CENTRE HALL REPORTER.
FRIDAY, OCT 23rd, 1868.

FOR PRESIDENT:
HORATIO SEYMOUR,
of New York.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:
GEN. FRANK P. BLAIR,
of Missouri.

We are happy to announce the appearance, at last, of "The Lives and Public Services of Seymour and Blair," by James D. McCabe, Jr., a volume of which has just been sent us by the United States Publishing Co., 411 Broome Street, New York.

We have carefully and enthusiastically perused this work, and are gratified to say, that the author has not only performed his work well, but that it is an irrefutable defence of the country's candidates against the vile and malignant attacks of all Radical disunionists. With such a book at such a time, we take better heart for the future of our Nation, and hail with joy the dawn of constitutional liberty, and an era of reason, economy, and governmental justice. Every Democrat in this broad land should have a copy of this great book, and every locality should at once be covered with zealous and efficient canvassers. The time is indeed short, but the harvest is great.
It may not be improper to add, that this work has been reviewed and endorsed by Gov. Seymour and Gen.
Blair, and the public may therefore rely upon standard official and reliable Biographies of our noble leaders.

The Publishers are in want of more Agents.

Now Ready! FOR 1869! The Illustrated Annual Phrenology and Physiognomy, containing nearly fifty portraits of distinguished characters—Civilized and Savage; is published.
The true basis of Education; uses of Culture; How to Study Faces; a Convention of the Faculties; Nature's Noblemen; Eminent Clergymen; Power of Example; Choice of Pursuits, or,

Wit, Humor, with Illustrations; Heads of Victor Cousin, Hepworth Dixon; Wilkie Collins, Rev. John Cummings, author and prophet; Blind Tom; Artemus Ward; Alex. Dumas; Mrs. Ritchie. Mr. Julian; with Indians, Cannibals, and others. Richer in Matter and Illustration, than ever before, everybody will want to read it,

Philadelphia.
The Age makes the appended remarks upon the result in Philadelphia.
We know it to be a truthful picture, and had it not been for radical fraud and colonization, the democracy would have carried Philadelphia by ten thousand instead of 2000. The Age made a gallant fight, and we cannot help asking for it the most liberal support of the Democracy of the state. That paper remarks:

"The result of the great contest in Philadelphia on Tuesday last, is known to all our readers. Here where the battle was fought and won, the means that were used by the Radicals to cheat the people of their rights, are fully appreciated. Never in the history of politics, were such means before attempted by any party. They have no parallel in the records of crime and infamy. The radical leaders commenced by the organization of a gigantic system of colonization designed to fill the ballot-boxes with illegal votes. They then concocted a base conspiracy to impugn the records of a court, and disfranchise thousands of legal voters on account of alleged in-regularity in the issuing of naturalization papers. This was followed by the perpetration of all kinds of outrages before the election and upon the eventful day—outrages which should make common humanity blush, were applauded and approved by men who pretend to respectability, and claim to occupy decent position in society. Yet in the face of all these enormous political swindles, the Democracy of Philadelphia gloriously triumphed and carried their whole city and county ticket by handsome majorities. Had there been a fair election in this city—had the thousands of legal Democratic electors disfranchised been permitted to vote—had the voice of the sovereign people been heard as it sought to express itself at the ballot-box—the majorities for the Democratic candidates would have been four-fold what they were, and there would have been no vestige of corrupt Radicalism left in our midst. This is clear and undisputable. There is not a sensible man in either party to-day who does not thoroughly realize this truth. Honor, all honor to our indomitable Democracy! They have made a record here which proves their invincibility, despite the most fearful obstacles. They have shown what men can do who are nerved to do the right, and who are resolved to achieve success at every cost save that of honor!"

How The Money Is Used.
The question is often asked, how are vast sums of money raised by taxation and impositions of all kinds upon property, labor, and capital, expended by the Radical party? The answer assumes many shapes. In the first place, a large slice is taken off the amount collected by open and unblushing robbery. Radical office holders put their hands in the public purse, and the offense is condoned on account of the partisan service of the offending parties. This is a fact well known. Then the Freedmen's Bureau awards from ten to fifteen millions of dollars each year. A large army is also kept in the South, which eats away the revenues of the government with insatiable voracious appetite. To these instances of Radical plunder and misprudence must be added the monstrous waste of expenses in the legislative department of the government. Mr. Mulkey, in his pamphlet, gives the following statement of the outlay of the Clerk of the House of Representatives for the year ending June 30, 1864-5-6-7 and 8:

Year ending June 30, 1864.....$396,633.40
Year ending June 30, 1865.....481,881.00
Year ending June 30, 1866.....462,445.00
Year ending June 30, 1867.....502,011.00
Year ending June 30, 1868.....725,355.00
Additional compensation.....100,000.00 Total.....$2,568,327.40

By these figures, which are taken from the books in the Clerk's office at Washington, it is demonstrated that the expenditure of 1868 more than double that of 1864. The items are most extraordinary. During the second session of the Fortieth Congress the whole amount of "stationary" would equal an allowance of $20 to each member; there were 25,036 worth of pens for the House; the penknives amounted to $5,620, equal to fifteen knives at $25.50 for each member. In addition to this, the bills of the Sergeant-at-Arms amount to thousands upon thousands of dollars; he charges for 2,840 miles of travel for himself and witnesses; the scandalous details of the investigation of New Orleans riots show that nearly $40,000 were expended, mainly to pay the board, washing and travelling expenses of the carpet-bagging beggars who pretended to be "witnesses."

But criminal as all these outrages are, they are fairly matched, if not overtopped in infamy, by the doings in Washington at the present time. A number of men and boys have been employed for weeks in the Senate folding room, at an expense of over-one hundred dollars per day, preparing Radical campaign documents for distribution in the country. These documents are being forwarded at the rate of 40,000 per day, and the expense of folding them is paid out of the contingent fund of the Senate. One of the documents out is an immense placard, embracing in the four corners caricatures of Seymour and Blair sent to the New York mob, General Foret at the Fort Pillow affair, a list of 30 names as the destroyers of American commerce, and Wale Hampton hanging Union men. It is alleged that this sheet is printed at the expense of the Radical Congressional Committee, but it is otherwise given out that they are printed at the Government Printing Office, and paid for out of the government funds. This is one leak in the public Treasury, and a most important one, and with the other facts presented answer most satisfactorily the oft repeated question, what becomes of the money thrown with such a lavish hand into the coffers of the nation?
If tax-payers would remove the financial load from their shoulders, they must drive from power the thieves and robbers now despoiling the halls of national legislation.

When do ladies carry fire? When they have taper fingers.

Misrepresentations of The South.

Hon. B. H. Hill, of Georgia, has written a letter to the New York Times, in which he thus notices the diabolical system of sustaining the Radical party by fomenting sectional hatred:

"I shall return home 'a mortified if not a wiser man.' Mortified only because I find in the North a bitter, systematic, adroit and persistence misrepresentation of the temper, desires and views of the Southern whites, far exceeding my anticipations. I have stood in the fight and been the target of this kind of warfare before. It was practiced by many of the Secessionists in 1860. The people of the South will comprehend my meaning when I say that the plan of misrepresentation is practiced here with a shrewdness, a persistence, and in a manner to excite distraught and sectional hate to an extent unknown in the South in the most intemperate days of secession. The very same ears that were unemployable in 1850 at the South to induce the people to leave the Union, are now employed at the North to keep them from coming back to the Union. The South did have cause of complaint against the North, for their internal affairs had been persistently intermed-dled with. But the South does not now, and never has desired to meddle with the internal affairs of the North.
The South desires to see the North at the North to the South—the right to regulate the finances, each State for itself."

Mutiny of Coolies—Massacre of the Crew.
San Francisco, October 15.—The bark Mandake reports that a bark, name unknown, left Calis, with sixty coolies and $20,000, the owner and his servant being on board. The first day out the coolies murdered and killed all hands, except the owner and servant, divided the money, and told the owner to navigate the ship to China, which he was unable to do. The vessel sailed north, and passed the Kuril Islands in May, got into the ice, and drifted into the Ochotsk Sea, where the owner escaped on board a whale ship.
When last seen the bark was making way west.

It Will Be Soon Too Late!
By the army, whole States in this Union have been compelled to submit to be governed by negroes? Ten years ago, who would have believed that such an unnatural, horrible abuse could be perpetrated in this enlightened land of the free! This scene of shame and disgrace was enacted, while the people were confused or stupefied by the wild proceedings of their rulers, and unless it is arrested and abrogated, the military power so improperly used, will become a perpetual establishment—a permanent instrument of despotism set up within the limits of the Republic, without the consent of the people, contrary to the policy as well the letter of the Constitution, and contrary to the declaration of rights in all the States. Should it be permitted to continue, the liberties of the people must by it be inevitably swept away along with their supreme authority—and both linked together from the beginning, must perish forever.

Abraham Lincoln on Carpet-bag Congressmen from the South.
The following letter from President Lincoln to General F. Shepley of Maine, written while Shepley was in New Orleans in the latter part of 1862 will be read with some interest now.
We reproduce it to show what Mr.
Lincoln's opinion was of the Radical plan of getting Congressmen from the South. It may have some effect on the admirers of the Late Lamented.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, Nov. 21 1862.)
Dear Sir,—Dr. Kennedy, the bearer of this, has some apprehensions that Federal officers not residents of Louisiana may be sent up as candidates for Congress in that State. In my view, there could be no possible object in such an election. We do not particularly need members of Congress from those States to enable us to get along with legislation here. What we do want is conclusive evidence that respectable citizens of Louisiana are willing to be members of Congress, and to swear to support the Constitution, and that other respectable citizens are willing to vote for them. To send a parcel of northern men as Rep-representatives, elected, as would be understood, (and perhaps really so) at the point of the bayonet, would be disgraceful and outrageous, and were I a member of Congress here, I would vote against admitting any such man to a seat.

Yours very truly,
A. Lincoln.
Hon. G. E. Shepley.

The Riot in St. Laundry Parish, Louisiana—One hundred Negroes Reported Killed.
The New Orleans Bulletin, of 5th, says:

We learn the following particulars of the riot in Opelousas, from Dr. Taylor, of that place, who was present at the time, and an eye-witness of the terrible scene. Its origin is traced to an article published in a radical paper called the Progress, recently established there to disseminate Republican principles, to promote peace and good order in that part of the State, and to do the printing under the famous bill of the Legislature. The editor, a Mr.
Bentley, had misrepresented the conduct of the deputy sheriff, an ex-Federal officer, and was called upon to publish a correct statement.

Instead, however, of making the desired retraction, the editor of the Progress only added insult to injury by publishing a still grosser libel than the first, whereupon he was waited on by the injured party, who proceeded to administer a severe chastisement in the way of a wholesome application of the cowhide to the tune of fifty lashes.
This performance took place in the presence of the negroes who were attending the school over which Bentley presided as domineer. The cowhiding of their preceptor naturally aroused their sympathies, and they set up such a howling as to cause the assembly of a gang of negroes about the schoolhouse, who proposed to commence the work immediately of cleaning out the people of Opelousas. The time had come for work, and it was proposed to "pitch in."

Couriers were then dispatched to the plantations with orders to bring all the negroes well armed. In a short time the town was almost entirely surrounded by these enraged negroes. A company of twenty-five white men then rode out to meet them, and to persuade them to disband. Before reaching the place where the negroes had congregated, the whites were fired upon by a band of negroes, who were ambushed. Five horses were killed and the riders of four badly wounded.
The whites then made an attack upon the assaulting party and succeeded in killing every one of them. The whites after being reinforced, then rode into the crowd of negroes who had assembled just beyond where the attack was made. Upon their approach the negroes fired one volley and then fled. The whites then pursued them and only desisted after killing all they found with weapons in their hands. The next day the various plantations were visited, and the negroes made to understand that unless they surrendered their arms they would be taken out and shot. This threat had the desired effect, and negroes from far and near brought in their arms, several hundred in number, and handed them over to the whites.

During the disturbance the office of the Progress was gutted, and the type scattered to the winds. The editor was not to be found, and has not since been heard of.

Our informant states that the negroes seemed to have learned a wholesome lesson, and manifest now a quiet and peaceful disposition. At the time of his departure all was quiet, and no fears entertained of any further disturbance. The precaution, however, had been taken of posting patrols at various points.

During the riot a number of negro women were arrested, and they were found to have had matches and bags.
The matches, they said, were to fire the town, and the bags to carry off the plunder.

Four negroes were designated as the leaders of the four divisions that surrounded the town, and during the two days of the fight repeated attacks were made upon the town by the negroes, who would fire one volley and fall back and scatter before the pursuing whites. It is estimated that over a hundred negroes were killed and about fifty wounded. The whites had four wounded but none killed.

A few days ago, a young girl, accomplished and beautiful, who two years ago was moving in the highest society in New York, died in the cell of a station house, having been brought there drunk and disorderly from the streets.
Her father, once quite wealthy, had failed in business and died, and she had married a young man from one of the "first families," who had deserted her, leaving her with a child, unable to support herself. She saw no choice but starvation or shame, she chose the latter. She drank to drown her dispair, and in eighteen months met her death.

face of the note are a fac simile of the

Then and Now
Dr. Franklin described the farmer's condition in 1776 as follows:
Farmer at the plow;
Wife milking cow;
Daughters spinning yarn,
Some threshing in the barn—All happy to a charm.

Dr. J. V. C. Smith gives the account for 1868 as follows:
The farmer gone to see a show, His daughters at the piano; Madam gaily dressed in satin—All the boys are learning latin—with a mortgage on the farm!

Old Sam Lathrop, the clown in Forepaugh's circus, has got the bond question reduced to a science. He says the people have to get up at 5-20 and work until 10-40, in order that the bondholders may lie in bed until 10-40 and retire at 7-30. The meaning of the 5-20's, is, it takes the labor of twenty men to support five bondholders in idleness. The laboring man gets $5 of his earnings; and pays $20 to the bondholders.

A young lady at Newport lost a thousand dollar ring. A young gentleman found it. On claiming the privilege of putting it on her finger, he self the young lady, and a hall forth the fore finger of her left hand, the engagement ring finger. The young man was caught but did not finch from his doom, as the young lady's papa is worth two millions.

Civil War in Afghanistan.
London, October 14.—Dispatches from India report the civil war in Northern Afghanistan ended. Azim Shah, who contested the power of Enmor of Cabul having failed to estab-

Molle Everett, the colored woman who was so cruelly beaten at Memphis by her husband recently with a boot-

A fire at Cheyenne on Wednesday, frame stores on Sixteenth street and several buildings on Ferguson street.

The loss is not stated. There was no insurance on the property.

John Pekins was executed at Portsmouth, Va., yesterday for rape. He declared his innocence to the last. A detachment of United States troops was present to preserve order.

George W. Stockton, book-keeper for Gibbon & Brother, Memphis, was found drowned in Wolf River yesterday afternoon. It is supposed that he committed suicide.

At Jeffersonville, Indiana, Thursday night, the 8th, a German saloon-keeper named Munch was fatally stabbed in the abdomen by a drunkard named Helpin. The tragically was brought about by Munch refusing to sell liquor to Helpin until the payment of an old bill.

A brutal prize fight took place in a ing, between Dolan and Wagner.

Thirty-two fierce rounds were fought, when Dolan nearly bit Wagner's right thumb off. The fight was decided in favor of Wagner. Both were shockingly mutilated and had to be carried away.
