A reception followed the wedding, after which the couple left on a wedding tour and upon their return to Bellefonte will make their home with the groom's father on Bishop street.

About two o'clock Sunday night the dwelling house owned by George Anderson and occupied by Samuel Haupt, located along the road leading to Roopsburg, was destroyed by fire. There was no one at home but Mr. Haupt and he had a narrow escape from being burned to death, having jumped out of a second story window to save his life. How the fire originated is a mystery. Neither party had any insurance.

ances that work would be commenced soon.

Some time ago there was considerable agitation regarding the holding of an "old home week" in Bellefonte during the coming summer. We frequently hear an echo of this but it seems that no one wants to take hold and get the movement under way. There are many Bellefonters who would pay their native town a visit if such an event were gotten up and the affair would likely prove a paying one to the business men. Who is going to take hold and start the ball a-rolling before it gets too late in the season?
