Political Intilligence—The Suspected Slaver in the Harbor of Portland.

We published, some days ago, an article from the Portland, Me., Advertiser, which drew the attention of the United States authorities to a suspicious vessel lying in that port, and the intimation was thrown out that there was a possibility of said vessel being designed for the slave trade. The article referred to, has brought out the consignees of the brig Newsboy, in a letter full of indignation. After giving a short history of the brig, they proceed to enumerate her cargo, which appears to be "some 70,000 feet of lumber, 60 barrels of flour, 60 barrels of bread, 20 barrels of tar and 20 tierces of rice." Without any design of intimating that the Newsboy has the slightest intention of visiting the coast of Africa, we must nevertheless be permitted to say that her cargo, with the exception of the tar, which would not cost over forty dollars, and an excess in the amount of lumber, is very a pretty outfit for a voyage to Congo river, and thence to Cuba. The consignees say that "some" 20,000 feet of lumber is engaged, which means that amount, more or less; but that bulk of lumber, together with the tar, would operate as a very good blind untill the vessel was well at sea, when all over the amount necessary for the construction of an extra deck could be very easily passed over the side. The consignees admit that the Newsboy is a clipper, and very sharp, and that she registers about three hundred tons. She would, no doubt, make a superb slaver, and if not already designed for the business, the letter of the consignees will probably have the effect of attracting the attention of some of the prominent Republicans to her excellent qualities for that business.

Important Decision.

The New York court of common pleas has recently decided a very knotty and important question. A Mr. John Snook, who for several years has assumed the (to him) more euphonious name of Pike, had some misgivings as to the legality of the change of name, even though, as we are informed, the English word "pike" is a literal translation of the Flemish or Dutch word "snook," or "snoek," and to ease his mind he applied to the courts for advice. We learn that Judge Daly delivered "an elaborate and learned opinion," the gist of which was, that John Snook is quite at liberty to call himself John Pike, if he so please.

It does not appear that the interesting fact, hitherto not generally known, that snook and pike are exactly identical in signification, had any influence on the opinion of the judge. It is a pity, therefore, that Mr. Snook did not take a wider range in search of a new name, as it is somewhat generally remarked that pike is not much of an improvement on the Flemish patronymic which he desired to abandon.

Napoleon's Visit to England.

The London Spectator mentions a story that the Emperor is about to visit England on an express invitation from Queen Victoria.

THE Journal du Havre corrects the assertion of the London Times that Prince Jerome was suffering from a dangerous attack of internal gout. The Prince has simply been ill with a fever, and is recovering.

Captain Schenley—Bribery and Corruption.

We copy the following from the London Weekly Times:

"Nothing seems so difficult to come at as money. We are all working in one way or other for it; straining our moscles or racking our brains; running about with the thermometer at ninety in the shade; foregoing ease and comfort, and encountering danger and difficulty to get paid at last, perhaps grudgingly or unwillingly, but still to get paid. In the midst of all this exceeding toil and anxiety, which beset the highways of life, we have nothing to do but to turn into a quiet Parliamentary borough, and we perceive the object of our unceasing labors, is apparently a drug. We are in a land of Christian benevolenc. The trouble seems to not be—how to obtain the money, but how to get rid of it. We have suddenly entered into an English California, where money is to be had for stooping to pick it up. These halcyon districts are strewed over all parts of the country, and are to be found at every point of the compass. At Dartmouth, at Aylesbury, at Gloucester, at Ashburton and at Huddersfield the most benevolent practices seem to have been common. A man is in distress, and an angel in a woman's form asks if ten, or fifteen, or even twenty pounds are of any use, because, if there are, there is the money. Even lawyers become charitable, tenderly inquire into the wants and woes of unhappy artizans and small traders, or as the more refined desires of those of a higher grade. The air is redolent with bank-notes, fresh and crisp, with no defiling names or marks upon them. Exulting men like George Griffiths of Dartmouth may shake them in the air, and mysteriously say, "This is what we shall do it with;" but that proves nothing against the general philanthropy of the movement. Richard Mitchelmore was the subject of peculiar attention. He swears that one Tucker offered to do him good. He merely wanted him to take him seventy-five pounds. Mitchelmore would not be done good to—at least to that amount, but took ten pounds to go away and enjoy a holiday. What amiability! What primitive generosity! A Captain Bulley, who has a name that sounds formidably, received forty-five bank-notes of twenty pounds, each, but he cannot say what he did with them. He thinks he can swear he did not give them to election agents. He is so benevolent that he does not know how he disposed of nine hundred pounds.—He gives by stealth and blushes to find it fame. He is a conduit pipe for the philanthropy of others. He does not prevericate, only he does not reply in a straightforward way; he does so on principle, because the committee of the House of Commons that is inquiring into this strange epidemic of liberality, he thinks ought to find out the truth for themselves. Mr. S. Hayle is another remarkably kind man, who gave Captain Bulley a hundred pounds, because he wished to have it. All this uncommon goodness of disposition produced, however a fatal result, for the committee, after a short consultation, came to the conclusion that the late election for Dartmouth was void, by reason of bribery and corruption, carried on by the agents of Mr. Schenley, and Mr. Schenley was not duly returned. What a pity that so much benevolence and generosity should be thrown away! Those, however, who received those twenty pound notes have the consolation of knowing they did all they could —they took the money and gave their votes— and what more could Mr. Schenley or their country demand from them.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON CITY, August 15, 1859.

DEAR SIR: It is rumored that the indomitable Fernando Wood, and the placid Thurlow Weed passed through this city on Saturday evening, on the way to Richmond, to see Gov. Wise. What is in the wind now? This report has caused considerable fluttering among the politicians here, and various are the speculations of the "quid-nunces" of Washington City.—Some say that Wood is going over to Seward, while others say that Wood is going over to Wise.

Since my last letter, news of a reliable character has been received, indicating the election of Gen. Sam Houston to the Gubernatorial chair of Texas, by a large majority. If this is the case, old Sam Jacinto will loom up for the next Presidency, and will become a formidable competitor for that distinguished position, but on which side of the fence he will fight, nobody knows as yet, not even himself.

The New York Herald, of last Satuaday, contains a strong leading article, written in the editor's usual slashing style, recommending Houston to the Democracy as their only salvation from defeat in 1860. Some people say that Bennett intended that article to kill the General off, as he did Gen. Scott, "Live Oak George," and Gen. Cameron, by damning him with inglorious praise.

The President since his return from Bedford Springs, has taken up his quarters at the Soldiers Home. Much of his time and labor is taken up with foreign affairs. The condition of things in Mexico, are extremely perplexing; indeed, the same may be said of the South American matters generally, and the labor bestowed on these intricate questions, are more than most of men could stand, but Mr. Buchanan seems to be capable of enduring any amount of that kind of work. I saw him last Saturday, and he looks as bright and cheerful as one whose hope and faith was strong enough to move a mountain. The successorship to the Thorny Chair in the White House, does not appear to trouble him, though it is apparent that he is still determinedly opposed to S. A. Douglas.

During the absence of Judge Black, your late townsman, A. B. M'Calmont, is acting Attorney General. For so young a man, this may be said to be a very high honor, and so it is; but nobody deserves it better, he has a clear head, a strong mind, (no objection to strong minded men,) and good legal attainments, which will one day make him a man of mark. The Democracy of Pennsylvania should foster McCalmont, and not allow the mousing small beer politicians to undermine and pull him down, as they are in the habit of doing with men whose talents and political integrity is far above their own.

The President is desirous to send the Hon. Caleb Cushing, of Massachusetts, to South America, to straighten up existing difficulties in that region, but Mr. Cushing declines on account of pressing private engagements.

The Secretary of the Treasury is expected back to-day, and Governor Floyd and Attorney General Black will probably be here in the next ten days.

Washington is exceedingly dull and barren of news, in fact their seems to be a depression of all animated nature, except the political missionaries, who show considerable anxiety about the succession. "RODOLPH."

THE editor of the Patriot and Union, in Harrisburg, in a recent publication, says: "The editor returning to his duties after a protracted absence, takes occasion to express his regret that the Patriot and Union should have contained personal flings at any candidate for the Democratic nomination at Charleston. While he is responsible for the conduct of this journal, it will only refer to those who have the confidence of a considerable portion of the Democracy of any section of the Union in terms of respect, and introduce their names for discussion in connection with broad political principles. While giving all political news so as to enable the public to judge of statesmen by their words and acts, he does not deem it necessary to reflect upon the character of any who are proposed by a considerable fraction of the Democratic party for the most reponsible positions.

Forces in the War.

The Journal des Debats corrects the assertion of Francis Joseph, that his army had been defeated by superior numbers. In reviewing the facts and figures furnished from all sources, the Debats finds that the Kaiser has exaggerated not only the numbers of his enemies, but the losses of his troops at Solferino. It gives the following table:

MONTEBELLO.

	Engaged.	Killed & Wd'd.
French	6,200	625
Sardinians	800	225
Total	7,000	850
Austrians	13,000	1,150
Prisoners, 150.

PALESTRO.

	Engaged.	Killed & Wd'd.
Sardinians	18,500	1,050
French	2,500	350
Total	21,000	1,400
Austrians	21,000	2,100
Prisoners, 950; and 6 guns.

MAGENTA AND TURBIGO.

	Engaged.	Killed & Wd'd.
French	55,000	4,400
Austrians	75,000	13,000

In this action, the French lost 200 prisoners and 1 gun; the Austrians 7,000 prisoners and 4 guns.

MELLEGNANO.

	Engaged.	Killed & Wd'd.
French	16,000	900
Austrians	18,000	1,400
And 900 prisoners.

SOLFERINO.

	Engaged.	Killed & Wd'd.
French	110,000	11,500
Sardinians	35,000	5,300
Total	145,000	16,800
Austrians	170,000	21,000

The allies lost 350 prisoners; the Austrians 7,000 prisoners and 30 guns.

The Chiriqui Region.

Correspondence of the New York Tribune.

BOCA DEL TORO, July 20, 1859.

I write to confirm the news of the important discoveries which were announced by the last steamer. The extensive cemeteries of the aboriginies that inclose in their sepulchres such vast treasures are very numerous, for the "Talamancas," who peopled Chiriqui, were numerous and powerful, as well as rich. At the time of their conquest by the Spaniards they comprised nine large tribes. It was a custom of the aborigines to bury their valuables with them. Few of these Indians remain, and those few, now scattered in the mountains of Chiriqui, still preserve the same custom. In one of these cemeteries in the savannas, which I saw, each grave was indicated by a head stone, half buried in the earth.

The northern slope of this Province was as thickly peopled as the southern one, but being now so densely covered with forests, no one has yet examined the rich homes of the dead. It would be very easy for me to find them by the data I now have. Two stone figures, representing a warrior and a child, were found in one of these cemeteries, on the northern slope, on the banks of the river called "Estrela," that empties into the lagoon. I have also obtained some very superior coal from the borders of this river.

In my opinion, and I have well studied the subject, the wealth buried in these numerous cemeteries will create a large emigration to Chiriqui, and the sources whence all the gold was obtained will be discovered by the energies of the men of the North. The history of Spain points to the great mine of "Tisingal," situated in some part of this country, and there is no doubt about the auriferous richness of this country. P. and B., who were also on the spot, confirmed these statements, and concurred with me in the opinion that great and profitable gold washings exist. Compared with California and Australia, Chiriqui appears to be admirably situated between two oceans, easy of access from all parts of the world—its harbors are fine and its climate healthy. The coal mines, of themselves, will soon become as important as the gold.

Offered for Lease.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, August 16.—The Ohio Canal and Western Reserve Road were offered to-day to the highest bidder for lease for five years, but no bids were made.

Cobden on France and England.

Mr. Cobden made a rather remarkable speech on the National Defences, in the House of Commons, on July 29th, in which he laid the blame of the English panic on England and the English press. We give the following extract as a specimen of its temper:

We all know the amity which the two governments had long expressed for each other; we had heard of our Sovereign going over to France and embracing its ruler, and of the French Emperor coming over to England and receiving courtesies and honors at Windsor. Was there, with all this, no forbearance to be observed, no honesty, no desire to come to a proper understanding? It was degrading the policy of one enlightened and civilized nation towards another below the conduct of the red Indians in their woods. The Indians, when they had smoked the pipe of peace, buried the hatchet of war, in token that they did not intend to go on alarming each other by preparations for war hostilities. [Hear, hear.] Yet we, while professing all this apprehension, went on expressing confidence, and even offering adulation to the Emperor of the French—of whom, if he (Mr. Cobden) had to speak, he should not have fallen into quite such a high strain of compliment as had been used. [Hear, hear.] He (Mr. Cobden) feared the separation of Parliament, because, when Parliament was not sitting, other organs of public opinion, which were not always so peaceable as they were in that House, were left in possession of the field; and much more mischief, consequently, happened in the recess than in the session. [Hear.] He was anxious, therefore, that this House should give expression to the fact that other states of feeling, and other views in England existed than he had seen prevail out of doors for some time past.—[Hear.] The men-of-war's men were armed with tomahawks and boarding pikes, and a war with England was considered imminent. He (Mr. Cobden) only wondered that the writer did not add the men were supplied with scalp-in-knives as well as tomahawks. (Laughter.) What proof had we that France wished to invade us? What overt act had the government of France of the French people in any collective capacity ever committed to warrant such suspicion? Recollect it was not against a war with France that we were making these preparations, but against an invasion. Englishmen never fell into such a panic, and it was surprising that they did not see the insult that was involved in it. How should we like the French to be constantly assuming that we intended to invade them without warning? [Hear, hear.] He should perhaps, be told, that the Emperor had attacked Austria. He (Mr. Cobden) must remind the House that in the late war, the feeling of all the world was in favor of France and against Austria. He did not wish to speak disrespectfully of any organized government, but the Austrian rule in Italy had, nevertheless, been considered as the standing nuisance of Europe. [Hear, hear.] It was, however, a very different thing to go and help a discontented people, and to go and invade a nation that was at peace with them. Was it impossible in the course of the friendly communications which were passing between the two countries, to exchange a word of explanation. [Cheers.] Had his noble friend, or the noble Lord, the member for London, or the right honorable gentleman opposite (Mr. Disraeli,) or Lord Derby; ever exchanged a single word in explanation of those preparations for war? Let him not be told that those preparations were not against France. Everybody knew that it was against France that we were preparing. Look at our facetious publication Punch, of that very week, and they would find John Bull was represented grumbling at having a heavy extra insurance because his next door neighbor —they could not mistake who that meant—was so fond of fire works. [Hear.]

Look at all our organs of opinion—look at the Edinburgh, at the Quarterly, and at all the newspapers, from the Times downward, and they would and find them all possessed with the threats of invasion. He had been so struck with a paragraph in the letter of one of "our own correspondents" at Paris, that he had cut it out and brought it down with him to the House. The writer stated that, "at Toulon, notwithstanding the peace applications for leave of absence had been stopped." Moreover, we were the best customer of France. The exports of France to this country were greater than to any other country in the world; and we were thus their best friend. We were told that they wanted to come and plunder the Bank of England; the Bank of France always contained a far greater amount of bullion than our great national monetary establishment. Then we were told that they desired to pillage London; but he did not hesitate to say that there was more portable wealth in France—he meant wealth in the shape of jewelry and ornaments, than in this country. They were a nation that liked that sort of thing; and though we might put more capital into a steam engine, they spent far more than we did on their ornaments. [Hear, hear.] Was it probable that France would ascend from its high state at the head of the civilized nations of the globe, and fall into the ranks of savages who were in the habit of making fillibustering descents upon their neighbors? [Cheers.] Was he to be told that he was merely one of those peace-men who would rush into danger with their eyes shut? They were far more fanatical about war who overlooked the considerations to which he had been adverting than he was fanatical on the subject of peace. Were they sure that we had not ourselves provoked all that had happened by our great armaments?

Age and Debility.

As old age comes creeping on, it brings many attendant infirmities. Loss of appetite and weakness impair the health, and want of activity makes the mind discontented and unhappy. In cases where old age adds its influence, it is almost impossible to add vigor and health, and although many remedies have been tried, all have failed, until BŒRHAVE'S HOLLAND BITTERS were known and used. In every case where they have been employed they have invariably given strength and restored the appetite. They have become a great agent for this alone, and are used by many people who are suffering from loss of appetite and general debility. In cases of long standing chronic diseases, they act as a charm, invigorating the system, thus giving nature another opportunity to repair physical injuries.

WILSON'S TONIC,
CATHARTIC AND ANTI-DYSPEPTIC PILLS.

IN bringing different kinds of medicines before the public, in order to show the high estimation in which they are held by others, many prefer to publish certificates and statements from persons at a distance. We might do so too; but at home we prefer home testimony, particularly since it is from a class of citizens that all in this vicinity know who they are and where to find them, and that what they say is reliable. But read—

PITTSBURGH, February 8th, 1858.

MESSRS. B. L. FAHNESTOCK & CO.—Gentlemen—In my opinion of the merits of Dr. R. A. Wilson's Tonic, Cathartic and Anti-Dyspeptic Pills, I will briefly state that for many years past they have been a standing medicine in my family. A box of these Pills is always left within the reach of any one who may feel the necessity of taking a dose, say one to three.

Whether it is owing to the efficacy of these Pills or not, I do not pretend to say, but I can safely assert that since we have used them, my family has enjoyed uninterrupted good health, and I cheerfully recommend them to all who duly appreciate this inestimable blessing.
Respectfully yours, WM. EICHBAUM.

HEAR DR. KEYSER:

MESSRS. B. L. FAHNESTOCK & CO.—I have had considerable experience in the use of the extraordinary Pill compounded by Dr. R. Adams Wilson, of which you are now the proprietors, and have often felt their benign influence in my own case for nervous headache, arising from a disordered condition of the stomach. I have likewise prescribed them for others, in cases of hemicrania, and other forms of headache depending on a deranged and irritable condition of the stomach and digestive organs, for which they seem peculiarly adapted, being entirely free from any griping tendency. I regard them as a very valuable Pill, and one that purges without at all debilitating.
Yours, truly,

THE PERUVIAN SYRUP,
OR,
Protected Solution of Protoxide of Iron Combined,

HAS SUCCESSFULLY PASSED THE ordeal to which new discoveries in the Materia Medica are subjected, and must now be received as an established medicine. Its efficacy in curing

DYSPEPSIA,

Affections of the Liver, Dropsia, Neuralgia, Bronchitis and Consumptive Tendencies, Disordered State of the Blood, Boils, Scurvy, and the prostrating effects of Lead, or Mercury, General Debility, and all diseases which require a tonic and alterative Medicine is beyond question.

The proof of its efficacy are so numerous, so well authenticated, and of such a peculiar character, that sufferers cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the proffered aid.

The Peruvian Syrup does not profess to be a cure-all, but its range is extensive, because many diseases apparently unlike, are intimately related, and proceeding from one cause, may be cured by one remedy. The class of diseases for which the Syrup provides a cure, is precisely that which has so often baffled the highest order of medicinal skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible.

PRICE—Large bottles, $2, or six for $10; small bottles, $1, or six for $5.

Having confidence in the efficacy of the "PERUVIAN SYRUP," as a medicinal agent, we recommend to our brethren in the ministry, the careful reading of this pamphlet.

Wall's Picture Gallery.
WM. C. WALL has taken the third floor of Jones' New Building, adjoining the Mechanics' Bank, Fourth street, for an AMBROTYPE AND PHOTOGRAPHIC GALLERY, and having fitted up the room in a style unsurpassed, invites his friends and the public to visit his establishment.
His reception Room, he has no hesitation in saying, has not its superior anywhere, for size, beauty of furniture and appointments generally; and his Operating Rooms, being on the same floor, are entered immediately through it.
In his Operating rooms, the most improved combined side and sky lights give a facility for taking a finished Picture, in the least possible time, that he thinks cannot fail to make his establishment the resort of all persons of taste.
Mr Wall's experience as an artist, is a sure guarantee to his patrons that none but good Pictures will be permitted to leave his premises.
The public, and the ladies especially, are invited to view his rooms, and examine specimens. aug15:1w

To Housekeepers.
SOMETHING NEW.—B. T. BABBITT'S BEST MEDICINAL SALERATUS, is manufactured from common salt, and is prepared entirely different from other Saleratus. All the deleterious matter extracted in such a manner as to produce Bread, Biscuit, and all kinds of Cake, without containing a particle of Saleratus when the bread or cake is baked; thereby producing wholesome results. Every particle of Saleratus is turned to gas, and passes through the bread or biscuit while baking; consequently nothing remains but common Salt, Water and Flour. You will readily perceive by the taste of this Saleratus that it is entirely different from other Saleratus.
It is packed in one pound papers, each wrapper branded, "B. T. Babbitt's Best Medicinal Saleratus," also, picture, twisted loaf of bread, with a glass of effervescing water on the top. When you purchase one paper you should preserve the wrapper, and be particular to get the next exactly like the first—brand as above.
Full directions for making Bread with this Saleratus and Sour Milk or Cream Tartar, will accompany each package; also, directions for making all kinds of Pastry; also, for making Soda Water and Seidlitz Powders.

MAKE YOUR OWN SOAP, WITH
B. T. BABBITT'S PURE CONCENTRATED POTASH.
Warranted double the strength of ordinary Potash; put up in cans—1 lb., 2 lbs., 3 lbs., 6 lbs. and 12 lbs.—with full directions for making Hard and Soft Soap. Consumers will find this the cheapest Potash in market.
