Curiosities of Earth.

At the city of Medina, in Italy, and about four miles around it, whenever the earth is dug, when the workmen arrive at a ditance of sixty-three feet, they come to a bed of chalk, which they bore with an augur five feet deep They then withdraw from the pit beore the augur is removed, and upon its extraction the water bursts through the aperture, with great violence, and quickly fills the newly made well which continues full, and is affected by neither rains nor droughts. But what is the most remarkable in this operation is the layers of earth sa ve descend. At the depth of fourteen feet are found the ruins of an ancient city, paved streets, houses, floors and pieces of mason work. Under this is found a soft, oozy earth, made up of vegetables, and at twenty-six feet large rees entire, such as walnut trees, with the walnuts still stuck to the stem, and the leaves and branches in a perfect state of preservation.
