The entertainment given by the teachers and pupils of the Pine Glen school was a grand success. The singing, speaking and dramatic effects produced by those who took part, showed careful, painstaking work on the part of the teachers as well as a willingness to learn and a desire to excel on the part of the pupils. Such entertainments are a good thing. They help to bridge the gap which often exists between the school and the community at large.

EPWORTH LEAGUE LESSONS

SUNDAY, APRIL 10

The Christian's Sacrifice—Praise—
Heb. 13: 16; Hos. 14: 1-3.

We are told that the opening words of Hos. 14 are really predictive—that they mean "the time will come when thou shalt return," and that they refer to the small minority of the Hebrew nation. The great majority were, of course, hopelessly lost, for they would not repent. In Exod. 23: 14-17, in which the three great annual feasts of the Jews were appointed, we read, "And none shall appear before me empty." The admonition is repeated in Exod. 34: 20. In this chapter in Hosea words are suggested to take the place of sacrifices and burnt offerings—not the words of God, nor of the prophet, but the sincere words of a penitent people. The meaning of Hosea here seems to be identical with that of the psalmist in Psa. 51: 17: "The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise."

The author of the letter to the Hebrews was discussing the relation of the work of Jesus on our behalf to that of the high priest and had just compared the burning, without the camp, of the bodies of the animals whose blood had been brought into the holy place, with the suffering of Jesus on the cross. His exhortation, therefore, "Let us offer up a sacrifice of praise," has in it the thought of "bearing the reproach of Christ."

The Meaning of the Theme.
We are in the habit of contrasting words with deeds in the religious life to the disparagement of the former. The saying, "Actions speak louder than words," is a fair statement of the attitude of the average person on this theme. But, fundamentally, there is no difference between deeds and words as expressions of the religious life. If the words are sincere, they are acceptable unto God, and not even deeds are acceptable that are not sincere. In this matter of sacrifices, for instance, the multitude of them had no weight with God unless they were expressions of genuine devotion. Isaiah even represents God as being displeased with them (Isa. 1: 13): "Bring no more vain oblations; incense is a nabomination to me."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

APRIL TENTH

Topic—God is Here. Psalm 139: 1-12.
"In Him we live." Acts. 17: 22-31.
All-present Spirit. John 4: 21-24.
God in the desert. Gen. 28: 10-17.
With us in Christ. Matt. 1: 22, 23.
God in the heart. John 14: 17-23.
God always. Matt. 18: 20; 28: 20.
God knows whence my ways come from and whither they go, and I know only where they are (v. 3).
I am beset by God behind and before; not, however, as by a hostile army, but as by a protecting wall (v. 5).
We cannot understand how God can possibly know and be as much as He knows and is, but the more we think about Him, the nearer we approach to that understanding (v. 6).
We run away from God's leading, and flee from His protecting, and reject with scorn His Blessedness. Is there greater folly than this? (v. 10).
Suggestions.

Spend some time, before you pray to God, realizing His presence with you there.

Before you pray to Christ, think of Him as He was at some time on earth, healing Bartimaeus, for example, or talking in the Bethany home, or walking on the sea; then remember that, just such as He was then, He is now with you in your room.

Christ departed from earth and the Holy Spirit came so that we could think of God not as merely in Palestine but as also in London and New York and Chicago.

Only one thing shuts out God from any place; He cannot be where sin is—except, indeed, as a judge.

Illustrations.

We can go wherever there is air, but there is only a thin layer of air around the world. God is to our spirits what air is to our bodies, and we can go everywhere throughout all universes, because He is everywhere.

Gravity increases as the square of the distance a body falls; but a loving heart carries its own distances, and we are everywhere equally near to God if we love Him.

Ohio Legislature.

Columbus, O.—With but sixteen negative votes the house of representatives passed the big Woods public utility commission bill. All hostile amendments were rejected and the bill goes to the senate with all its strong corporation regulatory features intact. After disposing of the Woods bill the house, following a bitter debate, threw the Norris employers' liability bill, the big labor measure of the session, into the discard. By a vote of 59 to 41 an amendment creating a commission of four members to study the question and report to the next assembly was adopted.

Eminent Naturalist Dead.

Cambridge, Mass.—Alexander Agassiz, the eminent naturalist and president of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, died on the steamer Adriatic, Southampton for New York. The news came in a wireless message from Rodolphe Agassiz, his son.

NATIONAL GAME.

The Giant Colts won the team championship at Marlin, Texas, by defeating the regulars 5 to 4 in ten innings.

Albert Klawitter, who was a member of the Shreveport team last year, got a great reception from the fans there.

John ("Dots") Miller will receive $3000 for his work with Pittsburg the coming season. Nice money for the second year in the big show.

Frank Farrell says Vaughn looks as if he'd make the best pitcher on the Highlander staff and that Foster is a short stop on the Owen Bush order.

It was a serious oversight on Eb-bets' part not having the schedule extended three months longer so he could get in a game on Christmas Day.

It is announced that the American League's greatest individual star, Ty Cobb, has signed a new three-year contract with Detroit at $9000 per annum.

Catcher Jack Hardy has re-signed with the Washington team. In the catching department Manager McAleer now regards his team as formidable.

Umpire Johnstone, of the National League staff, put in the time agreed to officiating at games in Princeton, thus getting his eye in for the penultimate season.

Manager McGuire, of the Cleveland, is in raptures over the resurrection of Elmer Flick. The once formidable outfielder of the Blues is showing every bit of his old-time brilliancy at Alexandria, La.

Catcher John G. Kling, formerly a member of the Chicago National League team, will be penalized, but reinstated into organized baseball, but not with the consent of Ban Johnson, president of the American League.

Commodore Arthur Curtiss James, N. Y. C., attended the launching of the new flagship Aloha.

Brooklyn, some one says, has had more star athletes at Yale than any other city in the country.

Sewanee, which played Princeton at football last year, has arranged for a game with Chicago in 1910.

"Tex" Rickard and Jack Gleason, promoters of the Jeffries-Johnson fight, declare that the location of the fight is still unsettled.

Membership in the Grand Circuit having been denied to Grand Rapids, the Driving Club of that city will join the Great Western Circuit.

In the opening game of the polo carnival at Lakewood the New Haven Country Club defeated the Freebooters by 8 goals to 0 in four periods.

Steve Farrell, the pro. sprinter, has a contract to train the athletic teams at Ohio State University. Mike Murphy and Johnny Mack recommended him for the place.

It is an odd phenomenon that every athletic trainer at every college believes firmly that his particular faculty athletic committee is the strictest of them all, which is mathematically impossible.

The Richmond (Ind.) High School has taken the hammer throw off its list of sports in hope that its example will be followed generally. Well, in 1905 Columbia abolished football with a like object.

Prof. Edmunds Is Dead.

Baltimore—Prof. J. Raynor Edmunds, of the observatory staff of Harvard university, died of paralysis at Johns Hopkins hospital.
