CENTRE HALL REPORTER.

Centre Hall, Pa., April 10th, 1868.

LOCAL ITEMS.

THE GRAIN FIELDS.—Since the snow has disappeared, and the surface of the ground become expared to view, we notice the [illegible] and promising appearance of the grain fields. Their present indication is for a fair crop.

IRON CITY COLLEGE.—A scholarship to this institution for sale at this office, and to be had at a bargain.

THE weather last week was remarkably fine, up to the 2nd, when it changed to rain and cloudy, with frequent showers of rain, 3rd, was clear, but colder. 4th, cold and cloudy, and in the evening we had a snow storm, which continued all night. Next day Sunday it had changed to real stormy, cold winter, with the ground covered with snow.

SNOW.—We had quite a fall of snow last Tuesday, in depth about 12 in. Next day, 8th, was characterized by the most violent storm we have had for many months. 9th, calm but cold.

The grain fields in this county, present a fine and promising appearance.

Our farmers during last week were busily engaged plowing, the ground having been in fine order for that work.

☞ May we ask our friends to aid in increasing the circulation of the REPORTER? Cannot each one of our present subscribers send us at least one name with the subscription price, which is $1.50 in advance. Friends, try it at once. ap10,3t.

THE INCLEMENCY of the weather having detained the carpenters in the work of completing our new office, we could not possibly issue more than a half sheet this week. We regret this more than any of our readers can do, but the delay caused was unavoidable and beyond control. We were exceedingly anxious to furnish a full sheet this week, and for the above reasons beg of our readers to bear with us, and next week will undoubtedly find us all right.

All advertisements bearing delay, are postponed for next issue.

$60,000 worth of grain was shipped from Centre county in the month of January.

LOCAL NEWS.—We will thank our friends of Potter and surrounding townships, for all local items of interest they can furnish for publication. Only communicate to us the facts, and we will put them in shape for the paper.

ADVERTISE.—The REPORTER has a large circulation all through Penn and Brush-vallies, which business men will do well to note. As an advertising medium they will find it all they could desire.

WE would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Shortlidge & Co., Bellefonte. They now have their Patent Flame Lime Kiln in operation, which burns the best lime for whitewashing, produced in the State of Pennsylvania. Shortlidge sells the best Anthracite coal offered to consumers in Centre county.

WHAT we have seen at Geo. D. Pifers store, at Bellefonte, is more than we can tell here. In short, every thing in the line of Dry Goods, Groceries and Queensware, that men, women or children could wish for. His new stock has just been opened, and our farmers will find it to pay by giving him a call. He has the finest store in the Brockerhoff Row, and none of his customers ever leaves him without acknowledging that his is the place for bargains. Try it.

THE Phrenological Journal is fresh, racy, vigorous. Among the portraits and characters are, Addelina Patti, Isaac Jennings, M. D., Atten A. Griffith, the Wester Elocutionist, Charles I. of England, King and Qeen of Greece, twelve prominent Jewish divines. Price, 30 cents a number, or $3 a year. S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York.

THE NURSERY, for April is an excellent number, and just the thing to entertain juveniles. Send for a specimen copy, and see how happy it will make your little ones. Published in Boston.

THE FAIRBANKS' SCALE to-day is better than ever before. Their sharpest rivalry has been with themselves, and in this they themselves have alone succeeded. The excellence and rigid accuracy with which they have built up their splendid reputation is still keeping that reputation bright, and their scales still stand far beyond all others in durability, uniform accuracy, and convenience.

THE JUSTLY CELEBRATED

PATENT METALIC CLOTHES LINE.—These Clothes Lines are a practical, commonsense article, and adapted to the wants of every family. This line is composed of Metalic substances, and will not corrode. The finest linen can be placed upon it without becoming in the least soiled. The finest fabric can also be removed in the coldest day of winter, without the least particle of injury. This line, if permanently fixed, need not be taken down—is always ready for use. Will last a lifetime, if properly taken care of. Retail price three cents per foot. Mr. G. W. TWITMEYER, is the agent for this line, and will call upon the citizens of Centre Hall, and vicinity, in a few days. The line should be in every yard.

TWO CHILDREN DROWNED.

The Lewistown Gazette, of 1st inst., says: One fo the saddest cases of drowning that has taken place in this county for a long time, occurred on Sunday afternoon last at the Mt. Rock mill dam, about a mile north of town. The wife, of David Riden of Brown township had been on a visit to town, and was returning home in a buggy driven by a boy. In driving along the pike at the dam,—always considered a dangerous place—the horse took fright at a large rock lying in front of Stratford's quarry and commenced backing. As there is no protection whatever the buggy and horse went over into the water, (probably not less than ten feet deep) plunging all into it except Mrs. R. who managed to prevent herself from falling in on the very edg of the bank. The boy, although almost under the horse, also got out, but both children sank and were drowned before their bodies were recovered. The oldest was aged about three years, and the youngest some eighteen months. The sad event called togather a large concourse of people—a great many being out enjoying the fine weather—and some severe comments were made on the carelessness of leaving rocks exposed over Sunday on a piece of road notoriously dangerous, and where some accidents have already occurred. Judicial action will now probably compel some safeguards to be erected, but it is to be regrettea such things are never done until lifeless forms are shrouded in the habiliments of the dead and parents plunged into harrowing grief and sorrow.

DEATH OF A MISER IN NEW YORK.

One of those wretched beings doomed to pass through life the victims of the fell vice of avarice, and making death the self-imposed penalty of factitious misery, was found an attenuate corpse in the house No. 58 Willett street on Monday. The name of the miserable creature was Peter Hendrickson, a native of New York, of German extraction, who thus ended a life of seventy six years, unattended, unwept, unshriven. It appears that Hendrickson formerly pursued the business of a junk dealer, in which he made a considerable amount of money; he owned the house in which he died, besides several other tenements and lots in the vicinity. He was married and had two daughters, the latter also married and residing, one in Connecticut, and the other on Long Island. Being over taken with infirmities, and unable longer to continue actively in business, he secluded himself in a bare unfurnshed room and lived (it is said for thirty years) upon bread and water. His wife for a considerable period clung to the wretched man, and contented herself with the miserable fare which he afforded; reserving to herself, however, the one luxury of a cup of tea per day. The cost of this paltry indulgence, however, led to so many quarrels, and altercations between them, that the wife was finally compelled to abandon the parsimonious wretch to his fate. What his pupsuits were beyond counting his greenbacks and poring over the columns of his bank accounts, are, unimaginable. The room in which he lived was filthy to the last degree. In one corner lay a wisp of straw which had served him for a bed; the floor served him for table, chair and lounge, He was seen occasionally by persons living in the locality, and grizzled, ragged and emaciate as he was, presented the true aspect of the traditional miser. Being missed for a day or two, the police made a forcible entrance to his room, and there found him prone upon the floor, stiffened in the last convulsion of mortal disease. He had apparently struggled long in agony, and seems to have yielded up his spirit with greater reluctance than could have been inferred from the niggardly provision that he made to keep soul and body together. The remains of the unhappy man's last meal, consisting of water and mouldy crusts, were found carefully laid aside to serve for a breakfast which he was doomed never to partake of. Upon his body were found $30, in $10 bills, and five bank-books representing deposits to the amount of over $2,000. These sums, together with the real estate of which he died possessed, will make the snug fortune of about $20,000. All the financial affairs of the deceased have been turned over to the Public Administrator. Coroner Schirmer held an inquest on the body of Hendrickson yesterday. A post mortem examination showed that the cause of his death was aneurism of the aorta and ossification of the mitral valves of the heart, in accordance with which the jury found their verdict.

It has been described that under the new law Washington University, Mo., is bound to pay State and county taxes, notwithstanding its charter provides for perpetual exemption.

The City of Bangor, Me., to secure the building of the European and North American Railroad, and the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad has pledged its credit for $1,000,000 to the former and $15,000 per mile to the latter.

The New Hampshire Radical State Convention for the choice of delegates to the National Convention is to meet at Concord on May 5.

Abraham H. Mills, the canal-boat Captain killed Pat Malone in Buffalo, yesterday. He maintains he killed Malone in self-defence.

On Saturday, in the Franklin House, Tuscumbia, Ala., a dispute occured between Mr. Cunningham, formerly of the Confederate, and Mr. Collins, of the Federal Service, about the electisn in Arkansas, Mr. Collins shot Cunningham dead.

The Democrats have made a gallant fight and we hope to hear that they have reduced the Radical majority of last year. They deserve all credit for their pluck in fighting for principle against overwhelming odds in the way of voters. Honor to the brave men who prefer to be in the right with a minority rather than in the wrong with majority!

Mr. E. H. Butler, of Philadelphia, formerly a prominent publisher, has just died at Germantown.

A spicy little afternoon paper called the Evening News has just made its appearance in Richmond, Va., under the auspices of Messrs. Thomas H. Wynne and John Graeme, Jun'r both of high position among journalists. The new publication starts with every element of success.

No arrests have been made of the parties interested in the New Orleans warehouse frauds.

General Sheridan left Leavenworth on Monday for Omaha to join the Peace Commissioner, en route for Fort Laramie.

THE "HIGH COURT OF IMPEACHMENT" ON SATURDAY.—The proceedings under the impeachment articles on Saturday were unimportant and equally uninteresting. They were confined to the examination of H. L. Walbridge, shorthand reporter of the St. Louis Democrat, of Joseph Dear, another shorthand reporter, and of R. S. Chew, chief clerk, of the State Department. Walbridge testified to having stenographically reported the President's speeches at St. Louis, on the 8th of September, 1866. In one of the three speeches made by Mr. Johnson in that city on that day, the pointed comparative reference of the Radical leaders to Judas Iscariot occurs. The speeches were read by the witness in their emphatic sentences by order of Butler, but the dramatic recoil was greater than the dramatic effect. Dear's testimony was to the same purport. Mr. Chew's testimony went to show the changes made in issuing commissions to Federal appointees since the passage of the Civil Tenure act. The time named prior had been "during the pleasure of the President;" these words have been changed to "subject to the conditions prescribed by law." The latter form has obtained ever since the Civil Tenure bill passed over the veto. C. Eaton Creery, Appointment Clerk in the Treasury Department, was recalled. He identified a letter from Mr. Johnson to Mr. McCulloch, of date August 14, 1867, informing the latter that in compliance with the Civil Tenure bill, Stanton had been suspended and Grant appointed Secretary of War ad interim. Butler's attempted point in this was to demonstrate Mr. Johnson's recognition of, and official action under that bill. A list, prepared by the Secretary Seward, of removals of heads of departments since the organization of the Government, was then put in evidence by Butler. Appointments to the same positions during the same time were scheduled. At this point Butler announced the prosecution closed. Reservation was asked and granted of a right to submit evidence, oral or documentary, of a kind cumulative of facts already brought out. Mr. Curtis, counsel for the President, here asked for a postponement of proceedings till Thursday. He stated the delay would enable them to systematize their testimony: would expedite matters when they were ready to put in their testimony; which testimony would comprise few witnesses, but would include considerable documentary evidence which time was required to clasify. That the request really needed this extended explanation was apparent so soon as Judge Curtis was seated. Conness moved that Wednesday be substituted for Thursday. Cries of "give them what they ask "from Senators in all parts of the chamber pointedly reflected on the repudiated Californian. Sumner attempted to hector the Chief-Justice into allowing surcharged managers to oppose the motion for delay. Mr Chase directly cilenced Sumner, by constrneting the motion into a proposition for adjournment, and forbade all debate. Sumner subsided in sputtering exasperation. Vote was taken; the delay was granted; yeas 37, nays 10—only Cameron, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Drake, Morgan, Pomeroy, Stewart, Thayer, and Sumner being willing to deny the moderate request of the counsel for the President.
