PITTSBURGH POST SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1862.

THE CAZETTE ON EMANCI-PATION.

In teply to our demand of the Gazette to give us a programme for the emancipation of the slaves in the South, and for their maintenance after they are free, it treated us yesterday to a couple of columns of quotations from Abolition authorities, one of whom tells us what he saw ut Beaufort, and in other localities in the South. From another writer it quotes to prove that emancipation in of the Post."

Our neighbor is somewhat mystified; its researches through Abolition author those of foreign traders and mariners. has been raving for emancipation for nine months; we desire to know how this ping. Philip drunk with the spirit is to be brought about first and how we are to provide for the maintenance of four millions of slaves afterwards? The Gasette answers these questions by quota tions which are about as relavent as the passage in the declaration of independence would be about "all men being created equal." Set them free, give them plenty of work and pay them well, and is manumitted millions will get along alegantly, says the Gazette. We have no doubt of it; and we see precisely how likely they would be to receive these brethren, in the laws of proscription against a colored man's existence in some of our Northern States. Give a man plenty to eat and he will not be hungry, but the precise difficulty sometimes is to obtain something to eat. 3.But allowing that the four millions of elaves are just as fi. as the best of us to provide for themselves, and that we are all anxious to help them, we return to the first point in dispute and ask our neighbor for its plan of emancipa-The slaves remember must first be made free before they can lux. uriate in comforts to which four mil lions of white men in the free States are total strangers.
