

CENTRE HALL REPORTER.

CENTRE HALL, PA., January 28th 1870.

Curran's Iron works, beyond Milesburg, have stopped. Where's radicalism with its promises of "good times"?

THE INCOME TAX.

The income tax law expires by limitation on the first of June, and there is a strong probability that it will not be renewed. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has therefore decided that the collections for the year 1870 can be made in advance, and the assessments now being taken for the past year will answer for the ensuing one.

The Committee on Ways and Means have directed their chairman to report a resolution declaring it to be the true intent and meaning of the act relating to the income tax, that all persons are liable to the payment of income tax accruing and to accrue for said during and up to the end of the year 1870, and that the assessment and collection of such tax for 1870, and remaining unpaid on the 1st of January 1871, may be made in 1871.

LEGISLATIVE.

Our representative at Harrisburg, Mr. Meyer, has been placed upon the following committees: Committee on Compare Bills, and Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. Meyer's vote was recorded against the increase of the Governor's salary. We notice the following bills as being of general interest.

By Mr. Olmstead, from the committee on the Judiciary General, with a negative recommendation, bill entitled A supplement to an act entitled An act allowing parties in interest to be witnesses in actions by and against executors, administrators, and guardians.

Also (same), as committed, bill entitled An act declaring that justices of the peace shall not practice as attorneys at law.

By Mr. White, from the Committee on the Judiciary General, as committed, bill entitled An act to provide for calling a convention to amend the Constitution.

Also (same), as committed, bill entitled An act regulating the preparation of medical prescriptions.

By Mr. Davis, from the Committee on the Judiciary General, with amendment, bill entitled An act to prevent the injury or destruction of baggage within the limits of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Linderman presented a petition of the citizens of Bucks county, praying the legislature to abolish the penalty of death in every case of the conviction of persons for crime.

Petitions were presented from several counties asking for a law allowing the voters of wards or townships to decide the question of granting or refusing licenses to sell intoxicating liquors.

The House at Harrisburg passed a resolution, allowing each member $100 per session for postage. The majority of them will mail as few documents, as possible and thus have a handsome overplus in their pocket.

A joint resolution passed fixing the 17th of March as the time for adjournment. Better adjourn two days after they meet.

A large number of petitions were presented from various parts of the State, praying for the passage of a bill to enable the qualified members of any district, ward or borough to determine by ballot whether drinking houses shall be licensed or not.

A number of petitions were also presented asking for the abolition of capital punishment for any crime whatsoever, and that imprisonment for life be substituted.

A Negro Senator from Mississippi.

The legislature of Mississippi, a few days ago, elected a negro for United States Senator. His name is H. R. Revels; is about 40 years of age, is not ably black, and has fair abilities. Revels is a graduate of Oberlin College.

Now then, we suppose, there will be a great fight at Washington in the radical kitchen, as each one of the radical members of Congress will want Sanborn to be a bed-fellow. We think to Charley Sumner belongs the first chance to sleep with Revels.

The Secretary of the Navy has issued an order discharging over ten thousand men. "Good times."

GREELEY IN BELLEFONTE.

Horace Greeley, the great abolition rhinoceros, who presides over the editorial tripod of the New York Tribune, arrived at Bellefonte, on last Tuesday noon. A little before the 11 o'clock train was due, a small crowd of curiosity seekers gathered at the depot, to see this Mogul of all isms.

Every eye was turned toward the cars; whenever a shabby looking individual stepped from the platform, a whisper went through the crowd, "that's Greeley," particularly was this the case when any one wore a light coat and sloppy slouch hat. A few seconds would undecieve the crowd, and all eyes were again fixed upon the cars, for the next shabby looking chap to make his exit and be dubbed Greeley. Last of nearly all the passengers to get out was an old man, with light coat, gray hair, and very patriarchal beard, and a two gallon demi john in his hand; as he stepped from the platform a shout went up, "that's Greeley," and one ardent lover of the nigger and worshiper of the great negro champion, actually stepped up to him, and grasping him by the hand, exclaimed, "how dy'e do, Mr. Greeley, glad you've come safe." The man with the patriarchal beard and demi-john, feeling insulted at being taken for Greeley, indignantly replied, "git away, you rascal, I ain't Greeley, he left the train at Milesburg, and took a carriage for Bellefonte." This opened the eyes of the crowd, and "sold" was whispered around, for Horace left the train at Milesburg and proceeded in a carriage to Bellefonte. Mr. Trezuly, also got off the train, and was taken by some, who did not know him, to be Greeley, and a few boys actually followed him a short distance, when one of them discovered the mistake, and exclaimed, "he-! this ain't Greeley, it's old Trezuly," when another immediately joined in, "yes, by thunder it's only Trezuly, the old injun, he ought to be snowballed, if there was any snow."

Greeley's lecture, in the evening, was upon the woman question, and was well received by the large audience. He does not favor the foolish and nonsensical "woman's rights" movement, and in this, for once, we can agree with the philosopher of the Tribune, who, as an abolition writer, did so much to create jealousy between the north and south, and bring in the late civil war.

We might as well state here, that we called upon Mr. Greeley, at his rooms, in the Bush House, in the afternoon, and had half an hour's chat with him. On entering, we found Messrs. Gould and Brown, rad editors respectively of the National and Republican, sitting at a cool distance, and seemingly bewildered from being in the presence of the Delphic oracle of abolitionism. We seated close to the old gentleman, and found him sociable and talkative. The conversation started on the negro. Upon our remark that we now believed that the 15th amendment would be ratified, seeing that congress was setting up and shaping the states south in such a manner as to leave them no other choice. "Yes," said Greeley, "I think we are about done with the colored gentleman, and I think I see the end of him," and then went on to say that the tariff would be the next great question to come up, and that it would be a damaging one to the democratic party, especially in Pennsylvania, where the republicans would make a good hobby of it. We asked Mr. Greeley how the action of the New York legislature, in repealing the ratification of the 15th amendment, would be viewed by the radical authorities at Washington. He replied, he did not know how they would view it, but supposed, that when it came to counting the number of states that had ratified, if it were found necessary to have New York to make up the requisite two-thirds, that state would be counted in; if enough without her, she would not be counted. He said, further, "that New York would be like the boy who had rolled in the mud, and got up mad because nobody had rolled along with him;" (laughter by Brown and Gould.) The conversation afterwards turning upon Horatio Seymour, Gov. Hoffman, and other New York politicians, he expressed himself rather favorably of Mr. Seymour, though he considered him, when nominated for President, very easy to defeat, and said if Hancock and Hendricks had been nominated, he would have doubted Grant's election, and looked upon Pennsylvania as lost for the republicans. We asked him whether Gov. Hoffman's having a much larger vote than Seymour, was owing to the former's greater popularity. Greeley said, "no, it was owing to Hoffman's reputation for being a better man than Seymour," (laughter by Brown and Gould.)

Mr. Greeley is as radical in his talk

On Tuesday of last week, negro, in the employ of Mr. Wilson in Cherokee county, Ala. made a brutal assault on two daughters of Mr. Wilson, with an iron bar, fracturing the skull of one and severely wounding the other. The negro was pursued, caught and summarily hung. J. D. M. 1870

A man named Moore, recently convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to twenty nine years' imprisonment by the Fayette (Texas) District Court writing to a gentleman in Brenham, says: "With a Missouri judge, an Indiana district attorney, and a reconstructed jury, a Texas white man has a poor chance for justice."

A CHANCE FOR JENKINS.

Another hopeful scion of royalty is about to invade the Capital. Great are the preparations on the part of the British Minister to receive in a becoming manner Prince Arthur. Mr. and Mrs. Grant and all the Dents are in ecstasies in having an opportunity in serving a real life Prince, if he is a boy. The Republican of Washington says: Prince Arthur, of Great Britain will arrive here positively on Sunday next, and will be the guest of Minister Thornton, at the British Legation, which has been refitted for the occasion. How he is to be entertained has been a matter of a good deal of discussion, and has resulted in a way not quite agreeable to the young ladies who wanted some balls, in order that they might have an opportunity of dancing with this scion of royalty. A series of dinner parties have been arranged for the entertainment of the Prince. On Monday, the 24th, and Tuesday the 25th, Mr. Thornton will give dinner parties, in honor of the Prince, to which the leading members of the Government will be invited. On Wednesday, the 26th, the President will entertain the Prince, and the Diplomatic Corps, at dinner. On Thursday, the 27th, will dine with the Secretary of State, and on Friday there will be another grand dinner at the British Legation. It is probable that some matinee dinners will be arranged, at which the young ladies will have an opportunity of tripping it with the Prince. He will, of course, visit Mount Vernon, Arlington, and all places of interest in and about Washington.

When Adam delved and Eve span, disease was unknown but since that time the race has degenerated and at the present time mankind is afflicted with many diseases, yet if people would take a medicine upon the first symptoms of disease which would pass direct to the afflicted parts and restore healthy action thereto, they would greatly prolong their lives. We believe Dr. Judson's Mountain Herb Pills to be the best and most universal of medicines, they should be used in Liver Complaint, Female Irregularities, Bilious Disorders, Dyspepsia, &c. Use the Mountain Herb Pills, and by a fair trial convince yourself of their efficacy. Sold by all dealers, J. D. M. 1870
