Weary of Womanhood.

"I wish I had been born a man; it is the one regret of my life," declared Mrs. Lillian Duncanson, president of the Political Equality league, before the members of the literary round table of the Chicago Culture club recently. "I am tired of being a woman, of being told to put on a pretty gown and smile in order to influence some alderman to see things in the light he should see them—as women see them."—Chicago Tribune.

Household Affairs

Preserving Delicate Colors.

In muslin and lawns the delicate colors fade oftener in drying than in washing. This is my way: Wash in suds of rain water if obtainable, and if not, soften the water by putting good soap in it. Do not rub soap on the goods unless very soiled. Do the work quickly, and do not allow the material to lie long in the suds. Rinse well, dip at once into cold starch which has had bluing added; spread on double sheet, cover with another sheet, roll, let lie an hour; iron on wrong side with hot iron.-Boston Post.

Handkerchief or Glove Case.

Take a fancy paper napkin and two plain white napkins, place between the two white napkins a piece of sheet wadding the size of the napkins, then place the napkins on the fancy one and divide them in thirds, laying the first third over the second and stitch a piece of ribbon around the whole thing, then take the third that is left, and lay that over the second and place a bow of ribbon on the centre of it. It will take about three yards of ribbon to make a very pretty case.-Boston Post.

Enlarging a Shirtwaist.

When a good shirtwaist is outgrown it may be made larger by taking off the collar band, cutting the waist in a straight line from top to bottom and putting in one or more rows of insertion, back and front. If it is only too short-waisted, cut off as for a pointed or square yoke, back and front, and put in insertion, and about two miles a second, and each then put the body of the waist back of the largest of them, according to then put the body of the waist back on. Cuffs may be made longer or larger in the same way. And if the collars want to be made higher, insertion can be added to them.—Boston Post.

Kitchen Hint.

Perhaps some Post reader may be as short of room for her kettles as I If so, she may be glad to know how I am making use of every bit that I have. I have a deep cupboard in my kitchen, with five or six inches of space between the door and shelves. Have taken three equal lengths of very narrow hardwood moulding and screwed them across the inside of the door, the second strip fourteen inches below the first, and the third, eighteen inches below the second. In each strip, I have put three little brass hooks at equal distances apart, and on these I hang medium-sized kettles and saucepans, each in its own particular place. On the lowest strip I hang, also my bread toaster, potato masher, and several other small utensils. Behind each strip, in the space made by the panels of the door, I slip two kettle lids. I find this arrangement gives me a good deal of room and is very convenient also.—Mrs. A. T. Hamlet, in the Boston Post.

Repairing China.

To repair a bit of fine china apply to the edges of the broken pieces a mixture composed of plaster of Paris to walk around the town in which and dissolved gum tragacanth, fit the she lived. The stone is supposed to several parts together, tie them firmly, and leave the article undisturbed until the cement has thoroughly dried and hardened.

Or the pieces of china may be cemented together with a soft paste made of plaster of Paris and a solution of gum arabic, tied in place with a cord and then placed in a pan containing cold milk, which should be allowed to heat slowly until it boils, The pan must then be taken from the fire, and after its contents have gradually cooled the china article removed and set away to dry.

Silver photograph frames, candlesticks, vases and desk ornaments may be repaired with jeweler's solder, cleaned with whiting, and then kept permanently bright by means of a lacquer coating.

White cement will hold together pieces of broken glass provided the article is not afterward washed in hot water.-Baltimore Sun.

Potato Cakes .- Two cups mashed potatoes, a little pepper, salt, nutmeg, yolk of one egg, form into cakes, put into a buttered pan, brush over the top with the white of the egg and brown in a quick oven. Nut Hash .- Chop fine cold boiled potatoes and any other vegetables desired that happen to be on hand. Put them into a buttered frying pan and heat quickly and thoroughly. Salt to taste; then, just before serving, stir in lightly a large spoonful of and take each one away from its liquor; boil some vinegar, equal quantities, with the liquor of the oysters; put in some whole mace; drop the oysters into the boiling liquor, and lift them speedily from the fire; then bottle them. This method keeps the oysters from shriveling.

Nut Mince Pies .- One cup of walnut meat chopped fine, two cups of chopped apples, one cup of raisins and one and one-half cups of sugar mixed with one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and allspice, and one-half teaspoonful each of cloves and salt, one-half cup of vinegar and one-half cup of water or fruit juice. Mix thoroughly. This quantity makes two large pies.

Potato Croquettes.—Take six boiled potatoes, pass them through a sieve; add to them three tablespoonfuls of ham, grated or minced finely, a little grated nutmeg, pepper and salt to taste, and some chopped parsley; work into this mixture the yolks of three or four eggs, then fashion it into the shape of balls, roll them in bread crumbs, and fry in hot lard, and serve with fried parsley.

The Earthquake Wave.

Seismologists say that every great earthquake causes pulsations which extend for thousands of miles in all directions on the globe, and one eminent authority has likened such pulsations to the long low swells that sweep across the ocean. Not long ago an attempt was made to measure the heighth and length of the waves of an earthquake that occurred in Greece, the pulsations of which were perceived by the aid of a specially constructed pendulum at Birmingham in England. The pulsations, or waves, passed through the rocky crust of the earth with a velocity of the investigator, must have been about twenty-eight miles in length, but only half an inch in height!—Harper's Weekly.

The Father of Waters.

According to John Fiske, it was in the year 1519-one hundred and twenty-one years before the Mayflower reached Plymouth Rock-that the Mississippi was seen by the eyes of a white man. Says Fiske: "Proof was already at hand that Florida was not an island, for in 1519 Alvarez de Pineda had followed that coast as far as the site of Tampico in Mexico, where he found Cortez and his men. Pineda then turned back, and after a while entered the mouth of the Mississippi, which he called Rio de Santa Espiritu. He seems to have been the first European to sail upon this great river. How far he ascended it is not clear, but he spent six weeks upon its banks trading with the Indians."

For the Scandalmonger.

The Orleans Museum has just been enriched with a curious relic of the past which some workmen in making excavations in the city came across. It is a stone representing a grinning figure, showing the teeth, the countenance being repellant enough. In this way the loquacious woman, the scandalmonger, was brought to her senses. The stone, suspended by a chain, was placed round her neck. and so accoutred she was compelled date about the sixteenth century .-London Globe.

Spreading English Language.

"Let me tell you," said Count Kielmansegg, governor of lower Australia, "that the English language, which will be studied in the new reform grammar school in Vienna, is the most important in the life of a business man. Latin is all very well for scientists; Spanish—you won't get very far with that; French does capitally for evening parties; but everyone ought to know English. If you want to travel-and every young man should-you will see how important English is. It is a 'world language." "-New York American.

Once Respectable.

"Bushranger," once a respectable term, has now sunk to the lowest depths. In the early Australian newspapers such advertisements as "Wanted, a good bushranger," were quite common. The word then was synonymous with "bushman," one skilled in knowledge and experience of bush life. But now a "good bushranger" would be as ridiculous as an honest burglar, for a bushranger is the superlatively bad man of the antipodes—a bank robber, a despoiler of gold escorts and mail coaches and the terror of the countryside.

A Good Head For Business

"I want a hatpin," said little Mary of four years, as she gazed eagerly at the cushion full of sparkling ornaments on the milliner's showcase. "How much is it?" she asked after making a very deliberate choice and laying her purchase money, a bright penny, on the counter. "Oh, nothing," returned the kind-hearted Mrs. Briggs, as Mary's mother was one of her regular customers. Imagine her amusement as the little "bargainnut meal for each person to be served. hunter" said most eagerly, "I'll take

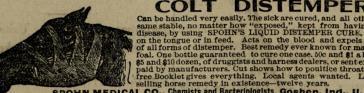

Each of the chief or-gans of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

Tiny Baby's Pitiful Case.

"Our baby when two months old was suffering with terrible eczema from head to foot, all over her body. The baby looked just like a skinned rabbit. We were unable to put clothes on her. At first it seemed to be a few mattered pimples. They would break the skin and peel off, leaving the underneath skin red as though it were scalds. Then a few more pimples would appear and spread all over the body, leaving the baby all raw without skin from head to foot. On top of her head there appeared a heavy scab a quarter of an inch thick. It was awful to see so small a baby look as she did. Imagine! The doctor was afraid to put his hands to the child. We tried several doctors' remedies but all failed.

"Then we decided to try Cuticura By using the Cuticura Ointment we softened the scab and it came off. Under this, where the real matter was, by washing with the Cuticura Soap and applying the Cuticura Ointment, a new skin soon appeared. We also gave baby four drops of the Cuticura Resolvent three times daily. After three days you could see the baby gaining a little skin which would peel off and heal underneath. Now the baby is four months old. She is a fine picture of a fat little baby and all is well. We only used one cake of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. If people would know what Cuticura is there would be few suffering with eczema. The contention of a writer in Health and Strength that with woman's progress toward equal rights her physical strength is also asserting itself, have caused much controversy in European journals. "The average height of England's girls," says a writer in Figaro, "was five feet three inches in 1895, and today it is five feet five inches. This would be pleasant news to me if it were not also a fact that the sterner sex is growing shorter." Marcel Pre-vost, discussing the subject, believes that sports have made the women taller, and says: "Be on your guard, modern man. Your position was never in greater danger than now. Check the retrogression or stop the advance of women while yet you are the larger and stronger. Another inch and you will have become the weaker sex."
