OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY. PITTSBURGH:

THURSDAY MORNING,:::::JULY 11. THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMIT-TEE OF CORRE-PONDENCE, will meet at the St. Charles Hotel, on SATURDAY, July 18th, 1861, at 10 a.m. A general attendance is ear-SAMUEL HARPER, Secretary

COUNTY COMMITTEE. The Democratic County Executive

Committee will meet according to announcement on Saturday next. Not being advised of the objects of this meeting we are left, with the rest of the community, in ignorance of the in tentions of that body. We have no doubt the committee will resolve to let party wait upon country, at least, not attempt to call a convention for a partizan nomination. The disposition among all classes is to make a Union ticket, and thrust aside pettifogging ward politicians for live men with brains in their heads and patriotism in their hearts. Let no mean scramble for position or place disgrace the hour of our country's struggle, but rather sacrifice and defy denial on the part of those who, under more favorable circumstances, might be called upon to lead.

NATIONAL ARMORY.

The present extraordinary session of Congress was not permitted to endorse the executive, nor take hold of the le gitimate business which brought it into all events knows its geographical value. Office, is $3,090. but there should be another, and finat at Pittsburgh, at least in Western Pennsylvania, on one of our navigable rivers. There was considerable haste in pushing this matter before Congress, considering graphs of the moon and stars, has been the state of the country, but if that is to making an effort to get a picture of the reception? be the game, first come first served, why comet, He says that its photographic are not our Representatives alive to our power of light is so feeble as scarcely to interests, and have referred to the appropriate committees the entire subject, where the immense advantages of our region over all others can be presented.

What has become of the fund appropriated by the banks for the purpose of arming the Home Guard? We understand that upwards of twenty-five thousand dollars were given, the unexpended balance of which should be placed at once to the credit of the relief committee. This would not only be in accordance with the intention of the donors, but would be of substantial benefit to the poor families of those in the service of their country, whose helpless wives and children are now thrown upon the charity of this community. The field, will be mustered out of service equipped, and a higher and holier, but | war. less flashy duty devolves upon all at the present moment, that of furnishing food to those deprived of their natural protectors. Are we to falsify all our preten. sions and advertise to the world that gleaming bayonets and pompous parades demand our resources, unaccompanied with danger, whilst the widows and orphans of the republic are left to famish in the by-ways or clamor for a pittance at the doors of the relief committee, without the means of appeasing hunger. Let us have a report.

Our Public Lands. The unoccupied public lands of the United States according to the last report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, have an area of more than one million four hundred and seventy-eight thousand square miles. Seven eighths of this land is yet held by the Indian title and therefore not submitted to legal settlement. But from those uncultivated prairies and unknown woods, may yet be made thirtyseven States, large as the State of Ohio.

Of the character of much of this land the country is yet ignorant, though our numerous military expeditions, our trading posts in Indian territory and the United States surveys have done much in the way of defining its nature, and have partially revealed its agricultural advantages and its general value for set-
