The operators of the Western Union Telegraph Comp., throughout the entire United States, are on a strike at present, and have quit sending lightning over the wires.

Advises from Washington say that the Ways and Means Committee will make but slight changes in the tariff. Yet, radicals about here say the country will go to ruin, if we do not have more protection, and how at the democrats for the tariff being too low.

Some of Stanton's admirers are trying to raise $100,000 for his widow. In Boston, however, they seem to be backward in subscribing, and the committee complain of the "hub-bub" Grant gives $1000.

Attorney Gen. Hoar, whose name Grant sent in to the senate for a judgeship, still meets with bitter hostility among his radical brethren in the senate; they swear never to confirm his appointment, and that Grant must withdraw Hoar's name, about which the great smoker feels a little stubborn. Let's see who'll yield.

At the re-assembling of congress two bills will be introduced, one to remove the Osage Indians to Indian Territory, and secure in settlement $1,250 per acre. The other bill proposes to break up all Indian tribes, and it is the intention to have it pushed strenuously forward.

Cheap Chinese labor is pushing itself southward. On 4th inst, a steamer arrived at Memphis with 275 Chinese on board, bound for Texas, and to work on the Central Texas railroad. The steamer carried five or six hundred Chinese, and works for a few cents wages per day, and his introduction will be objectionable to the American laboring classes. In California there are now some 80,000 Chinamen.

Associations of radical capitalists have been formed to speculate in the introduction of Chinese laborers, and arrangements have been made to bring to this country thousands of these heathen people. How nicely this accords with the radical policy of protection to American labor! Go in, workingmen, and vote the radical ticket, and have the country flooded with cheap Chinamen that your wages may be brought down to a few pennies. Will your eyes open before it is too late?

Gov. Geary on Tuesday appointed Gen. A. L. Russell Adjutant General of the State, to succeed Gen. D. B. McCreary, who was elected to the legislature. Gen. Russell held the same position under Gov. Curtin.

Meeting of the Legislature.

The state legislature met at Harrisburg, on last Tuesday. The Senate organized by electing Mr. Stinson, radical, of Montgomery, Speaker. The House organized by electing B. B. Strang, radical, of Tioga, Speaker.

The action of the radicals of the House, in electing Strang as their Speaker, bodes no good for the people, as he is a leader of the corrupt ring, and no legislation will be had this winter, that will escape the pinching of Strang's committee. The radical "roosters" again hold sway in our state legislature, as they have for years, and nothing good need be looked for from Harrisburg, this winter, the loud cries of some few honest, republican journals, against the corruption that is practiced at Harrisburg, to the contrary notwithstanding.

The corrupt ring rules. The democrats of the House voted for Mr. Brown for Speaker. All honor to them. Mr. Brown hails from Clinton and served one term in the legislature. His record shows him to be the opposite of Strang, as none of his votes are found in favor of jobs and plunder schemes. We are pleased that the notorious Sam Josephs did not succeed in becoming the caucus nominee of the democrats for the speaker, as Josephs is as big a "quack" as Strang, and we are sorry that the democrats of his district, can not find a better man to send to the legislature.

The special correspondent of the Times at Rome says the council have debated eighteen propositions of the syllabus. Seven of the prelates of the church, including Cardinal Panschier and two American bishops, spoke against the opportuneness of the proposition. Scull is the publisher of a radical newspaper, and some two months ago admitted in his own journal that Findley had been fairly elected, and that he (Scull) would not claim the seat.

EXAMPLES FOR BELLEFONTE

We observe that several societies, in different parts of the country, which had engaged Henry Ward Beecher and Horace Greeley, to lecture during the present winter, have recalled their invitations to these gentlemen, on account of their disgraceful connection with the Richardson-M-Farland scandal. A society in Philadelphia, the Young Men's Christian Association, which had engaged both these gentlemen to lecture, has since, for the same reason, rescinded its action, and notified Beecher and Greeley that they need not come. The Day, a daily paper in Philadelphia, having censured the Y. M. C. Association for inviting Messrs. Beecher and Greeley to lecture to them, the Rev. Albert Barnes, the distinguished author and commentator, addressed to that paper the following letter:

No. 429 Walnut st., Dec. 8 1869.
Dear Sir: As one of the readers of your paper, permit me to thank you for the late editorial articles on the Richardson case. I most cordially approve of all that you have said in those articles, and especially of your remarks on the employment of the gentlemen referred to as lecturers before the Young Men's Christian Association. I think the community owe you a debt of gratitude for what you have said, and the manner in which you have said it.

I am, very respectfully yours,
ALBERT BARNES.
Our neighbors at Bellefonte should profit by these examples, and telegraph to Greeley at once, not to come on. If Bellefonte can do no better, let it engage Bill Brown to lecture on the "Court House Ring," and wind up the lecture business with a donation of apple dumplings.

However, if Greeley's lecture is to come off at Bellefonte, we think it should be preceded by an appropriate song, and to have the whole thing thoroughly Greenian, we propose the singing of the following lines, composed by H. G., in 1854, and addressed to the American flag:

Hail to the Stars and Stripes,
All hail the flaunting Lie!
Theaters grow pale and dim,
The stripes are bloody scars—
A Lie the vaulting hymn,
It binds a man in chains,
It yokes the captive's neck,
And wipes the bloody stains.
Tear down the flaunting Lie!
Hail must the stately flag!
Insult no sunny sky,
With Let's a polluted rag
Dropp'd in the waves!
It bears a fellow man
To groan with fellow slaves.
Tear down the flaunting Lie!
Till Freedom lives again,
To rule once more in truth
Among untrammelled men,
Roll up the stately sheet,
Conceal its bloody stains,
For in its folds are seen
The stamp of rustling chains!

We notice of late, that the Bellefonte papers are aping some of the city journals, in giving hyalutin accounts of private parties, describing the dresses worn, the pattern of coats tails, &c., &c. If our neighbors across the mountain, know how disgusting this is in the eyes of a large majority of their readers—the sensible portion—they would at once quit the practice. Whilst such parties may be all right, and we have no objection to them, we hold this practice of aping the city papers, in giving foppish accounts of them in the columns of a newspaper, as simply disgusting, not only to the readers but annoying to the principals and invited guests at such parties, who may be possessed of a spark of modesty.

Letter from Colorado.

DENVER, Dec. 20, 1869.

Editor Centre Reporter.—According to promise I will endeavor to give your readers a sketch of this promising El Dorado, and tell them how to get here, if such may be their wish. I take it for granted that most of them remember the Pike's Peak excitement in 1859-60, when thousands from all parts of the United States, and particularly those bordering on the Missouri, fished hither to make their fortunes, and then go back to their homes. They were called the "Pike's Peak mines," though they are in reality many miles from that famous mountain. It is in plain sight from this beautiful city, and looms heavenward in all the grandeur imaginable, but the gold mines as at present developed, are nearly a hundred miles from the peak. But this will be of little interest to you or your readers. You want some facts about the country and the inducements held out to emigrants. Well, there is plenty of gold and silver, copper, lead, iron, coal, and about every other mineral the world knows, to be found profusely within a radius of 50 miles from a central point. Do you think this overestimated? If so, consult the forthcoming report of Dr. P. V. Hayden, U. S. Geologist, about to be published by the Government. Take into consideration the facts of our minerals, which are in themselves sufficient to bring here and support a large population and thriving commerce, and add to this the fact that we can produce the largest yield of grains and vegetables, the fattest cattle and sheep, and have the finest and most healthy climate on the North American Continent, and then you may pardon my seeming enthusiasm. The thousands who came here in '59 and '60 came to make a pile of "dust" and their return: Many were disappointed because they did not make it so soon as they expected and so went back disgusted with the country. Those who remained until the beauties of the country was discovered, would have to be hired to live any where else now. This is no fiction—but matter of fact. Your former readers will be interested in knowing that at our Territorial Fair in 1868, prizes were offered for the largest yield of wheat or oats to the acre. One hundred and twenty bushels of the latter and sixty-six of the former took the prizes. Three squashes were there on exhibition which weighed 330 pounds; beets 16, &c., &c.

Stock raising on the prairie all winter and comes out in the spring as nice and fat as stall fed animals in the East. It costs less than a dollar a year to raise animals for the market. Our grasses are so sweet and full of the life-giving principle that no other country can excel, even if complete with it. More anon. S. M. L.

Letter from Iowa.

HAMMOND, Iowa, Dec. 4, '69.

Mr. Editor.—As it is evident that the natural inclinations of persons are to eulogize the country in which they live; likewise it is a natural desire to suppress all erroneous information concerning it.

I observed a statement in your paper, of 26 ult, that in Iowa wheat was selling for 40 to 70 cts per bu. Then, that this item was given for the benefit of farmers in your valleys, who might have a desire to emigrate to the western states. The statement also attempts to compare your valleys with our plains.

Your informant, as to the price of wheat in Iowa, must live quite a distance from a railroad, and therefore should not try to make it appear that the value of produce in his section is the same throughout the state. In this part of the state, for the last five or six years, wheat was selling for $1 to $1.50, and at present is worth from 75 cts. to $1. The statement referred to above, makes it appear that this western country is a destitute, forlorn, and uncomfortable region to harbor in; but after Pennsylvania's travel through and get acquainted with affairs in this country, they generally speak very highly of it.

The writer of the statement referred to, also states that a board fence on a farm in Iowa, is seldom seen. I have been through the state considerably, and seldom saw other fences than those made of boards and rails. An abundance can also be raised that will reward the laborer in many ways, and I say that a given amount of money can as easily be earned here even if the price of produce is 50 per cent less than in the east. First—it takes but half the time to receive the reward for the labor. Second—cultivation is carried on with only half the expenses attending it in the east. Third—there can be as much more raised here, and lastly, with at least from 25 to 50 per cent advance in their property; and if a man has any money to lend, he can realize from 10 to 25 per cent interest.

Almost all kinds of fruit is raised here. The apples are much better here. Vegetables of all kinds are raised here. Business is good here, and improving. Our railroad facilities are good. When a railroad is contemplated, it is not as likely to fail, as in your valleys. I have been in this state (Iowa) over six months, and find it much more encouraging than in your valleys, where I am thoroughly acquainted, and could not think of going back to stay. The crops this year, as usual, are very good. The farmers are just now gathering their corn, which is worth 40 cts, and is on the rise. We have had some cold weather, and a few inches of snow. As a general thing, it is very healthy. J. H. T.

We call the attention of our readers to the card of Orvis & Alexander in another column. J. P. Gephart has become connected with their office.

CASH SYSTEM.

Friend Kurtz—Allow me through the columns of the "Reporter" to call the attention of many of its readers to a movement that is being made all around us, and which demands the earnest attention of business men at home. I have reference to the introduction of a unanimous cash system of business. All through our neighboring counties, to the east of us, merchants have adopted the cash system; some whole States even have held meetings and resolved to do no other. Why can not we at home make some arrangements to introduce such a system? I need not enter in details and set forth the advantages of such a move, every one interested sees this. Can we not through Penns and Brush valleys come to some understanding and take some measures to introduce the cash system. I should be pleased to hear from our brother merchants.

"THE BAREFOOT BOY."—The poet Whittier wrote some beautiful lines on the above familiar character, which we copy here for the benefit of the young readers of the Reporter:

"Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheeks of tan;
With thy turned-up pantaloons,
And thy merry-whistled tunes;
With thy red lip, redder still
Kissed by strawberries on the hill;
With the sunshine on thy face,
Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace.
From my heart I give the joy:
I was once a barefoot boy!
Prince thou art; the grown-up man
Only is republican.
Let the million-dollar rife!
Barefoot trudging at his side,
Thou hast more than he can buy
In the reach of ear and eye—
Outward sunshine, inward joy;
Blessings on thee, barefoot boy!"

SAD AFFAIR.—We were horrified to learn the other day that Mr. John Armagast, of Buffalo Run, an aged and highly respected citizen, was nearly devoured by hogs in his own barnyard. Mr. Armagast has long been in a feeble state of health, and for some time past has been subject to fits of epilepsy, frequently falling down, when alone, in an entirely unconscious state. He was suddenly taken with this weakness one day last week, when in his barnyard, and in his helpless condition was set upon by a number of hogs, which tore and mangled him horribly. Fortunately, his son came to his assistance in time to save him from immediate death, but the old gentleman is now lying in a very precarious condition. The son states that the hogs seemed almost wild, and that it was with the greatest difficulty he succeeded in driving them away and releasing his father from his terrible strait.—Watchman.

Dr. Livingstone is again heard from. A letter from him, dated at Uji on the 30th day of May last, reports that he is safe, but has much difficulty in sending letters. He adds: "As to the work to be done by me, it is only to connect the sources which I have discovered from five hundred to seven hundred miles south of Speke and Baker's with their Nile. The volume of water which flows north from latitude 120 south is so large that I suspect that I have been working at the sources of the Congo as well as those of the Nile. I have to go down the eastern line of drainage to Nyker's turning point. Tanganyika, Bager's Chowambe (Baker's?) are one water, and the head of it is three hundred miles south of this. The western and central lines of drainage converge into an unvisited lake west or southwest of this. The outflow of this, whether to Congo or Nile, I have to ascertain. The people of this, called Manyema, are cannibals, if Arabs speak truly. I may have to go there first, and down Tanganyika, if I come out untraced, and find my new squad from Zaazi-bar."

A DOUBLE MAN.

All the stories told of the Siamese twins hardly equal this of the Scotch double man, of whom the following account is given by the Rev. Mr. Scotton in his History: During the reign of James III, of Scotland, and at his court, there lived a man, double above the waist, and single below that region. The King caused him to be carefully brought up. He rapidly acquired a knowledge of music, the two heads learned several languages, they debated together, and the two upper halves occasionally fought. They lived, generally, however, in the greatest harmony. When the lower part of the body was tickled, the two individuals felt it together, but when, on the other hand, one of the other individuals was touched, he alone felt the fact. This monstrous being died at the age of 28 years. One of the bodies died several days before the other.

Mr. Surrogate Tucker stated the question, if any, which may be involved in the right of property of the late Albert D. Richardson, will come before R. C. Hutchings, his successor, for adjudication. No formal application has yet been made by any one for letters of administration. Mr. Richardson's brother, who called at the office Friday, to ascertain what course he should adopt, was informed he had no right to take out letters of administration, and that the sons of the deceased, or his widow, were the only persons who have that right. Mr. Richardson did not make a will, and it is said the death-bed marriage will be contested by the relatives of the deceased.

The New Haven Paladium tells a horrible story of brutality to a wife to the following effect: Alexander McCrady went with his wife from Plymouth to Waterbury to pass Christmas. On the way home they quarrelled, and McCrady, who was slightly intoxicated, seized his wife and threw her out of the wagon, breaking both bones of her leg below the knee. He then told her she must walk the rest of the way, but the poor woman being unable to rise, he got out and fell to beating and kicking her. He finally threw her into the wagon, and on arriving home threw her into the yard, where she lay nearly insensible, while with a knife he cut off every particle of her clothing. He then tied a rope around her head and drew her under a shed, where he left her with a paring kick—stabbed and fed his horse and then went to bed.
