The Paeumatic Railroad in New York.

The Pneumatic Railway as far as completed has been opened for inspection. The entrance is down stairs in the basement corner of Broadway and Warren street, where is a nicely furnished office, reception rooms, a depot, a steam engine, &c. In the depot is a car about the size of those that run in the streets, and very similar in appear ance, while stretching to the north is a circular tunuel about large enough for a man to stand up in. This tunnel, which is lighted by gas jets, has a covering first of iron and then of brick. The Post, after describing the tunnel,

The present length of the tunnel is two hundred and sinety four feet and six inches, and fifty eight days and ten hours were consumed in construcing it. The track is twenty one feet under the surface of Broadway, and the only circumstance which would indicate that the visitor is under a busy theroughfare is the constant rumbling of vehicles over head. The car is built to conform to the shape of the tunnel, being semicircular in form. It has comfortable accommodations for twenty persons. The machinery is of

When the tunnel is completed the cars will be propelled by the suction of the wind, which will be aroused by an enormous wooden fan. Four men are continually employed tunneling, and daily dig out four feet of earth. which is taken to the surface. The tunneling is done by hydraulic pressure. the jurors drawn for the March term of the Albany county Wyoming Court were eleven ladies, some of them the wives of the most prominent citizens. The excitement caused by this proceeding is immense.

The sale of cadetship has been carried on to such an extent, that it is likely to implicate the majority of the Republican members of Congress. The list has already grown to such dimensions that the committee of investigation desire to drop the whole matter, How do you like it, rank and file?

Since 1860, one hundred and twenty millions of acres have been voted away to the four Pacific railroads alone. Now immense power, and of very fine work- but some four hundred and fifty millions acres remain. During the twenty six working days of the last session of Congress, bills were introduced into the Senate asking for appropriations for railroads of 224,245,520 acres, or nearly one half of the whole amount of territory remaining unoccupied. Now, parties from Oregon ask for land to aid in constructing a road and telegraph line across that State, and the Senate accedes to the request. A dozen more bills of a similar nature are pending in the Senate. If we accede to the Oregon petitioners we must accede to the others, and at this rate how long will it be before the last acre is voted away? The public look to whole business at once, and have faith a country store, such as to believe that he will do so. There is no force in the plea put forth by new applicants for land that we have aided the Pacific corporations and shall now aid them.
