A Young Lady's Throat Cut From Ear to Ear by Her Lover.

On Monday last William Kidd, a young man of 22 or 23, living three or four miles from Glenhaven, Wis., visited the house of Mr. McEvers where a young lady, Catharine Jordan, resided, to whom he was warmly attached and had been paying his addresses for some time, but who, it would seem, did not reciprocate his affection. He invited her to take a ride with him, but owing to disinclination, and to previous indications of a revengeful spirit, she declined his invitation, and at last accepted, only upon the request of others, who thought it would be for the best.

Kidd made his way for a kind of by road, some five miles northeast of Glenhaven. Here, it is presumed, he pressed his suit with all the energy of a man with deep passions who loves deeply and could not brook a refusal. She refused to become his wife. The very devil himself seems to have taken possession of him. His love was turned to hate. Stopping in a dense timber he drew forth his knife or a razor—for he was evidently prepared for the emergency, and proceeded to murder the girl. When found she had her throat cut from ear to ear, her blood stained the entire vehicle, and after life was extinct he threw the body out, and it fell beside the road, where it was found on Tuesday morning.

Kidd drove back to near his father's house, hitched the horse, and took a small bay mare and made off for parts unknown.

Kidd and Miss Jordan were brought up together in the same neighborhood and have associated together from childhood. The parents of each are farmers and people of the highest respectability. He has been paying his addresses to her for two years or more, but has always been received coolly, and there are reports of another lover to whom she was at least much more attached than to Kidd.

When in the pines last winter, he wrote her a letter, telling her that if she did not marry him she would be of no account to any other man, and one report declares that he had twice attempted to shoot her, once through her window at night, and at another time in a like stealthy manner.—Dubuque (Iowa) Herald, June 18th.

The South Gerrymandered For Grant.

We present today, in the shape of extracts from the pretended constitutions of the South, certain information of the gravest political importance. Prior to the Presidential election there is to be, as shown by these extracts, a new registration of voters in the South, under the auspices of the negroized State governments established, or to be established, in that section by Congress, and it can readily be perceived in the light of this startling circumstance that, if this thing is to be permitted, Grant has the seventy electoral votes as safe as if they had already been announced for him in the House.

In every single one of the pretended constitutions now ready, nine in number, none having as yet been framed for Texas, there is a provision authorizing this registration, and in Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, and Virginia the condition of registering is expressly declared to be an acceptance by oath of the civil and political equality of all men. In Florida the would-be voter is to swear to support the constitution which contains this same doctrine (Art. XVI, sec. 28); and in Georgia, North Carolina, Louisiana, and South Carolina the general power of registration carries with it the power to prescribe this or any other registration oath. How then can there be any fair election in the South under these negroized governments when the carpet-bag men there are not only to say who shall vote but are also to count the vote who cast. Military registration was bad enough—what will carpet-bag registration be. Military elections carried all before them by manipulated majorities of from two to ten thousand, but who can estimate the figures by which carpet-baggers, utterly unrestrained, will carry the South for Grant.

Let no one be deterred by the length of these extracts from their careful and entire perusal. The stake is Presidential, so far as the Presidency is to be affected by the reconstructed vote.—World.

The Democrats of Worth township, organized a Democratic Club on last Saturday evening, with Philip Williams, President, Edward Jones, Vice President, J. H. Morrison, Secretary and—Scholenberger, Treasurer. We hope other townships will follow "suit."

A man by the name of Spitts, while loading bark a few days since at Unionville, was bitten on the finger by a Rattlesnake. Tying a string tightly above the wound, he continued at his work, and experienced but little pain or inconvenience less than in the bitten finger.—Watchman.

The Revolution of this week hints that a national convention of disaffected Radicals will be held at Chicago in September to nominate for the Presidency "some sound man on a platform of universal suffrage, the rights of labor, greenbacks and free trade." Such a convention could not fail to attract general attention by reason of its contrast to the other Radical convention which met in the same city last month, and which adopted a platform without principles and nominated a candidate without a policy.

E. D. Washburne has become spokesman for Grant. All letters to Grant are answered by Washburne. It will be recollected that Donnelly said Washburne carried Grant in his breeches pocket, which Butler said was the appropriate place for small change.

President Johnson charged General Grant with falsehood and duplicity in connection with the surrendering up of the War Department to Stanton. Grant admitted the duplicity, and the President proved the falsehood upon him by five members of the Cabinet. A nice man to elect President.
