CENTRE HALL REPORTER.

CENTRE HALL PA., November 5th 1869

Contesting the Election.

We are pleased to notice that the democratic press in different parts of the State are speaking in favor of contesting the late election for Governor. There is no doubt that the majority as now counted for Geary is a clear fraud and that Asa Packer has a clean majority of the legal votes cast for Governor. We join in with the demand—the democracy of Centre join in with it, and ask that a contest be had, and that the majority be no longer robbed of their rights by a mob of unscrupulous jacobins, who have for years been stuffing the ballot boxes in order to defeat the will of the people.

The recent events in Philadelphia are indicative of frauds of the most unblushing character. No radical can longer deny this. Let there be a contest, and let us see whether there is truth in the cry of fraud to figure up a majority for Gaery. If Geary has a majority of the legal votes cast, let him be the Governor—if, on the other hand, it can be shown up, that Asa Packer is the choice of the people, let the democratic party of Pennsylvania insist upon it that he be sworn in. The democratic masses are tired of hearing this continued cry of "fraud," and demand earnest action looking to a contest.

That able democratic organ, the Harrisburg Morning Patriot, strongly urges upon the Democracy to contest the late gubernatorial election, calling upon Asa Packer and the Democratic State Central Committee to move in the matter.

The Carbon Democrat suggests that a Democratic State Convention be held to take into consideration the propriety of contesting the election of Geary. It seems to us that the State Committee should be called together at once with a view to such action in the premises as may be decided upon by a majority of its members. The Pittsburg Post has, also, joined in the demand for an investigation of the alleged frauds committed in the interest of Geary. There is hardly any difference of opinion among the democratic newspapers of the State in regard to the propriety of making a contest. With scarcely an exception, they demand that the fraud and corruption with which the partisans of Geary are charged, shall be investigated and exposed. The State Committee cannot ignore the general sentiment in favor of a contest. It should assemble at an early day.

A Sporting President.

Gen. Grant is fond of theatre-going, horse-racing, and lobbing around the watering places, hobnobbing with the snobs and mobs who steal their living off the country. When not at the white-house, you are sure to find him at the theatre, and from all reports, at theatres of the lowest kind. He is deeply tainted with the late gold gambling operations in New York, which spread ruin and misery all around—his wife is proven to have a hand in to the amount of $24,000. To show how dirty Gen. Grant's tastes run, we copy the following, headed "Grant and the Legitimate," from the Pittsburgh Post:

The extremely pious people who took such a deep interest in the election of Gen. Grant to the Presidency, are daily brought to grief over his evident lack of correct moral principles. Since the murdered Abraham Lincoln did not escape the malodictions of radical divines for attending the legitimate, how shall the living Grant expect to escape them since he prefers to witness the lacivious evolutions of the skirtless ecdysiasts in the can can.

The Washington correspondent of the Radical Cincinnati Times tells of their President—whose memory is to be embalmed in the hearts of all coming generations, and who is to be the bright examplar for the youth of all time,—attending the nude drama in Washington a few nights since, and of a "gag" that Lydia Thompson got off at his expense. The "gag" in question comes so near being the immortal truth, that to a man less obtuse than Grant it would smack strongly of a preconceived personality. But Grant no doubt thought it all right, and that being President, he ought to afford both protection and amusement to his people. In this he is not without an illustrious precedent. We once read of a king whose fool broke his neck trying to turn a summersault, and the king, not to let his Court suffer disappointment turned fool himself, and became the butt of courtly ridicule. Speaking of the fact that the President has neither patronized the legitimate drama nor the opera, the Times correspondent says:

It is remarked that during the two weeks' engagement of the Richings Opera Troupe, who preceeded the Lydia Thompson blondes, our worthy President did not feel interest enough in the performance to attend. But on the second night of the Lydia Thompson Troupe, a distinguished party consisting of the President and two of his brothers-in-law, Collector Casey of New Orleans, and Gen. F. T. Dent, occupied a prominent private box, and as might be expected, were observed of all observers. Grant showed good judgement in not taking Mrs. Grant to witness the lewd and sensual display which closed with the "can-can." The play on burlesque was "Sinbad the Sailor," and in one of the scenes the gentle and modest Lydia dressed extravagantly as "The Girl of the Period," with a "bustle" or "Grecian-bend," on her back as big as a flour barrel and a cigar in her mouth, made a stump speech, in which she said:

"Let's go up to the White House, make Grant a present of a box of good cigars and a bottle of wine, and get him to acknowledge the independence of Cuba."

This "gag" made the "groundlings" laugh, but the judicious grieved. All eyes were turned to the President's box to notice its effect there, but it was observed that the distinguished party at that moment assumed an air of indifference as to what was said on the stage, probably being engaged in the discussion of some important question of foreign diplomacy—in a horn—but at all events, they effected not to notice the vulgar "hit," which was undoubtedly the wisest course to pursue. It was rather mortifying, however, to see the President of the United States exposed to such ribald jokes to his face from a strolling actress."

To ring a bar-keeper's name into a "gag" when he is present by invitation to hear it, is not only tolerable but considered a "crack" advertisement. The propriety of the same thing with the President of the United States is open to discussion.

The Janus-faced character of the radical party is beautifully illustrated in the composition of its State ticket in New York. General Sigel was put on it to represent the bibulous side and Horace Greely to catch the temperance men. The word radical seems a misnomer when applied to such a party. The term hypocrits would be more appropriate.

The Frightful Disaster at Granville, Ohio—Taking Out the Bodies from the Ruins of the Asylum.

Granville, Ohio, Oct. 30.—The terrible catsastrophe which has just occurred here has thrown a deep gloom over our town. The lunatic asylum was quite a large building. The fire, it is said, originated in the culinary department, and by reason of the very dry and old material comprising the structure the flames covered it with fearful rapidity. During the excite ment attendant upon the discovery of the flames, all seemed to have forgotton that in one of the upper stories ten demented persons were confind. These persons were immured in a room that was strongly barricaded, since their paroxysms of rage, which held almost constant control over the them, rendered such a confinement necessary to the safety of the other inmates of the establishment. Their shrieks were appalling as the flames hemmed them in. Desperate efforts were made to save them, but the flames remorselessly checked all advances of those who would have rescued them. The building is now a pile of hot and steaming ruins. Preparations are making to rescue the unfortunate persons who lie beneath the debris. The scene is surrounded with a dense throng of people, and the feeling of grief in intense.

A Horrible, Desperately Wicked Act. Three Boys hold a Fourth over a Fire and Roast Him:

We have heard of an act perpetrated on the 20th inst., near this borough which surpasses in cool ferocity and fiendishness anything that ever took place in this county. It seems that noe day, three boys belonging to this borough or Mt. Carbon, it is not yet definitely known, went out on the road between this borough and Cressona, until they reached a point about a mile beyond Hillside. About a quarter of a mile from the house of a laborer named Hornickel, several children were playing, among them his son Frederick, between 11 and 12 years of age. The boys when they reached this spot, built a fire, seized and dragged Frederick to it, and most horrible to state, held the little boy over it, until he was actually roasted. Then they fled. When found the injured boy was in a terrible condition, and it is feared that he is burned internally by inhaling the flames. He has not been able to talk since the occurrence and is in a critical condition.

We understand that the motive for the inhuman act is supposed to have been revenge for information that Frederick had given of some boys who had recently robbed a neighbor's spring house.

One arrest has been made, and after a partial hearing before Squire Frailey the accused was held for a further hearing on Wednesday next. —Miners' Journal.

THE ELECTIONS ON TUESDAY.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC.

Nelson's Majority Twenty-Five Thousand.

THE LEGISLATURE IN DOUBT

MEAGRE RADICAL MAJORITY IN MASSCHUSETTS

Maryland Overwhelmingly Democratic.

RADICALS DEFEATED IN CHICAGO

Scattering returns form the State show uniform democratic gains, and unless the city gives a largely decreased democratic majority Nelson is probably elected by an increased majority.

The probability is that the democrats have carried the State, unless there are democraitc losses in the interior of the State.

Returns from the interior show heavy democratic gains and indicate that, notwithstanding the democratic loss in New York and Brooklyn, the entire democratic State ticket is elected by from 10,000 to 20,000 majority.

The State legislature is probably republican in both branches. The Senate is close.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The election to-day has resulted in the re-election of Governor Claflin by a plurality of from 10,000 to 15,000. The vote of one hundred and sixty-five towns and cities, including Boston and Cambridge, foot up-Claflin, 43,179; Adams, 37,150; Chamberlain, 10,000. The legislature is claimed by both licensemen and prohibitionists, but is probably nerly divided on the liquor question, and the republicans have a majority in each branch.

MARYLAND

IN CHICAGO

the radicals sustained a defeat.

ALABAMA,

has also gone for the Democrats.

WISCONSIN.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Returns from seventeen towns in Wisconsin show large democratic gains. The radical State ticket is probably elected by a small majority. Grant's majority was 24,147. The radical loss is estimated at over 15,000.

A Race For Life.

We copy as follows from the Jackson (Ind.) Citizen of the 5th ult:

Sunday afternoon the Fort Wayne Railroad sent a construction train up the road preparatory to the commencement of work on Monday morning as is the usual custom. The engineer, anxious, of course, to make his Sunday work short as possible, rushed the train out of the depot and around the curve to the bridge at the top of her speed. Upon arriving at the bridge, however, he saw that which caused him to reverse the engine and apply the brakes with all his force. A man with his wife and two children were on the narrow portion of the bridge, where it is only just wide enough for a train to pass, about midway of its length of 600 feet. Neither end could be reached by the imperiled family before the train would rush upon them; but the father and husband was equal to the emergency. Catching up the children in his arms, he told his wife he would see to them, and bade her run toward the end of the bridge, until the train should reach her, and then jump in the water. She must run for her life, as her safety depended upon her getting near enough to the shore to find shallow water before being overtaken by the train. She did as he directed, and when she felt the hot breath of the iron monster she jumped from the bridge, fortunately alighting in not more than two feet of water and weeds, and the train passed her in safety. But what of the father and little ones? He could not run with them; and while almost distracted with fears for his wife's safety, he was bound to find some escape for them. Taking the little ones in his arms, he coolly and steadily, in the face of the approaching train, lowered himself with them in a brace beneath the bed of timbers, and there held fast within a few feet of the water, while the train came thundering over them. About the time the engine reached the centre of the bridge the exertions of the engineer and brakemen, effected the stoppage of the train; and their assistance was rendered to extricate the frightened family from their yet perilous position, and they went on their way, thankful for their deliverance.

A New Way to get an Old Horse Out of a Well.

A blind horse owned by Andrew Smith of Genoa, Cayuga county, N. Y., fell into an old dry, deep well, a few days ago, and after repeated but unsuccessful efforts to get the animal upon terra firma again, it was decided upon to bury him alive by filling up the well. Accordingly two or three men with shovels commenced throwing in dirt, and as it fell around the horse's legs, he trod it down with his feet. The men continued to shovel, and the horse continued to tred, working his way on the top, till the well was filled, when he came forth from his living tomb, a wiser, if not a frightened horse. This new motive power, so unexpectedly brought to light, deserves to be patented for the benefit of unfortunate blind old horses.

Farnkfort, Nov. 2.—Quite heavy shocks of earthquake were felt last evening throughout Germany and particularly in Darmstadt, Wies-Baden, Mayence and Frankfort.

Terrible Calamities in Europe.

The latest Trans-Atlantic mail brings the report of a terrible conflagration in Hungary. The town of Radosin, the seat of the Catholic bishop, burnt down in less than an hour, and twenty one children were consumed by the flames. The day previous to the fire a heavy storm raged over a large portion of the country. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the 14th of September fire broke out in a barn on the extreme end of the little town, and in less than five minutes there were one hundred and thirty houses seized by the flames. Most of the people were in the fields, and though they returned immediately after they had caught the first glimpse of the fire, they came too late to save their children and cattle. At six o'clock on the same evening only the church, the palace of the Bishop, and five houses remained. Every other building in the town was in ashes. A Franciscan monk, the chaplain of the community, saved the church buildings by his circumspection and bravery. The administrator of the Bishop's property lost his three children. So terrible was the heat that not a vestige of the bodies of the burnt children could be discovered in the ashes.

One day previous to this catastrophe a frightful accident occurred at Koenigsburg, the second capital of Prussia. The King was there on a visit, and whilst he and his staff and family were passing under a bridge in a gondola, the public crowded with such force against the balustrade that it broke, and one hundred and fifty persons fell into the stream. Thirty four of them were taken out of the water dead, among them the three children of a high civil officer, who, together with his wife and children, were thrown down. The parents were saved, but the mother became insane when she heard of the fate of her children. Among the many frightful scenes one is especially heartrending. A young man saw his bride at his side being pushed into the abyss. He jumped after her, hoping to save her. He seized her, as he thought, and swam to the shore, and brought her there alive. But it was another woman he had saved. His bride was drowned and dragged to the shore, a few minutes afterwards, a corpse. Fourteen persons are still missing, and it is generally believed that they also are drowned.

Collision on the Pacific Railroad—Four Persons Killed and Three Injured.

Omaha, Oct. 29.—The westward-bound passenger train on the Union Pacific railroad, on Wednesday, ran off the track near Evanston, Utah. Before the train could be got on the track the emigrant train following, without paying attention to the signals ran into the regular passenger train. One passenger, named John Eustin, was killed, and a Miss Percy wounded in the head, not seriously. Three Mormon emigrants were killed and five wounded.

The Russian government cannot suppress the Skoptsi. Only a few weeks since a party of 400 of these families left the town of Balatschow, and proceeded to a neighboring wood to pray. A madman named Wasiloff declared that he was the Son of God, and, after choosing twelve apostels from the party, called for a human sacrifice. Five victims were at once selected, placed on a number of wagons which had been piled up for the purpose, and burned alive. A woman seized the shaft of the cart and beat two young girls to death; while another female was first trodden under foot and then literally torn to pieces by the fanatical crowd.

Chicago, October 28.—A respectable farmer named Miles Hermansson, committed suicide yesterday morning in the town of Bremen in this county. He first took a shot gun and placing the muzzle in his mouth discharged the contents, causing a most frightful wound; but this failing to cause death after bleeding, and struggling for a short time, he managed to rise and make his way from the house in which this had taken place to his barn, and there hanged himself with a rope. No cause for the act is known. He leaves a wife and family of five children.

Madrid, Oct. 29.—Dissensions have broken out among the different wings of the opposition. The final selection of the Duke of Genoa as King of Spain is now probable. Complete disturbance reigned ta the recent meeting of the representatives of all political parties. General Prim made great efforts to avoid a rupture in the coalition on questions that relate to the church and a future monarchy. The eclesiastical estimates are to be reduced thirty per cent.
