OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY. PITTSBURGH:

SATURDAY MORNING

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE. The late hour at which the message was received precludes us from any comments upon it to day. It is a document which every American citizen will read and judge of for bimself. We are compelled to postpone any remarks uptil another day. It will be found on our first page.

THE FOURTH.

Never was the Anniversary of our National Independence celebrated more appropriately or more brilliantly than on Thursday last. The day was a gloriknows something. ous one, clear and calm. and at its first cool dawn the streets of our city were alive with the soldiers of our Home Guard force, making preparations for the grand parade. The booming cannon sounded the note of preparation and welcomed in the day. the vision of the American flag. General

The Home Guard parade was the great feature of the day, and was a most grand and imposing military spectacle. The order of the Commander-in-Chief. Major General Wilkins had been car ried out with true military spirit, and the forces under Brigadier General Cass, Birmingham and Johnston turned oat in thousands, uniformed and equiped in the best manner. The Colonels and Captains have done justice to their commands, and the men under them are well drilled and instructemities in our very faces? ed in all the details of martial bearing. It was wonderful to see upon parade such an immense body of effective men when we consider that our thirty companies from our county are already in the active service of their country.

Both officers and men deserve the greatest credit for the zeal and spirit with which they have entered into and per fected the military organization of the Home Guards. As a school instruction it is making soldiers at a time when soldiers are most needed. the earth.

The grand parade and inspectior upon the commons in Allegheny city was received with great delight by many thousand people, and the streets of the city along which the Troops passed were densely crowded.

The officers and men all looked well, and bore themselves like true soldiers. Gen. Wilkins with his erect form, his silver locks, his splendid uniform and
