PITTSBURGH POST. JAMES P. BARR, EDITORANDPROPRIETOR

TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 4. CITY MATTERS. Escape of Four Prisoners from the Pen-itentiarj. About twelve o'clock on Sunday night, four prisoners, confined in the Western Penitentiary, effected their escape and had not, at last accounts, been re-captured.— The four were confined in one cell and they managed to escape by picking at the bolts which secure the iron plate in the cell window, until they were able to remove it. The only instruments they could have used are the shuttles employed in weaving and it is believed that they had worked with these, alternately, at night, for months, until their purpose was effected. The plate once removed, access to the yard was could assist each other.

the prison description, are as follows:— William alias La Fozier Stephens; 16 years old; 5 feet 6½ inches in height; light brown hair. James Oross; 20 years old; 5 feet 6½ inches in height; slender; light complexion; auburn hair, scar on left broker and threat George in the Court of the Cou cheek and throat. George Agey; 17 years old; 5 feet 4½ inches in height; light brown hair; dark eyes. George Talbot; 24 years old; 5 feet 5½ inches in height; slender; ausburn hair; light blue orges Research burn hair; light blue eyes. Stephens and Cross, though young in years, had been guilty of numerous thefts, and were sent. enced for stealing a quantity of penknives, &c., from the hardware store of P. H. Lanffman & Rro. Wood street. Lauffman & Bro., Wood stacet. Agey was sentenced for stealing butter in Allegheny Oity, and selling it. Talbot was sent here from Cambria county. The police are on the watch for the fugitives and we may expect to hear of the recap ture of one or more of them before long.

The New Regime at the Mayor's Office. On Saturday evening, after the roll of the night-watch had been called, Mayor Sawyer addressed the force briefly, informing them what he would expect in future in the following language:

Gentlemen of the Night-Watch: That you may perform the duties devolving upon you intelligently and satisfactorily to my fellow-citizens I deem it proper to make a few cautionary observations, which I trust you will treasure up in your minds and profit by in all your official intercourse with your fellow-citizens. And first and before all you must be sober men, for none other can be good officers, and I say, definitely and finally to you, that to be officers of mine you must be sober men, for if you are not you will want that coolness that is an indespensible requisite to a good officer. I also say as decidedly that you must be careful not to abuse those you arrest, for I am satisfied that the force is sufficiently attended to a decided of the same ficiently strong to render abuse of prisons are unnecessary. In all matters of doubt ers unnecessary. In all matters of doubt refer to your superior officers and I trust the future may prove prosperous to your-solves and families and reflect credit on our city as being represented by a police force that has no superior. We hope these instructions may be fully carried out and that the expectations of the Mayor may be realized.

We observe some improvements about the Mayor's office worthy of mention.— The room on Diamond alley, assigned to the use of the captain of the watch, has been cleaned, freshly papered, and new desks and settees introduced. Here Mayor ary morning cases" at an earlier hour than heretofore (say six or seven o'clock) and much more privately, leaving the entire day to attend to his other duties and relieving such members of the night watch as have made arreets at an earlier hour. The watch house cells have been white-washed, the passage way cleared out and three cells, separate from the others, suitably arranged for the accommodation of female prisoners, with cots, &c. Under the new arrangement prisoners will suffer as little inconvenience as may be from confinement in the tombs. One of the side rooms in the front office is being fitted up for the accommodation of the day police, who now spend their leisure time around the stove, which is painfully suggestive of beziness or neglect of duty. The "Rogues' Gallery," intended more for the benefit of the police than the inspection of the public, will be removed from the inner office to this apartment, which will be designated the "Chief's

Other improvements are contemplated by the Police Committee, one of which is the erection of a small room in the rear of the present office, to be used as a private room by the Mayor. This has always been needed and should be at once supplied. The beginning of Mayor Sawyer's administration promises well and we hope the same energy and efficiency may char-

Collision. -A collision occurred near Huntingdon, on the Pennsylvania rail-road, last week, by which the locomotives of two colliding trains were badly broken up, and three or four cars thrown into the canal. One of the locomotives was entired ly new, and had been on the road but a very short time. In jumping off the trains, only one man was hurt, and he was injured by his jumping on some rocks, cutting an ugly gash in his knee just below the cap.

THE LATE EXPLOSION. - Michael Turchswerrer, first engineer of the Advance, re-ported himself to the Local Inspectors yesterday. They will investigate the case under the law of 1888, under which the boat was navigating, and, if the facts warrant, order his arrest for trial on a charge of manslaughter. The boilers of the boat were inspected a few months since, and found in good condition; the appearance found in good condition; the appearance of the pieces brought back indicates that the metal had been heated redshot before the explosion. The boat has been running the explosion. The boat has been running that more than four years, (not eight or nine, as we stated yesterday,) and the boilers were new at that time.

Collision.-One night last week, the Collision.—One night last week, the tow-bost Cosgraue and steamer Oottage collided on the Aliegheny river above the Freeport aqueduct. The Cottage, on her way to Oil Creek, had just passed the aqueduct and was raising her chimneys, and the Qosgrave was "rounding to" above the aqueduct, to lay up till morning: She ran into the Cottage, broke twenty-nine of her timbers and considerably frightened some of the passengers, who were ened some of the passengers, who were thrown out of their berths. The Cosgrave received little injury, and the damage to the Cottage can be repaired for $200.—

The boats were not visible to those on board of either, in the darkness, because of the smoke from the chimney butts of the
