Donnelly, a vote was then taken, resulting as follows: Donnelly, 84; Mr. Donnelly was escorted to the chair by Mr. Farley, and introduced by him to the Convention. Mr. Donnelly thanked the body for the honor 'conferred upon him, more particularly as it is a period of importance in our country's history, distracted as it is by civil war. He did not wish to foreshadow ried out this trouble would not have come upon us. But ultra men in the North and ultra men in the South have the power in their respective sections, with the result before us. Though our doctries were too mild for the abolitionists of the North and the secessionists of the South, and our teaching: have failed to preserve peace, we have yet a duty before us-the defence of our country. Our young men are on the battle field and our old men have assembled here to counsel together; he would not say what they should do; there were older and better qualified men here who would point out the proper course to pursue.
On motion of R. H. Kerr, four Vice Presidents and four Secretaries were chosen to complete the organization, as follows: Vice Presidents-Thos. Farley, Henry McCullough, James Salistury, John F Secretaries-Jacob H. Whitesell, A. J. Davis, E. P. Kearns, Jno. H. Blackford. On motion of B. H. Kerr, the Chairman appointed a committee of nine to draft resolutions, expressive of the sense of the convention, composed of the following gentlemen: R H. Kerr, Jno. R Large, Jas. A. Gibson, Jno. Quinn, Thos. Farley, Jno. Sill, S. H. Keller, J. B. Fulton and The committee retired to prepare their resolutions and Mr. Large announced that Aaron Floyd, Esq., who was present, field invited the convention to dine at Fricker's Soon after twelve o'clock the Committee on Resolutions returned and Mr. Kerr said he was instructed to make a unanimous report. He held in his hand a book seventy-four years old, containing the letter of George Washington in submitting to Congress the Constitution of the United States, which he read as introductory to the report of the committee. Its language was prophetic and he hoped the teachings it conveyed might be acted upon and that unanimity and harmony might characterize the proceedings of the body. Mr. Kerr now read the report of the committee, as follows: Resident. That we, the Democracy, in convention assembled, representing the wish and desire of the people, do most solemnly declare that the Union of the Resident that the Constitution of the American disvernment—made and entered into by the most enlightened statemen and purest of periods ever embodied for a similar purpose—"Must and shall be preserved," and unhallowed disumon and rebellion crushed out by a united people, who know the Star Spaingled Banner, and all those who would larnish its faine will be branded as traitors and remain in Spains hold on the memory of those who take up arms against the country; and we therefore say to the constituted authorities not to spare money in the preservation of the Huton, and protecting the Constituted authorities not to spare money in the preservation of the Huton, and protecting the Constitution from ruthless despoilers. Resourt, That the Democracy of the North were never known to favor or encourage dissolution. But this cannot be said in truth for our opponents, who problatmed "let the Union slide." WESTERN VIRGINIA. CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, July 31.-House.-Mr. Blair, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a bill providing fo he monthly payment of troops; passed, Mr. Vallandigham, of Ohio, offered the ollowing resolution, which was objected to by Messrs. Lovejoy and Washburne: WHEREAS, James E. Harvey, Minister to Portugal, did in the month of March and April last, convey confidential and rebellion in said State And whereas, the sail James E Harvey has subsequently declared in public communication, that all of the dispatches by him sent to the rebels! in South Carolina were first shown to the members of the administration. Therefore Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to ascertain what members of the administration were thus concerned in aiding and abetting treasonable communication with rebels, and if not incompatible with public interest to forthwith remove said persons from au thority under him, and to recall James E. Harvey.
