PURIFYING WATER FOR SOLDIERS .- During warm weather soldiers in camp and upon march can frequently obtain no water to slake their thirst and cook their food, except that of ponds, rivers and brooks. These waters are frequently charged with organic matter, which is liable to produce dysentery, and, in many instances, cholers. Soldiers should therefore become intelligent, so as to provide for every contingency in war. The preservation of their health of in war. The preservation of their negative should be just as carefully guarded to insure of the Krie regiment, was hadly beaten at Dimond's drinking saloon on Liberty street, ammunition. of animal and partly of vegetable origin, both of which are very objectionable, but the ani-imal most of all. These impurities are constantly undergoing chemical changes—a fermenting process—and it is during such a state of things that the water is dangerous; because when taken into the human system in this not well known, but of the fact there can be no doubt. Rapid running streams, even if they are as brown with mud as the Mississippi river, and as much charged with organic matter, are perfectly healthy, because no chemical change—no fermentation—takes place in Sluggish streams and stagnant pools are the most to be dreaded. The mud may be filtered from the water of a running river by merely passing it through cotton cloth, a piece of blanket, or flanuel shirt, and we would advise oldiers to lo so in most instances. This simple method of straining water will und a partial safeguard for stagnant water, but not a perfect one. When on march soldiers should endeavor to endure thrist with fortitude; and when they rest for cooking their the ponds and rivers are sluggish, and charged with organic substances, boil the water for drinking, and let it stand over night. This process, they say, prevents them from taking cholera. The reason is evident, to a man of science; the high heat of boiling absorbs the The Committee of Public Safety. This body met on Saturday afternoon at half

Dear Sir.—The Medicines you introduced into our city last winter are all having a large sale, and giving in every case ratisfaction. Mr. James Henderson (one of our first citizens) says, that "he has used all of the Hair Dyes and Bestoratives of the day, but has never used an article equal to Hairserran's inintralia Hair Resconative. That it far surpasses any preparation that he has ever tried for Restoring the Hair of the baid and grey to its original luxuriance and beauty."
You can write the Proprie ors, W. E. Hagan & Co., Troy, N., that they have the chespost and best Hair Restorative in our market, and that it gives satisfaction in every case. Respectfully yours.
