It can be positively asserted that Secretary Boutwell in his forthcoming report will not recommend an early resumption of specie payments. His report will go to congress in manu-

A return to specie payments is be ing agitated throughout the length and breadth of the land. Almost every Eastern newspaper urges the project, and the press of the West is as unani mously opposed to it. Just as resolotely as the West opposes contrac-tion will the East oppose expansion, and with these two opposing interests working against each other there seems but little probability that any wise legislation can be reached. This is unfortunate. We need a thorough states. manlike revission of currency question Without it business must fall into a still more unfortunate condition.

Jurors Wages.

Last week, we published a rule of Court, adopted at the present term, by which, hereafter, all absent jurors are to be fined. We have no fault to find with this rule of Court, nor with the enforcement of the same in every instance of non-attendance, where a juror can not present a reason justifying his absence. The non-attendance of persons, who have been summoned as jurors, very frequently causes vexation, embarrassment and delay in Court, to a mockery of the summons and a contempt of the authorities, which is not only unbecoming but dangerous. Our rights of person and property are in a measure at the disposal of the jury in the box, and it is of importance that a sufficient number always be present. from which to draw a panel of intellijudgment. But why do persons so small, and is more than eaten up the hotel bills, saving nothing about the loss of time and neglect of business. With the enforcement of the above religion, for there are both orthodox cate. rule, we also favor the raising of the and heterodox champions on either wages of jurors. Instead of $1,50, a side. The Bible in the Public Schools.

There is quite a lively discussion going on just now, amang a number of journals upon the question, as to whether the reading of the Bible be omitted in our common schools. This suestion, which heretofore had been faintly agitated, has become quite prominent since the action of the Cincinnati school-board, which decided that the reading of the Bible shall be omitted in the public schools of that city. We append some of the arguments used upon both sides of the the religious belief of any portion of Protestants and the Vatican Counthe community, trusting to Sunday schools, church influence, and similar means to cultivate the religious nature and to train children in an intelligent and pure faith. It is but little, at best, that can be done religiously in our public schools by a perfunctory daily reading of a chapter in the Bible, Patriot in another column. As a weekly it is equal to any published, and the daily is among the best in the Beecher, in his thanksgiving sermon,

"He would be willing even to exclude the reading of the Bible in our schools, if by that means any class of people would be better satisfied and more zealous in supporting the system. And certainly he, the son of a Puritan and a Puritan himself, could not be suspected of depreciating the importance of Bible reading. The Puritans took their stand on religious toleration; let them stick to their text, and never abandon the principle of perfect free religious toleration, nor suffer others to impose a different principle upon them. "What,' says the Catholic, 'do you think it proper to encourage infidelity-to bring up children without religious education?' Not at all. We do not teach husbandry in the common schools: but it does not, therefore, follow that we wish to make lazy children. Everything in its place. Let the church teach dogmas. Let the common school give intelligence. Let religious instruction be taught in the household, in the Sunday school, in the

To Our Venerable Brother Henry Edward, Archbishop of Westminster. VENERABLE BROTHER.-Health and Apostolic Blessing—Having said, in the letter which we addressed to you, Venerable Brother, on the fourth day of September last, that subjects which had already been carefully examined and decided by an Œcumenical Council, could not again be called in question : that, therefore, no place could be given in the approaching Council for any defense of errors which had been condemned, and that for this reason we could not have invited non-Catholics to a discussion we now learn that some of those who dissent form our faith have so understood those words as to believe that no way is left open to them of making known the difficulties which keep them separated from the Catholic Church, and that almost all approach to us is cut off But so far are we, the vicar upon earth, although unworthy, of Him who came to save that which was lost, from repelling them in any way whatever, that we even go forth to meet them; and nothing do we seek for with a more ardent wish than to be able to stretch out our arms with a father's love to any one who shall return to us. And never certainly have we wished to impose silence upon those who, misled by their education, and believing their opinions to be right, think that their dissent from us rests upon strong arguments which they would wish to be examined by wise and prudent men. For although this cannot be done in the Council, there will not be wanting learned divines, appointed by ourselves, to whom they they may open their minds, and may with con-

er. The Waterhouse boy was walking along the road and heard a growling and rustling of the leaves. Not 20th ult., by Daniel McFarland, upon him, he naturally supposed the noise was caused by some fierce wild animal, perhaps a panther, which has lately been seen in Strafford. Running to the house near by to procure a gun, and returning to the spot again heard the growling and pawing. He fired in the direction whence the sounds came, here the screams of the wounded boy told him that he had shot a human being instead of an animal. The Currier boy was taken home, when it was found that one eve was completely destroyed, and face, tongue and neck perforated shot, so that his life is in a very critical condition.

This Reaper has advantages over all other This Reaper has advantages over all other Reapers now manufactured. One advantage we claim for it, is the lever power, by which we gain one hundred per cent over other machines. Another advantage is the hoisting and lowering apparatus, whereby the driver has under his complete control of the machine; in coming to a spot of lodged grain, the driver can change the cut of he machine in an instant, without stopping the team, varying the stuble from 1 to 14 inches at the outside of the machine, as well as on the inside. It is constructed of first class material; and built by first class machanics. We warrant it second to none. chanics. We warrant it second to none.
