

THE ELECTION.

Our State and County elections of yesterday more quietly than ever before within our memory, except among the candidates and their friends, but slight interest in the result manifested.

The vote cast is unusually small. At the time we write, it is impossible to give anything more than a general idea of the result. The entire Republican ticket is probably elected, but by generally reduced majorities. Some of the Democratic candidates have not been coming within a few hundred votes of their election.

This in a county where the majority against us is generally from 4000 to 6000, speaks well for the Republican majority on the State Ticket will be from 2500 to 3000. Last year it was 8423. In eleven districts heard from, principally in the two cities, the Democratic gain is about 300 over last year.

SECOND EDITION.

We have no reason from the completion of the returns received since our first edition, for the returns issued to alter the general remarks concerning the result in our county. The figures which we give show conclusively that the entire Republican ticket has been elected, and we have succeeded in reducing the Opposition majority very considerably. The Democracy have done well, when it is considered that the margin against us in Allegheny county is usually numbered by the thousands.

The telegraphic returns from the State show that in many counties the Democracy have gained very considerably. In Philadelphia the Opposition majority on the State Ticket is about 2,000, the returns yet received are too few to decide how the State has gone. We have hopes that the Democracy have carried it. At all events the majority either way will not be large, and the work of yesterday argues well for the Democracy next year, when the great contest will come off.

THE ELECTION.

The scattering returns from this morning's large Democratic majority on the State Ticket, and the Opposition in that State are indicated. We refer to our tables and telegraphic columns for further particulars.

THE ELECTION.

There are 25 districts yet to hear from, but they cannot change the result.

Gas Manufactured from Water.

It has been maintained that a successful trial of gas manufactured from water, took place at Wilmington, Delaware, on Saturday evening. A number of scientific men, and several persons connected with the Philadelphia gas works were present. According to the North American, the experiment was so successful that the new gas is much more brilliant than that made from coal—that the Northern Liberties Gas Company has consented to substitute the new process for the one it has hitherto been using. The cost of the new gas, it is stated, will be from thirty to fifty cents per thousand feet, and will save nine-tenths of the labor and expense of extracting coal gas works. The theory of the process is said to be as follows:

Colonel Fremont's Reported Letter.

An article appearing in a New York paper some days since, mentioning a current report that Colonel John C. Fremont had written a letter in 1850, in consideration of several existing circumstances, he is not and will not be a candidate for the Presidency in 1860. In the first place, it is intimated that he declares that he has no idea of seeking himself for office, and that he does not desire to be a candidate for the Presidency in 1860. It is intimated that he declares that he has no idea of seeking himself for office, and that he does not desire to be a candidate for the Presidency in 1860.
