A Mother Loses Four Children Calamity.

(From the Point Pleasant (Va.) Journal.) A gentleman from Roane county gives the particulars of a most heart-rending calamity that happened last week on Spring creek in that county, and by which one family was bereft af four children in less

A lady, whose name our informant had forgotten, residing upon the above named creek, went down to it in the morning for the purpose of doing "the week's washing," taking with her the youngest child, an infant about a year old, leaving the other three at the house. While engaged at 1 er work she heard suppressed screams at the house; taking up her little child from the soiled clothes on which it was sitting, she placed it on an empty wash tub to keep it from crawling into the creek during her absence, and hastened to the house, where she met her child with its head frightfully disfigured and swollen. She hastily gleaned from this one that the three children had crawled under the house in search of eggs; that while under something hurt them, and that the other two were still under the house. The mother, upon looking under the house found them dead, with several moccasin snakes (a very poisonous and deadly species) crawling around their bodies, presenting a frightful and sickening appearance. By this time the elder one was a corpse. The mother, in her despair and agony, had forgotten until now her little one at the creek, and upo going down to the creek for it, it was only to find it also a corps in the creek. It was 'supposed the little child climbed up in the tub, and was holding on to the lower edge of it when the tub upset, rolling the child into the water and drowning it. It is said the mother's grief was so great that at last occounts she was a raving maniac.

Decadence of the Family.

Society in the West, says the New York Times, seems to be getting into a very chaotic condition. The fatal facility offered by Western laws for dissolving matrimonial alliances, not much exaggerated in the popular legend that on Indiana and Illinois railroads the trains stop five minutes for divorces, as they do in the East for refreshments, is bearing its natural fruit in a corresponding loosening of domestic ties. The children of that gentleman whose variable taste led him, after four divorces, to return to his first love and remarry his original wife, can scarcely cherish a very lively affection for one another, or a very exalted respect for their fickle-minded parent. As little harmony can be looked for in that other Illinois househo'd, whose master, after divorcing his wife, has engaged her to do housework for himself and her successor at the pattry pittance of two dollars a week-a modern Griselda.

If this miserable domestic anarchy increases, as it seems to be increasing, we may prepare to bid adieu to all that is dearest and holiest in the Eden of home. The observance of affections which hedge around and sanctify the domestic fireside will come to be forgotten and despised in a social order where one's nearest relatives change almost with every moon. The fanily-circles will disappear, and society will recede into a cold communism like that of ancient Sparta, or a sensual one like that of modern Onerda. Already you may see signs of this moral transition, not less in the independence of that young lady of Dubuque, who has recently sued her mother for libel, than in the Roman virtue of the Ohio farmer, who has caused the arrest of his daughter for stealing a horse. It is not necessary to go into such darker evidences of their domestic disintegration as the crime of that wretch, who, at Camden, a day or two since, signalized any coudition of society, matricide, we are glad to believe, will be the rarest of exceptions, but all these things are straws; the But a fight to prop the falling fortunes of breeze that blows them presently swell to a Napoleon is a contest which, in all proba-

Every year New York adds from seven T. Newton Wolf ty five to a hundred millions to its bank accounts. It can now claim to be worth, according to the official accounts, over $1, 000,000,000. The real estate valuation for 1870 is $742,000,000, at d the personal estate s $280,000,000. There is besides, in the official table, an item of $75,000,000 set down to shareholders in banks, which brings the aggregate wealth of the city coniderably above a thousand millions. But it is really much more than the official figures show. The basis of real estate valuation is that fixed by the tax commissioners and this is far below the market basis The actual value of the house and lot property on Manhattan Island, according to the present selling prices, is not less than $1, 500,000,000. The personal estate amounts to a great deal more-thirty per cent., at least-than the owners ever confess. The official return of bank property may be all right, but the returns of real and personal estate are certainly much below the mark. The whole value of property in New York city is probably not less than $1,800,000,000. The increase 'ast year was $83,000,000, which was less than the increase the year

If New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, and their several suburbs, could convert their property into cash, they could pay off the whole national blessing and have enough left for a champagne supper. But they don't mean to do anything of that kind. They are too generous to deprive other places of their portion of the great blessing, and I hardly think they are quite shoulders anyway.
