Memorial on the Infallibility Dogma.

The Paris Monde publishes the Latin text and a translation of the memorial drawn up at the Ecumenical Council in favor of the proposition declaring the infallibility of the Pope. It commences by saying that the primacy of the jurisdiction of the Roman clearly taught in the Sacred Scriptrary opinions held by the so called 1866, and other recent ecclesiastical assemblages, to show the prominence given to the dogma of infallibility, and he present necessity for its adoption. The bitterness of the attacks directed against the Holy See is pointed out. and, it is said, that if the Church now hesitates to pronounce in favor of infallibility, it will be a cause of triumph to her enemies, and embolden their hostility. It is denied that this doctrine will place heretics and seismatics at a still greater distance from the Church : in any case the interests of Catholics require a definite decision upon this grave matter, and men secking the truth instead of being turned away, will be the more attracted at "seeing what forms the principal founto the faith is on'y a pretext to emburrass the Church. deserves serious consideration, as it involves inherent and indefeasible rights and other fundamental principles in a government established for the benefit with momentous consequences to the citizens of Philadelphia and of the State. And the position that the power can be taken away from so large a portion of the people of Pennsylvania, without their consent, for a period of years, and lodged in the hands of six persons, is to me extraordinary, untenmeaning and intent of the spirit, meaning and intent of the first and secoud sections of the Twelfth Article of the Constitution. The second section declares "that all power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority, and in-stituted for their peace, safety and hap-piness."
