempted dictating the work, only to find that even he could not decipher it; and, heartbroken at the discovery that his years of toil had proved fruitless, he attempted suicide, and finished his days in a lunatic asylum.

Age Limit Lengthening.
With Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller of the supreme court of the United States seventy-seven years old Friday, and Associate Justice John M. Harlan seventy-seven next June, and both vigorous in mind and body, the age limit of man is surely lengthening.—New York Herald.

Japanese Railway Completed.
By the opening of the last section of the Kyushu railway, the Grand Trunk line of Japan has been completed from Sapporo on the north to Kagoshima on the south, a distance of 1,300 miles. The first part of this line to be thrown open was the Tokio-Yokohama section, which began to carry passengers and goods in 1872.

CHANGE THE VIBRATION
It Makes For Health.

A man tried leaving off meat, potatoes, coffee, and etc., and adopted a breakfast of fruit, Grape-Nuts with cream, some crisp toast and a cup of Postum.

His health began to improve at once for the reason that a meat eater will reach a place once in a while where his system seems to become clogged and the machinery doesn't work smoothly.

A change of this kind puts aside food of low nutritive value and takes up food and drink of the highest value, already quickly digested and capable of being quickly changed into good, rich blood and strong tissue.

A most valuable feature of Grape-Nuts is the natural phosphate of potash grown in the grains from which it is made. This is the element which transforms albumen in the body into soft gray substance which fills brain and nerve centres.

A few days' use of Grape-Nuts will give one a degree of nervous strength well worth the trial.

KNOWN BY HIS TIE.
Significance to Londoner of Headgear and Neckwear.

When, some years ago, one of the doorkeepers at a London theatre retired from his draughty calling and was pensioned off by the management, it appeared that this old man, in all the years of his service, had never given a "pass-out" check to any one of the thousands of men who must have passed his doorway.

But he never made a mistake. No one entitled to return was ever refused, and no one could pass in at the end of the interval who had not passed out at the beginning of it.

The secret of the old man's success was a curious one. He depended on his memory entirely, but he had trained his memory in a very curious way. He did not remember the men by their faces, their clothes, their hats, their boots, or by any peculiarity of gait or appearance. Manifestly such a feat would have been impossible, for ordinary "pitties" are very much alike in these details.

He took the one detail on which men so differ, and remembered them by that—he recognized them by their neckties.

Gaze around you in the railway carriage as you are reading this article and ask yourself if there is any one of your fellow passengers that you could remember well enough to recognize again in, say, an hour's time.

You will find there are very few people you could be sure of. There may be one old man with a large and conspicuous white beard or a very young man with a pair of spectacles of unusual size; but nine out of ten have the same sort of hat, the same sort of clothes and the same sort of figure.

The Londoner, in fact, seems to be standardized. He is built on a settled pattern. He is modeled to a type. His necktie is his sole bit of variety.

Into this world of standardized human beings comes, let us say, a colonial. Mighty London, with her vast crowds swarming over four counties, swallows him up. Yet, somehow, he preserves his individuality. He is conspicuous wherever he goes. He feels that all London is staring at him, and all London as far as it has time, is staring at him.

Cabmen persistently hail him; the mappers in the Strand pester him as he passes; those very acute people—the "confidence" men—sight him afar off. But it is not his necktie that distinguishes him, nor his face, nor his clothes, nor his walk. The conspicuous feature of the newly arrived colonial's outfit is his hat.

London permits three sorts of hat—the top hat, the bowler and in the summer the straw. Any break from this settled order is to make yourself conspicuous.—London Mirror.

Sans Peur et Sans Reproche.

What a hideous mischance is that which places the headquarters of the Richmond suffragettes in a building which also shelters a dealer in antiques. The result is a startling and almost unthinkable collocation of signs, for under the modest legend "Headquarters Woman's Suffrage League" appears the flaming banner of the man in trade, bearing the words "Antiques for Sale Here in the Rough." "Pedestrians who happen that way," says our Richmond correspondent, "have marvelled at the signs." No doubt many of them, yielding to unmanly mirth, have also cackled and guffawed. A few perhaps have thrown up their hands and howled. Maybe one or two have fallen into fits, expiring on the spot.

But the ladies need not repine. The signs convict them of nothing. Against a small number of them, true enough, the accusation of antiquity may be justly accused of roughness; but no enemy, however bilious and immoral, has ever charged them with being for sale. Never. They are politicians without price—a unique and hitherto unimagined species. They are as adamant against Havana cigars, railroad passes, certified checks, bank notes and all the other customary contaminants of fealty. Not money, nor even love, can buy them.—Baltimore Sun.

Warship Built Into House.

Timbers of the famous battleship Wellington are being used as supports and rafters in the $200,000 residence of I. N. Phelps Stokes, at Greenwich, Conn. Mr. Stokes, when he bought the timbers in England, was not indulging himself in things historic, although such material in the house will add greatly to its interest. His idea was to get good, strong wood, and the timbers from the Wellington are of teak, which is prized because of its great durability. Most of the timbers will be used as rafters in the great dining room.

In England there are several firms that make a specialty of breaking up old vessels to get teak and other valuable woods.—Popular Mechanics.

Wise and Unwise Charity.

How often it is difficult to be wisely charitable—to do good without multiplying the sources of evil. To give alms is nothing unless you give thought also. It is written, not "Blessed is he that feedeth the poor," but "blessed is he that considereth the poor." A little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money.—Ruskin.

Science Aiding Fruit Growers.
There are 13,000,000 bugs in the California state insectary waiting to go forth and slay the enemies of the fruit orchards. These bugs are the parasites of the many pests that destroy fruit bearing trees, and they are saving annually great sums for the farmers. At the recent fruit growers' convention at Sacramento, Commissioner Jeffrey invited the members to call at the insectary and take some bugs home with them. Certainly the ingenuities of science have rarely been put to better use.—New York American.

Killed in Mines.
In the harvest of death the St. Paul mine, with 340 to 393 dead, ranks next to the highest if not the most fatal of recent disasters in our coal fields—the highest of any in the West. At Monongah, W. Va., 360 men were killed; at Harwick, Pa., 158; at Darr, Pa., 238; at Marianna Pa., 162; at Lick Branch, W. Va., 117. In the year 1907 our American coal mines exacted a death toll of 3,125 lives and 30,000 all told in the last two decades.

He then got a box and in three days he passed a tape-worm 45 feet long. It was Mr. Matt Freck, of Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pa. I am quite a worker for Cascarets. Buncombe Talk.
What the president has assured us is the very best tariff the Republican party ever made was enacted six months ago. If it made some reductions in duties it did not reduce the amount of protection any of the tariff beneficiaries had, and on several items it is not denied that it increased it. The report just issued by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, says: "Destitution is estimated as now being one and a half times as great as in normal periods. The association is visiting and aiding 4,200 families, as compared with fewer than 3,000 in 1906 and the early part of 1907. Charity workers notice a general tendency to cut down the quantity of food consumed by each family. When the prices were highest, a week or so ago, very few mothers of the poor were able to butter their children's bread for breakfast."—Philadelphia Record.

Where Britons Best Us.
And now the third parliament of King Edward is in session. Our English cousins have something to learn from us in the matter of elections for their national lawmakers, stretching them out as they do through a period of many weeks, while we elect our representatives in one day. On the other hand we have an important lesson to learn from them. Their members of the new house of commons are already in session while the mandate of the constituents is fresh in their mind and that of the public. When we elect representatives in November they do not take their seats—except in case of an extra session—until December of the following year. This means a lapse of more than 12 months, during which period the situation which gave rise to their election may materially change.—New York Herald.

Oldest Ginkgo Leaf in Captivity.
Thirty feet beneath the surface of a newly built railroad in Spokane, Wash., a ginkgo leaf was found last spring, its age being estimated at 100,000 years. "It bears a message of more certainty than those carved in tablets of stone," writes Fred Niederhauser, in Harper's Weekly. This discovery tends to substitute the theory that the coast section has been formed by successive upheavals of the great sea dyke which has now developed into the system of the Rocky Mountains. So violent were the upthrusts that in the process the beds of the inland lakes or arms of the sea were turned into rock. The clay was changed to slate, the sandstone to quartzite, the limestone to marble."

Ants.
It was proved long ago that ants have the power of seeing the (to human beings) invisible rays of the ultra-violet portion of the spectrum. They fear the light for their larvae, and when allowed choice between different degrees of light always carry them to the darkest place accessible. When given the choice between a compartment lighted with yellow light and one dark to human eyes, but under the actinic ray, the ants unhesitatingly choose the yellow light, showing that to their eyes it is darker than the other, to man invisible.
