CENTRE HALL REPORTER.

FRIDAY, MAY 14th 1889.

A Seducer Killed.

Recently there lived at Jarrettsville, Maryland, a man named Nicholas M'Comas, also a woman named Martha J. Cairn. Both belonging to respectable families, M'Comas courted Miss Cairn, and under a promise of marriage, seduced her. In January last Miss C. became a mother. M'Comas refused to marry the victim of his lust. He did not positively refuse, but for the period of more than a year and a half, he made various and insufficient excuses for not marrying. Miss Cairn instituted suit for seduction under breach of promise, still hoping to become the wife of the father of her child. This last resort of the injured woman was treated with scorn and derision by M'Comas, who soon to flatter himself that a court trial, with a chance of acquittal or at most a fine of a few hundred dollars, would end the matter. But the guilty man was mistaken. The avenger had resolved a different purpose. Little did he dream what was in store for him! The earnest and bleeding heart of her whom he had betrayed and ruined was not to be trifled with. M'Comas was free, blithe and gay. His victim was sad, cast down, humiliated and desperate. His reputation had suffered nothing in the opinion of his fellows—hers was blasted, and infamy enshrouded her name. He could go forth into the world and receive no slight—she was shut up as an outcast from society, despised and rejected by her former associates. Shall we wonder that such a case terminated in a fearful tragedy? Yea, rather, ought we not to be surprised at a different result?

On a certain day, about two weeks ago, Nicholas M'Comas left his home, in the village of Jarrettsville, to attend a militia parade. An hour after, Martha J. Cairn mounted a horse and started for the same destination. She rode up to the hotel where hundreds of men had gathered, dismounted, tied her horse securely, repaired to the ladies room of hotel, took off her riding dress, and with a revolver in her hand walked calmly yet firmly through the barroom of the house, under the observation of scores of persons, to the porch in the rear of the building. She saw M'Comas standing within fifteen feet of her, when, raising her pistol and taking deliberate and certain aim, she shot him in the breast. He reeled, grasped one of the pillars of the porch, and in less than a minute fell to the ground and expired. Miss Cairn advanced a few steps and discharged two other balls into the lifeless corpse of her seducer; then walked back into the dressing room, put on her riding habit, passed out of the house, remounted her horse and slowly rode away. All this was done without the least apparent agitation or excitement. A gentleman followed Miss C., and upon overtaking her she inquired if M'Comas was dead. Upon being informed that he was, she replied, "well, I told him what I would do. She returned to her home, and on the next day voluntarily went and gave herself into the hands of the law. It is said that the people of Jarrettsville almost unanimously sympathize with Miss Cairn. Was she right, or was she wrong?

What advantage there is in abolishing the spring elections and heaping all the labor upon the day of the general election in October, we cannot find. Below we furnish an extract from this new radical law.

The people of this Commonwealth are not generally aware that the infamous legislature of last winter has abolished the spring elections, and has compelled the people to hold all their municipal elections on the same day on which the general elections take place. This is done in a section of the registry law, which reads as follows:

Sec. 15. All elections for city, ward, borough, township and election officers shall hereafter be held on the second Tuesday of October, subject to all the provisions of the laws regulating the election of such officers not inconsistent with this act; the persons elected to such offices at that time shall take their places at the expiration of the terms of the persons holding the same at the time of such election; but no election for the office of assessor or assistant assessor shall be held under this act until the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy.

Without petition from any portion of the citizens of the State; in spite, indeed, of prohibitions from some counties against any change in the time of holding their municipal elections, the legislature has made this violent change in the usages of the people. The township officers elected last spring will continue to discharge their duties until the end of the term for which they were chosen. But the people are required by this law to elect new township officers on the second Tuesday of October to take the places of those elected in the Spring, and to hold until the October election in 1870. This applies to all townships and borough officers except the assessors and assistant assessors, who will not be elected under this act until 1870.

Some estimate of the value of the products of the South may be formed from the simple fact that Texas alone has over three million head of cattle. This would enable her to export at least one million head per annum.

The Registry Act passed by the late corrupt radical Legislature, should not be lost sight of. It is a hypocritical measure. An exchange says of it: "Naturalized citizens will be annoyed by prying assessors coming to their doors as early as June next, demanding to see their naturalization papers, and they may look for a monthly or semi-monthly return of this species of molestation until the day of election. White men will be compelled to pay dearly hereafter in Pennsylvania for the right of suffrage. This is the glory of the registry law passed by 'the most corrupt legislature which ever assembled at the State capital.'"

Mechanics and laboring men, native and naturalized, all who work for others, are required to furnish the assessors with the names of their employers to be set opposite their own names, so that Radical politicians may know them. The mechanics and laboring men of Pennsylvania are to be ticketed and numbered, as if they were serfs. They do things thus in imperial France. There police spies dog the footsteps of the malcontented to learn whether they mutter aught against the government. The radicals are introducing the same policy in Pennsylvania. The name of no employee goes on the voting list unless he give the name of his employer to be set over against his own name. It will not do to trust American freemen, and the radical politicians propose to put spies over them. The party of great moral ideas must be sustained at any sacrifice of the liberty or the pride of the citizen. Naturalized citizens, ye who have fled from the oppressions of the old world, witness what radicalism has in store for you in the new. Have your papers ready, and be prepared to give to the assessor the name of your employer by the first day of June next. The radical politicians want to know all about you before the day of voting comes, not for the purpose of detecting fraud, but to bend you to their purposes.

Native born Pennsylvanians, the great party of freedom, as it boastfully styles itself, is preparing some novel experiences for you. You who have been accustomed to come and go at your own will and pleasure, and give no man an account of your movements, are to be put under the supervision of a master. You are to be driven into the herd of voting cattle, your individuality and your independence are to be destroyed, and you are to be represented by the man whose name is to be opposite your own on the registry lists.

This registry bill is but the beginning of the assaults to be made on the liberties of the citizens of Pennsylvania. It is the opening of the sapping and mining operations of the radicals against popular rights. Unless sternly resisted now, it will be encouragement for still further encroachments when another radical legislature shall assemble in the capital. Resist now and hurl from power the corrupt party which insults you in this infamous registry bill. Every naturalized citizen is assailed in this act. Every man who works for another is grossly insulted by being compelled in order to vote to put the name of an employer opposite his own, as if he were a thrall.

The radicals are as bad in squandering the public lands, as they are in robbing the public purse. Here is but a faint idea of their bad policy:—The World says that during the few days session of the Forty-first Congress, bills were introduced to give to railroads, wagon roads, and canals no less than 181,945,645 acres of the public lands. Congress has already given away to railroads 184,813,000 acres of land, or say, as much land as there is in all New England and New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia and Delaware put together, and now another slice of the same size is to be given away. With this gift it is proposed to hand over also $114,300,000 worth of bonds. At this rate, we shall soon need Canada, Mexico and the whole of the West India Islands to supply deficiencies alone. Go on, gentlemen! There is plenty more land out west. It cost the nation nothing, and by a cheerful coincidence the railroad companies seem to get it at about the same price.

They are organizing, at Moscow, a pleasure trip to the United States, in which only such persons as obtain permission from the Russian government will participate. The round trip will cost 900 rubles.

Montgomery, May 1.—The late rains are proving very disastrous, and much cotton and corn has been drowned, causing discouragement to the farmers.

Potatoes sell at eighty cents and one dollar a bushel in Reading. Here they command from one dollar to one dollar and twenty-five cents.
