MONDAY MORNING:::::::::DEC. 30 CITY MATTERS. Bur Meeting on the Death of Hon. William B. McClure—A Sorrewful Assemblage.

We have never been present at any public meeting where the feeling of dejec-tion and gloom was so manifest on every itenance as at that convened on Satur day morning in the court-room of the Court of Quarter Sessions. The meeting was an adjourned one from Saturday and as a committee on resolutions, appointed on Friday, was expected to report, the attendance was very large, nearly every member of the bar in the city being present—the courts having adjourned on the announcement of the death of Judge Mc-Olure. The proceedings were characterized by great solemnity and sorrow was de-picted on the features of all, as none knew. Judge McClure but to love him. At half past ten o'clock Judge Shaler took the chair, as President of the former meeting and called the assemblage to order.

Messrs. Hampton and Riddell took their places as Sacratica.

On motion of Thomas M. Marshall. Judges Hampton and Williams were requested to act as Vice Presidents of the meeting and took seats on the bench. Judgo Mellon, chairman of the committee appointed to cousult with the family of deceased, reported that they had performed their duty; they might, after the report of the commi

a man upright in principle and practice, an affectionate husband and father, a kind friend, a sincere Christian, a profound scholar, an eminent lawyer and a just judge. In every relation of life he was all that he should be and a man of whom every member of the bar and every citizen could feel proud and reverence his

The President called upon the mover of the resolutions, Mr. Swartzweider, to make some remarks. Mr. Swartzwelder said that he feared the intensity of his emotions, consequent upon the death of a friend so long known and valued, might prevent their just expression.

He said the great cardinal virtue of Justice McClure, that which most distinguished him, was integrity of heart and head, of the affections and the thoughts. He was emphatically an honest thinker and doer, scrupulously conscientious in the discoharge of his multifarious duties, "scorning delights, and living laborious days," insomuch that he fell at last a victim to his sense of duty. In the administration of the criminal law, (though a humane, benevolent and ten der-hearted man) he kept constantly in view its end—Justice; and where the facts were evident, he rarely permitted the end to be sacrificed by the means, justly believing with that great criminal lawver, Justice Hale, that severity towards the culprit was justice and mercy to the community, regarding the living spirit of the law rather

Sensibly slive to all the gentle and humanizing influences of poesy and art, he did not disdain their use and aid in giving grace and comeliness to dry abstractions; in legal argumentation, as in architecture, he gratified the sence while he improved the use: familiar with the literature of the past and present, he culled from the gardens of the poets and divines, Shakespeare and Taylor, Fuller and Milton, flowers wherewith to adorn and beautify the otherwise arid domains of Foster and Hale. So just a magistrate, so gentle a man, could not be otherwise than a good Christian, and sure of the Christian's reward. May we strive to acquire his Christian graces and emulate his virtues.

Peace to his ashes. Hon. A. W. Loomis said that the highest alegy he could pronounce upon the official character of the departed was a repetition of that written by Byron on the death of Henry Kirke White, who fell a victim to over exertion in making literary researches, as did the deceased to his unremitting labor as a judge. He repeated the stanza in a feeling tone, as follows: "Oh! what a noble heart was here undone, when Science's self destreyed her favolite son! Yes, she too much indulged t'y local pursnit, she sow'd the seeds, but death has reap'd the fruit. Twas thine own genius gave the finat blow. And help'd to plant the wound that hid thee low: So the struck eagle, truck'd upon the plain, No more through rolling chinds to can again, Nemore through rolling chinds to can again, No more through rolling chinds to dart, and winged the shaft that quivared in his hear! Keen were his pangs, but keener far to tee! He nursed the pinion which impelled the steel, While the same plumage that had warmed his nest." I have the last life-drop of his bleeding breast." He warmly culorized the private sint.

He warmly eulogized the private virtue the deceased, and hoped all present might emulate these, and like him, at last find their just reward. After similar appropriate addresses from J. C. P. Smith, who extelled Judge Mc-Olure's qualities as a judge, R. B. Carna. han, who cited an instance of his gener ofity in refusing to accept an apology when he had committed a contempt by using improper language to the bench, Jas. H. Hopkins, who spoke in behalf of the younger members of the bar, John R. unanimously.

Thomas M. Marshall, from the com mittee to consult with the family of deceased, moved, as the sense of the commitmittee of nine, to provide a monument or other suitable testimonial to exhibit the respect and affection entertained by the members of the bar for the deceased. A resolution to this effect was offered, which was seconded by Wm. M. Shinn, who remarked that he was ready to contribute his mite to perpetuating Judge McClure's qualities as a Judge in marbic his social and private excellences could not be so perpetuated and they should be hand-ed down to posterity in a more enduring form than mere tradition. The resolution was then adopted unani

Mr. Swartzwelder offered the following, which was passed: WRICH WAS PASSED:

Paris, 3d December, 1861. SIR:—The arrest of Messieurs Mason and Siidell, on board the English packet "Trent" by an American cruiser, has produced in France, if not the same emotion as in England, at least extreme astonishment and sensation. Public sentiment was at once engrossed with the lawfulness and the consequences of such an act, and the impression which has resulted from this has not been, for an instant, doubtful.

The fact hes appeared so much out of accordance with the ordinary rules of insecondance with the ordinary rules of international law, that it has chosen to throw the responsibility for it exclusively on the commander of the San Jacinto.

From Washington-The Trent Affair. WASHINGTON, Dec 28.—The settlement of the Trent affair affords much gratificanon among all conservatives. Prominent Union loving men, whatever may have been their previous opinions on the subject, regard the adjustment as removing a sericus impediment in the prosecution of hos-tilities -gainst the insurgents, and as depriving the exemy of the strength which they would have desired from a war between the United States and Great Britain, and possibly France. There is a generally expressed acquiesmanlike ability.

Taking it Philisophically. Boston, Dec. 28 —The public here re-eived the announcement of the surrender f Mason and Slidell to Great Britain In me all such suggestions of this kind, I prefer to express a validaction, that by the adjustment of the present case upon principles confessedly American, and yet, as I trust, nutually satisfactory to both the nations concerned, a Juestion is finally and rightly settled between them which, heretofore, exhausting not only all forms war itself, for more than shalf a century alienated the two countries from each other. The four parsons in allegation are now alien and in multiple confessed with fears and apprehentation in military muschy at rort Warren, in the first of the difficulties with which the Cabinet of Washington has already to struggle. The four parsons in allegation are now alied in multiple confessed with fears and apprehentation in the first of the difficulties with which the Cabinet of Washington by not present complication; and a precedent of an atture seriously to disquist all the precedent of an atture seriously to disquist all the precedent of a student of the existing contest. We believe that we give syldence of loyal friendship for the Cabinet of Washington by not permitting it to remain in gnorance in this condition of things of our manner of rehat Mason and Slidell are not worth their poard here nor elsewhere.

The steamer Niagara arrived this after.

Fight in Missouri.

PALMYRA, Mo., Dec. 29.—Yesterda ien. Prenties with 450 m and dispersed a body of rebels 900 strong, under Col. Dorsey, at Mt. Lion, Boone county, killing and wounding 150 of them, and capturing 35 prisoners, 95 horses and 105 guns. Our loss was three killed and Seren wounded. The rebels burned another bridge on the Missouri Bailroad on Saturday, and say they intend to destroy all the cars on the road from being used during the winter.

Suicide. AUGUSTA, Dec. 27 -It is reported here AUGUSTA, Den. 21 that the Steamer Gladiator, had entered a Confederate port with large quantities December, snst, concerning the proceedings of Capt. Wilkes, in arresting certain persons on board of the British contract of arms, ammunition &c.

The Richmond Examiner, says that painful rumor was in circulation there that a gentleman of that city, holding t commission in the a my of the Potomsc. had committed suicide, by shooting himelf through the head. Death of Judge Legrand Baltimore, Dec. 28.—John C. Legrand, ex Chief Justice of Maryland, died this norning.
