FRIDAY, APRIL 28d 1869. Colored Caste-Race Prejudices Exhibited Among the Negroes. While the negroes are inveighing and passing laws against all distinction of race, it is a notorious feet that they of all other people, carry the pride of race to the greatest excess. In a letter written to the New York Times by a Charleston correspondent, he illustrates the fact by depicting a condition of affairs among the colored circles of that city, which is a perfect reflex of our own. He says: "White blood is so highly prized by the legislators of fo-day that I have vet to see the first black negro woman themselves are pure blacks, they all seem to prize this cast of blood so highly that their wives and sweethearts are invariably of a lighter shade. The pride of blood is visible in every possible way. The mulatto no more considers the negro his equal (except for voting purposes) than the white man does. Of course there is more social intermingling, because the mulatto GREAT BARGAINS comes of the black race; but whenever Complete suites of Furniture furnished at they acquire a seperate residence, the mixed race always look askance upon the "black nigger." While the entire colored race-or all the colored races

-vote together they do not always intermarry, except when a pure negro acquires property or position and then he can marry the brightest "yaller gal" in the country. In this way there is a perpetual ferment of a social kind going on, and the trouble is end-
