CENTRE HALL REPORTER.

FRIDAY, JUNE 4th 1890.

Lines Written on the Blank Leaf of a School Reader.

BY JAMES AIKEN.

Just as a careful hand might cull The garden flowers so gay; Behold ye the compiler's work Of thought a bright bouquet!

Historic truth and will romance, The poet's glowing line; Like evergreens with gaudy flowers, In harmony combine.

"Variety's the spice of life," Says some one of the sages; Now, if variety ye seek, Behold it in these pages!

Who ever made a "Reader," pray, And left old Shakespeare out? Such a dull soul would surely leave His sanity in doubt.

And thought of Shakespeare's there's but one, Yet, O, the mighty throng, In every distant land and time, The devotees of song.

Thanks to the men who think and write; Thanks to Compilers too— For when the old bouquet shall fade, They'll gather one anew.

We who were boys, and went to school, Near seventy years ago, Good Lindley Murray's lesson's choice, Nearly "by heart" we know.

And pray, who has selected since, Words purer, more sublime? O, Lindley Murray, thy true taste Hath stood the test of time.

Hugh Blair, of Edinburg, how clear His modest sermon style, And teaching others Rhetoric, He practiced it the while.

Statesmen, philosophers and bards, A pleasant bright array; And by good Lindley Murray's help, I know their names to-day.

Cowper's high-toned, indignant lines Admiring still I read; A firm Republican to-day, He helped to form my creed.

In Beatty's sweetly solemn lines, His "sharp symphonious rung," No purer song was ever heard From any mortal tongue.

How pleasant in my tranquil age, These lessons to recall; The authors of my few old books, I thank and bless them all.

A strange woman has just died in Tennessee, named Rebecca Freeman. While yet in her teens, and an orphan, she was engaged to be married; but her lover died, and she betook herself to a cabin built on the top of a high and rugged hill, in an almost impenetrable forest, where she lived the life of a hermit until her death, at the age of seventy-two. She kept the white slippers and apparel in which she was to be made a happy bride, until the day of her death, and would brood over those remembrances for half a day at a time. Whenever the spirit of sadness fastened upon her she went to her door and blew a long tin, bequeathed to her mother, for hours at a time.

Union of Presbyterian Churches. New York, May 27.—The Old School Presbyterian general assembly met to-day. The committee of conference appointed by the two assemblies reported a plan of reunion of the Presbyterian church, the concurrent declarations of the general assemblies and the recommendation of a day of prayer.

The Pennsylvania Legislature has regulated by law the practice of medicine in the counties of York, Lancaster, Venango, Warren, Adams, Bucks, Northampton, Elk, Lehigh, Armstrong, Indiana, and Crawford. It provides that, after the first day of June, 1870, it shall be unlawful for any person to commence or continue the practice of medicine or surgery in the counties named, who has not graduated with the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

A Washington telegram to the New York Tribune says: A meeting of persons interested in the Imperial movement is called for Tuesday night next to make arrangements for establishing a club at the National Capital. It is said the project will meet the approval of some influential citizens.

The Empire is coming. A New York paper tells of a cat, that every morning wipes his paws up on the hall mat before entering his mistress's bedroom. If his feet leave a mark on the white coverlet of the bed he is told of the fact, and again resorts to the mat, and then if not satisfied that his paws are clean, he dries them by the stove.

A henpecked husband says that "before marriage, I fancied wedded life to be all sunshine, but afterwards I found it was all moonshine."

Girls of the Period can find nice parlors in New York for $200 apiece.
