PITTSBURGH:

FRIDAY MORNING.....JAN. 10 CITY MATTERS.

"The Colleen Bawn." Many of our readers will remember with pleasure this essentially Irish drama, as produced here last season. It is one of Bourcicault's dramatizations, from an old Irish novel, entitled "The Collegians," and a admirably arranged with regard to stage novel, entitled "The Collegians," and a admirably arranged with regard to stage effect. The scene is on the shores of Lake Killarney. Hardness Oregan, son of a mother of high birth but poor in purse, who desires him to marry his cousin Ann Chate, an heiress, falls in love with and a scretly marries Etly O'Connor, the Colleen Bawn. Operions a law of the control of Bawn. Corrigan, a lawyer was holds morting ages on the Cregan estate, threatens to toreclose (as he sees no hope of Hardress marrying Ann) unless the wilow Cregan choises to accept him, which she indig nantly refuses. Ann Chue is in love with one Daly, friend of Hardress, and Daddy Mann, toster brother of the latter, and deal mann, to ster brother of the latter, and the mann to ster brother of the latter, and the mann to ster brothe Bawn. Ann and the wily Corrigant paves the castle, receiving as a remembrancer from the enantry a ducking in the horse pond. This piece has been in preparation for some time, and will be produced with new scenery, to-night, on the occasion of Mr. Collins' benefit. He personates Myles, Mr. Henderson Daddy Mann and Mrs. Ettie Henderson the "Colleen Bawn." We look for an overflowing house.

Who FIRST ANSWERD THE PRESIDENT'S CALL?—The question of what company in this State first responded to the call for volunteers is heing agitated in V
the Eastern papers. The honor was first claimed by the Ringgold Artillery, of Reading, but it now seems that the Logan Guards, Capt. John B. Selhelmer, are entitled to that honor. The company recaiv titled to that honor. The company recaiv. ed orders to proceed to Harrisburg, on the 16th of April, and were ready to leave by nine o'clock that night, but by some misnanagement did not get off until four o'clock next morning, arriving at Harris-burg at six, one hour before any other company, though four arrived soon after. They were all sworn in together; and on the morning of the 18th the five comanies left Harrisburg for Washington city. During their passage through Bal-timore, and their entrance into Washington, the Logan Guards had the right, and were the first company to report them salves for duty to the A jutant General It is but just, therefore, that the credit should fall on those who deserve it—the gallant Logan Guards, Captain John B. selbeimer, of Lewistown, Mifflin county, THE CIL BUSINESS AT MEADVILLE .-The Crawford County Democrat says:—

There are marked indications that the Oil trade is "looking up." Scores upon scores of wagons, loaded with Oil in bar rels and barrels without Oil, pass along our streets every day. Some of these are, no doubt, hauling to and from the refineries in our borough, but the large majority are in transit between Oil Creek and the western part of this country, where the railroad connection is made.
