ing everybody on board. COAL OIL .- The late explosions in factories where coal oil was being distilled have drawn public attention to the fact, and many persons have begun to doubt the propriety of using the oil in private hous es. There are many persons, not only in the country villages, but in the city, who are not favored with the introduction of B L L A R . gas into their premises, and who are com pelled to resort to other illuminating agents. Coal oil, from its brilliant ligh has become a great favorite, and as it has been represented as non explosive, it has been used where burning fluid would not be tolerated. That coal oil is non-explosve is true, when rightly made, notwithstanding the late accidents from its use In order to furnish a cheap article some to cause an explusion, unless the oil be deceased by informing Jake Hill, Hand first brought to a boiling point. Persons street. who use coal oil should be careful to obtain the pure article; it may cost a trifle more, but it will be perfectly safe to use. House Burned -On last Friday week the fine new dwelling house of Mr. Geo Fulton, situated in Mount Pleasant township, Washington county, on the valley road between Burgettstown and Hickory, was totally consumed by fire.
