PITTSBURGH POST BATURDAY, JANUARY 25, 1862. EXPRESSIONS OF ENGLISH

OPINION. When Secretary Seward called upon our Northern Governors to immediately fortify their coasts, in anticipation of foreign aggression, every one saw that it was but a bit of bluster, intended entirely for effect abroad. Although that sagacious minister assured the country that there was no probability of difficulty with any foreign power, still he inaisted that we should put ourselves in fighting condition at all events. This game of bluster was not quite deep enough to either intimidate or bamboo sle John Bull. That sturdy old bruiser and buffer had been in the prize ring too often to give up his belt so easily, and the result of the matter is that the English press regard the conduct of our government as that of an overgrown bully who relied more upon big talk and looks than any genuine pluck or disposition to fight. Even Mr. Seward's "graceful" caving in, in handing over the rebel commissioners with such alacrity, the sweet tones of the press commenting upon that performance, together with our lamentations over the possible breaking out of hostilities between two "Christian people, speaking the same language and professing the same religion," have not succeeded in represented by the exaggerst d reports of picion of leaving his residence in Anapolia, to Residence in Process (Phon here been placed process South. He had recently returned from this change in the sentiment of the New York press; prior to the giving up of Mason and Slidell, the London Herald,

The tone of the American press is altered. It is comparatively moderate and ressonable. Unfortunately, we cannot re cognize-in the change any better motive than fear."

We have now got a day's later news from America, and the change which in wenty-four hours has been effected in the strongly expressed resolve of the people that country is something startling to us Our courageous cousins there fall from shouting to whining and exchange their big words for very small talk indeed Thinking that we should mince that mat-Lor, they proclaimed themselves ready to fight us. Hearing that we, too, or baring our arms and assuming the "posture of defence," they tuck down their sleeves again, tell us that it was all a mistake, and they hope no offence will be taken.

"We trust that our government will profit by this gratifying lesson. She lar difficulty arise again we shall know how to deat with the American government. This means, we presume that the next time our government puts on airs, John Bull will put us through a course of kicking, and not give us a chance to explain or apologize.

we have selected from quite a number of English editorials, one can readily imagine the shout that will go up when is not calculated to produce soldiers of Fallstaffian land Oil. It may be taken on water as a pull with a calculated to produce soldiers of Fallstaffian land Oil. It may be taken on water as a pull with government will be sneared at; how the rebel minister will be feasted, and how loyal Americans in England will bow hands especially if they look plump and juicy. All this humiliation might have been avoided; but there is such a thing as people being too smart; Mr. Seward could not think of doing at first what Minister, and his extraordinary knowledge of international law. His anxiety to excel the great State productions of Webster and Marcy, while they were the Premiers of our Government, led him to the indulgence of that dangerous vanity. Giving the rebels up at once, and without demand from England, was entirely too simple and straightforward a proceeding for a great diplomatist. The only thing we have gained from England, by our proceeding, is simply her contempt, and that, too, expressed in the most significant terms of derision at our poltroonery.

FRIEND JAMES :- Just as we nad completed vinter quarters, and after spending too weeks of ardnous labor in the construction of a forminab e breast work for our protection, the order came to improvements, which will be completed by the pack our traps and forward to this piace. We left the Point of Rocks, on Friday the 10th inst, and espice of the first Senate of the Confederate States took the low-path of the Ches peaks and Oblo canal, as the shortest route. The detatchment consisted of twenti-one men with one gun under the command of Lieutenant Chas A. Atwell Cartain Knap, accomponied the squad for four miles to see us safely over the difficult portion of the road. When stopped by an obstacle of rather dangeron appearance, it was encouraging to the men to see low both the Captain and Lientenant, dismount ing, placed their shoulders to the w.eel. The Saptain bade us good bye after seeing us we lad vanced on the route, and we reached Sandy Hook at eight o'clock that evening. The following night under cover of the darkness, the gun in charge of Sergeant, Corporal and ten men, was placed on Maryland Heights.
