THE BLUE AND THE GREY.

By the flow of the inland river, Whence the fleets of iron have fled, Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver, Asleep are the ranks of the dead; Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day-Under the one, the Blue: Under the other, the Gray.

These in the robings of glory, Those in the gloom of defeat, All with the battle-blood gory, In the dusk of eternity meet; Under the sod and the dew; Waiting the judgment day; Under the laurel, the Blue; Under the willow, the Gray.

From the silence of sorrowful hours The desolate mourners go, Lovingly laden with flowers, Alike for the friend and the foe; Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Under the roses, the Blue; Under the lillies, the gray.

So with an equal splendor The morning sun-rays fall, With a touch, impartially tender, On the blossoms blooming for all; Under the sod and the dew. Waiting the judgment day: Broidering with gold, the Blue; Mellowed with gold, the Gray.

So when the summer calleth, On forest and field of grain With an equal murmur falleth The cooling drip of rain; Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Wet with the rain, the Blue; Wet with the rain, the Gray.

Sadly, but not with upbraiding, The generous deed was done; In the storm of the years that are fading No braver battle was won; Under the sed and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Under the blossoms, the Blue; Under the garlands, the Gray.

Call Me When Breakfast is Ready.

Oh! call me when breakfast is ready, Dear mother; don't call me before; Oh! do not deny me the pleasure Of moderate s eep, I implore. Eight hours of sleep is too little For delicate maidens like me; And nearer, by far, is my pillow Than a cup of the daintiest tea. Oh! mother, I cannot endure it-This getting up early's a bore; Then call me when breakfast is ready-Oh! please do not call me before!

Yes, call me when breakfast is ready; Oh! mother, don't call me too soon; Shopping, of course, needs attention, But that can be done before noon. They talk of the folly of fashion, I do not consider it so; For parties must not be neglected, And style is important, you know.

Oh, mother, it makes me so nervous To think of your steps at my door; Than call me when breakfast is ready; Oh! please do not call me before!

Home Politeness.

" Should an accquaintance tread on your dress-your best your very best- and by accident tear it, how profuse you are with your "never mind; don't think of it; don't care at all." If a husband does it, he gets a frown; if a child, he is chastis-

A gent'eman stops at a friend's house and finds it in confusion. "He don't see anything to apologize for; never thinks of supper, cold room, crying children; perfectly comfortable..'

He goes home; his wife has been taking eare of the sick ones, and worked her life almost out. "Don't see why things can't be kept in better order; there never were such cross children before." No apologies except away from home.

Why not be polite at home? Why not use freely the golden coin of courtesy! How sweet the sound, these little words; "I thank you," or, "You are very kind." Doubly, yes, trebly sweet from the lips we love, when heart smiles make the eve sparkle with the clear light of affection.

Be polite to your children. Do you expect them to be mindful of your welfare, to grow glad at your approach, to bound away to do your pleasure before your request is half spoken? Then, with all your dignity and authority, mingle politeness. Give it a niche in your household temple. Only then will you have the true secret of sending not into the world really finished John C. Breckinridge elected to the Unigentleman and ladies. Again we say unto all, be polite.
