

DEATH IN THE COUNTY JAIL.

A woman named Nancy Smith, committed yesterday at the County Jail, died in her cell in the jail at four o'clock on Saturday morning. The coroner held an inquest on the body and the jury found a verdict of death from pneumonia. Deceased was about 24 years of age and resided with her husband in Allegheny. She leaves four children, all young.

THE "POST" IN WHEELING.

Our agent in Wheeling for the Post, J. W. Pitcock, Esq., of this city, who has established a branch news depot in that city, has always managed to keep ahead of the times and give the people of Wheeling the latest news from the East and West—and the people of Wheeling may congratulate themselves on having so indefatigable a news dealer among them in these exciting times.

PROPOSED INCREASE.

A number of our citizens have arrived at the conclusion that steam fire engines cannot be run for $1,000 each per annum, the sum appropriated, and an effort will be made to increase the rate to $1,500 each.

OAK ADVERTISEMENTS.

W. O. C. Higgins, of this city, has accepted a call from the congregation of Grace (German) Church, at Wheeling, to assume his duties at once.

NEW BRIDGE COMPANY.

A bill has been read in the Legislature for the incorporation of a company to erect a bridge over the Youghiogheny river at Layton, Fayette county to donate $2,000 to the work.

THE CASE OF PITTSBURGH vs. WALLACE.

Justice Wallace, in the District Court, is calling the great degree of interest in the case of Pittsburgh vs. Wallace, a court case which will be resumed at ten o'clock this morning.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

ALL STYLES AND ALL PRICES. DIARIES FOR 1882. W. S. HAVEN.

JOSEPH MEYER & SON.

Manufacturers of FANCY AND PLAIN FURNITURE & CHAIRS. WASHINGTON ST. SMITHFIELD STREET.

A Slight Cold.

Caugh, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, which might be checked with a simple remedy. If neglected, often terminates seriously.

Public Speakers & Singers.

Will find them essential for clearing and cheering the voice. Sold at all Drugstores and Dealers in Medicine, at 25 cents per box.

R. WILLIAMSON'S SHIRT FACTORY.

NO. 47 ST. CLAIR STREET. PRIVATE DISEASES. DR. BROWN'S MEDICAL DISPENSARY.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

ARTHUR WARD—Who among us has not heard of Arthur Ward, the great showman, whose letters from Baltimore, Indiana, and other places have been read and re-read, published and re-published throughout the length and breadth of the land? If any think he has been overdone, especially should you consider that he is still living, for the original Arthur, whose real name is O. F. Brown, Esq., (formerly of the Cleveland Press) has just written to the comic Post that he will hereafter issue one of those irresistibly comic letters of his, which have attracted immense attention wherever he has traveled, and which have done more to generally know and like him than all the other letters he has ever written.

The Attack on Fort Donelson.

Desperate Fighting. GUNBOATS DISABLED.

St. Louis, Feb. 16.—Special to the Evening Post. The attack on Fort Donelson, which was made by the Union army on Friday evening, with the gunboats, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Carondelet, Tyler and Conestoga, after a five-hour bombardment, resulted in the capture of the fort. The Union army, under the command of Major General Grant, defeated the Confederate forces, which were commanded by General Johnston. The capture of Fort Donelson was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Further Particulars of the Battle at Fort Donelson.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department from Flag Officer Foote: FLAG SHIP ST. LOUIS, NEAR FORT DONELSON, FEB. 16, 1862. I made an attack on Fort Donelson yesterday at three o'clock p. m. The fort was defended by the Confederates with a battery of four guns and two wooden gunboats. The Union gunboats, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Carondelet, Tyler and Conestoga, opened fire on the fort at three o'clock p. m. The Confederates returned the fire with their four guns and the two wooden gunboats. The Union gunboats were disabled by the Confederate fire, and the fort was captured by the Union army.

Important Army Order.

St. Louis, Feb. 16.—The following order has been issued from the War Department: All persons who are known to have been in the service of the Confederate army, or who are known to have been in the service of the Confederate navy, or who are known to have been in the service of the Confederate army or navy, are hereby ordered to report to the nearest military or naval authority, and to furnish a full and true statement of their services. Failure to comply with this order will be considered as an act of treason.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.

Evacuation of Bowling Green.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The following dispatch was received from the War Department: Bowling Green, Miss., Feb. 16, 1862. The Confederate army has evacuated Bowling Green, Miss., and has retreated to Corinth, Miss. The Union army has entered Bowling Green, Miss., and has taken possession of the city. The evacuation of Bowling Green was a significant military victory for the Union, as it opened the Mississippi River to Union control.