of rebellion, as will likely leave its prostrate carcass without any life at all .--The river expedition, under the command of Gen. McClernand, arrived at Maysville, Ky., on Friday evening, and encamped for the night. From Cairo a formidable expedition started down the Mississippi, but its precise destination is not made known. It numbers sixty thousand men, and is consequently expected to make some important impressions in the South-western division of the rebellion. Gen. Burnside is moving with a formidable naval force; it arrived at Fortress Monroe on Saturday last; peither is this expedition's destination made public. The impression, howeverin regard to these powerful undertakings, is that the forces on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, that under Burnside. and the grand army of the Potomac under Gen. McClellan, are all to strike about the same time and make an im. pression so crushing as to insure a speedy suppression of the rebellion. A few days, or possibly hours, may bring us stirring news, and settle the question as to our government's ability to put down treason against her authority. It will be seen by the following ex tract, which we take from a long article in the Mobile Register, that they are apprehensive of impending danger, which all their assurances of strength cannot conceal:

*A luli, a pause, a suspense exist, prece ded by minor events, which cause a feeling of apprehension more than of confidence in the future. We know that the enemy are in great force and meditate mischief, and feel that ere long their blows, the heav their hammer will strike our anvil: but of at some points, there is an anvil to meet These points can only be an ors, for we are ready to meet their at Munrayas, in Control Kentucky, Columbus, and also at some points must. But we do not know with drwhelming force they may not the President assured him of his personal good will by the tender of the very honor point and gain a success to inspirit them and dispirit us. Let us remember, how ver, that our determination in the prosecution of this war is not dependent on victories though theirs may be. If every battle ended in our defeat, we must still offer battle and make new sacrifices of slaughter upon the sitar of independence. If we could not win the inevitable goal of our effort by defeating the enemy, we could do ries. Wars have been so won. "L ve or die, survive or perish," we are "for inde

"But our cause coes not approach this bad strait yet. It displays an almost uninter-rupted record of victories, and their remembrance should it stire our entire confiits future history. This full of ar as will be broken amon by the shouts of the enemy may choose their battle fields. Is it not why we wait impatiently, that we wait for victories? If we dreaded defeat, we should not be impatient for the event. Our very impatience, then, is a presage to victory, which lesser evidence of despondency cannot discountenance."

GEN. CAMERON. In yesterday's paper we announced the withdrawal of General Cameron from the United States Cabinet, but had no time to glance at the reasons given for his retirement. They are so absurd and im- ant Commanding M. Gaw, of the Freedorn, to carpudent as to convince us that there was expressed his opinion that he cruit at de

The following are the reasons given for "Gen. Cameron accepted the office of Sec-meters of War with great rejuctance, prehead wave d-clared his intention to va

The friends of General Dameron claum that he can, and will afford to lay a-ide his exhausting labors, having accomplished so much in the organization and equipment of the largest army ever assembled on the American Continent. "Our present relations with Europe are deeme! bighly important and interesting, and as Russia seems to be a strong friendly power, the President was anxious that some one should act as Minister at the Court of St Petersburgh, in whom he has entire confidence, who can ably and fairly represent his yibws and aid our cause in Europe." Whoever invented these reasons for Gen. Cameron's leaving the Cabinet, is more facetious than truthful; his taking Uselessness of Cavalry Swords the War Department with "great reluctance" would be laughable were it not so notoriously untrue. We all remember that a powerful section of the Republican party protested against his receiving a Cabinet appointment. A protest was which President Lincoln thought of sufficient weight to induce him to exclude

The General went to work, and with his usual energy, succeeded in having the objections to him not only withdrawn, but by supe. and quite the word of command, in our own cayrior tact induced his former enemies to sign other papers urging his appointment. This was the sort of "reluctance? manifested by Gen. Cameron up. britile than steel ones. A Sigh at Chilianwallsh on taking a seat in the Washington Cabinet. The other reasons are equally absurd. Even if Gen. Cameron is entitled to all the praise due for the raising of an army so formidable as ours, this is no time for his leaving his position in the Cabinet. If he ever was of any use there, (except to himself and his satellites,) now is the time for him to be doubly useful. The war is only about beginTo Brig-dier-General W. S. Resecrans:

By the way, the General might as well take Cummings with him as Secretary of Legation; their joint abilities as financiers and diplomats would doub less raise our country in the estimation of the Russian bears. But some people think that the General will draw the outfit of his mission, take an European tour, visit the capital of Russia, present his credentials and make a speech about the greatness of our country, and the necessity of negro emancipation; and after having his adask to be recalled, and come back to time for all this. The Legislature that meets next winter elects Wilmot's successor, and we would advise all those ambitious gentlemen in this State (especially Forney) who are looking to
