SENATOR BIGLER ON THE PRESENT CRISIS.

The following extracts from a patriotic letter written by Senator Bigler to a friend in Philadelphia, have found thier way into print:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 19, 1859.

My Dear Sir: * * * You have my thanks for a copy of the proceedings of the great Union meeting held at Jaynes' Hall on the 7th inst. I have read them through with emotions of delight. How gladly I should have participated in them, but I could not. Nothing could have been more beneditting than the enunciation of such patriotic sentiments in defense of the Constitution and Union, so near the sacred spot where both were formed. It was opening the fire on fanatics and traitors, from the right battery, and I hope this assalut may be followed up by other Northern communities, until the demon of sectionalism is driven from the land.

You can hardly imagine how the manifestations of sympathy with that wretched man Brown, have wounded and embittered the feelings of Southern men. They are chaotically disgusted with such exhibitions of a depraved popular taste, and I think justly so. Brown, by the showing of his own party organ, in Kansas, the Herald of Freedom, was a man of infamous practices; one who sowed dissensions amongst his neighbors—who counselled disobedience to law, and resistance to its officers; who advised the use of the rifle, the revolver and the bowie-knife, rather than the ballot-box in the settlement of political differences; who, more than once, participated in the murder of white men and the larceny of negroes and horses—who, in 1857, solemnly pledged himself, with others, to take life just so often as might be necessary to prevent any man holding office under the Lecompton Constitution, in case of its acceptance by Congress; and who as we all know, afterwards devoted months of his time in collecting together the most brutal implements of warfare with which the slaves, not familiar with fire arms, were to murder their masters and mistresses in case he succeeded in raising an insurrection in Virginia, and that he did actually commence the work of blood and carnage at Harper's Ferry; and yet, to the disgrace of the country it must be confessed that when this man, thus steeped in crime, is brought to justice, men are found in one part of the Union, and many of them to rise up and bewail his fate, and claim him as a martyr to freedom. Even the pulpit has been desecrated to this work, and all this because Brown was making war on an institution common to fifteen of the sovereign States of the Union, which it is admitedly their constitutional right to have and enjoyin peace. Had Brown's crimes no connection with slavery, who does not know that Phillips and Choever and Beecher and Wright and Smith would have turned from him with loathing and disgust. But it is said Brown was crazy about slavery. I do not believe that, but if it is no reason why it is no reason whole communities should become crazy about Brown.

As to the Helper book to which you refer, I have not read it through: but if the Compendium be a fair reflex of its contents, I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most vicious political work ever issued from the American press, calculated, if not intended, to do infinite mischief to our institutions. It is bad enough that men of ability and position in the country, should seek to engender strife between the States for partizan ends; but this man Helper, as though instigated by the flesh and the devil, goes deliberately about the work of establishing different classes of citizens within the same State, and advising them to war on each other. He advises the non-slaveholding citizens to suspend all intercourse, social and commercial, with his neighbors who hold slaves, and to treat him with disgust and indignity, thus begetting jealousy and hate among those who should be friends, and poisoning the very source of all kindly fraternity. To what viler infamy can any man devote himself? Nor will it be found for the sixty-seven Republican members of Congress who endorsed the compendium to this book, to say that they did so without being aware of its contents. They must come out and discard its doctrines in toto, if they would make amend for the mischief done to the peace of the country. But I fear they will not do so, for many of them owe their political prominence to the favor of fanatical Abolitionists.

As I said before, I am delighted with the proceedings of the meeting in your city, but, my dear friend, all the meetings of the kind that are likely to assemble will not give peace to the country, so long as a great party in the North, like the Republican, seek to gain control of the government by a sectional organization, and by maintaining doctrines and issues in derogation of the rights of the Southern States and offensive to their pride, as co-equal members of the confederacy. Mr. Seward's "irrepressible conflict," for the mastery, between the free and slave States, must be discarded and denounced; and more, so much of the last Republican platform as rates negro slavery a relic of barbarism as base as Mormonism, must also be abandoned. What could be more offensive than this similitude? An institution common to the South is formally arraigned by a party seeking to gain the government as a barbarism, and, of course, as much a crime as Mormonism, and the people of the United States are asked to endorse that sentiment at the polls—to adjudge that the citizens of fifteen States are criminals; and yet, the representatives of this party in Congress say they have no connection with or sympathy for the Abolition party in the North. This is absurd; so long as they maintain such doctrines they must sympathize with the Abolitionists and the Abolitionists with them; and how could they hold any institution to be a barbarism and a crime and then say they do not intend to assail it everywhere. The truth is, we people in the North must mind our own business. We have no connection with slavery; no duties to perform about it, no rights at stake, no responsibilities to bear, except to do what the Constitution enjoins about the rendition of fugitive slaves.

All that is necessary is to take the Constitution as a guide and recognize no issue in conflict with that instrument; this done, and the free States are separated from the slave by question entirely, and peace will be restored to the whole country, except the croaking of a feeble band of disunionists at the South, who are not likely to gain power enough to do harm.

* * * * *

Very truly, your ob't servant,

WM. BIGLER.

Starting Blackberry Cuttings.

EDS. CO. GENT.—According to promise I send you the plan I pursued with my blackberry cuttings. I had a hot-bed of fifty sash ready for cucumbers with a strong under heat. I smoothed the surface under five sash at one end of the bed. I then spread the cuttings on the surface of the bed, and covered them about two inches with light mould, and then put on the sash and tended them the same as the cucumbers, and in five days they commenced coming up, and in ten days the bed was covered with briars from one to six inches high. I now took the sash off in warm and moist days, and put them on again at night, and by April 20th I had plants eighteen inches high, which was twenty days from the time I started them; and on the 22d of April I set out a few of the strongest, and although there were several very hard frosts they started and grew finely. May 9th I set out another lot which did very well. May 20th, I set out another lot which on account of the ground being too dry, about half died—the remainder started slowly. June 1st, I set out another lot which did well.

Now for the result, (Nov 1st)—the first planting will average four feet high and very branchy and strong; the second is fully as good as the first planting; the third planting, what is standing, will average two feet; the last planting is fully as as good and all standing.

To make a plantation, the cuttings should be procured in the fall or before part of winter, and tied in bunches and buried in the cellar, in order to have them ready in time; and the hot-bed should be put up the first of March with a good strong heat, the same as for cabbage. The bed should be kept well aired and moderately moist, and the cuttings (about three inches long) spread rather thin to make strong plants. There should be about one hundred plants under a sash of three by eight feet, and when the plants get up about a foot high, the sash should be taken off in moist or warm days, to make them strong and hardy, and about a week before setting out, cut them off four inches above the ground, which will prevent wilting in the field, and they can be more easily handled. Plants treated as above will be ready to set out as soon as the ground is in growing order, and will be better rooted than suckers from the nursery, and can be had for $1 per hundred. Market Gardener, Pittsburgh, Pa.)

DR. GEORGE H. KEYSER.

There appears to have been an impression abroad that this gentleman was a candidate for the Mayoralty before the Democratic Nominating Convention met. Such was not the fact. Many of his friends and fellow-citizens strongly urged Dr. Keyser to allow his name to be used, but he altogether declined the honor, and announced his preference to do good yeoman service in the ranks, which he always does, on all occasions when the Democratic party needs his services.

MARRIED:

On the 29th of December, at Washington, Pa., by Rev. John Lee, Mr. SAMUEL WILLIAMS, of Pittsburgh, to Miss SALLIE M. ROWE, of Washington, Pa.

Age and Debility.

As old age comes creeping on, it brings with it many attendant infirmities. Loss of appetite and weakness impair the health, and want of activity makes the mind discontented and unhappy. In cases where where they have been employed they have invariably given strength and restored the appetite. They have become a great agent for the shedding of activity among people who are suffering from loss of appetite and general debility. In cases of long standing chronic diseases they act as a charm in invigorating the system, thus giving nature another opportunity to repair physical injuries. See advertisement in another column.

Read Carefully.—The Genuine highly Concentrated Boerhave's Holland bitters is put up in half pint bottles only, and retailed at one dollar per bottle. The great demand for this truly celebrated Medicine has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against in purchasing. Beware of imposition! See that our name is on the label of every bottle you buy.

A CARD.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH.

IT IS A WELL-KNOWN FACT THAT first class Dentistry has been beyond the reach of the mass of people on account of its costliness, and a majority, rather than rush up with the inferior work and ship of "Cheap Dentists," have adopted the wiser course and done without any, for if a set, or teeth, be imperfect in workmanship and inelastic in fit, it is worse than useless, and dear at any price. The

CORALITE AND PORCELAIN TEETH

Have inaugurated a new era in the science of Dentistry, being the very best Artificial Teeth now in use, they can be afforded at prices that place them within the reach of all.

Being the first to introduce these new styles of work to this community, I accordingly fixed such prices as I deemed would remunerate the best artistic and mechanical skill. Since then, however, the unprecedented favor with which the work has been received, has compelled other dentists to adopt it, some of whom wish to retain the old Gold Plate prices, which I consider would be exorbitant; for, though the new styles are really more valuable than the best gold work, they are made of less expensive material. The increased amount of work done, also compensates for the reduction in price.

On the other hand, a few Dental Quacks of this city who possess neither mechanical skill or common honesty, advertise this work at prices slightly less than my own, notwithstanding they have neither the ability, nor right (if skill pretended) to manufacture it. The object of this trickery is merely to obtain an opportunity to disparage the Coralite and Porcelain, and recommend some of their own worthless work.

I have felt bound, in justice to myself and the public, to make known these facts.

The qualities of the PORCELAIN AND CORALITE PLATE TEETH, which establish their great superiority over the best Gold or Silver Metallic Plate, are—entire freedom from all metallic taste, smell or tarnish, being incorrodible and impervious to the juices of the mouth; perfect adaptation to fit, (impossible, in metallic work); which, with much greater strength and lightness, enables them to be worn with more ease, comfort and utility. They are also far more durable, less liable to accident, and more easily repaired.

The public are invited to call and examine these new styles of work, at

New Concert Grand Piano.

THE SUBSCRIBER is happy to announce to the musical profession, and the lovers of music, generally, that he will receive, about the middle of January, from the manufactory of Chickering & Sons, Boston, one of their NEW CONCERT GRAND PIANOS, made expressly for distinguished amateurs and concert performers. The price of this instrument will be $1,000. About the same time will be received one of their superb Grands, similar to those recently sold in this city, and which have elicited the admiration of all who have examined them for their purity of tone and capability of expression, and the extreme delicacy of touch, for which the instruments of CHICKERING & SONS have no rival. Due notice will be given of the arrival of these splendid Piano Fortes.
