PITTSBURGH:

MONDAY MORNING, FEB 24

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

HARRISBURG CORRESPONDENCE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
HARRISBURG, Feb 20, 1862.

Speaker Rowe took the chair at ten o'clock. The prayer this morning was of a patriotic character, that God, the people are boiling over with enthusiasm on a count of our late victories over rebels in arms. I am proud to read of the intended glorification with your people on the ever to be remembered and revered birthday of the Father, Washington. Let old and young join in doing honor to a day which will be remembered as long as patriotism holds sway in this land of liberty. I am thinking that the people of the South will not find it convenient to inaugurate, on that day, the talented but misguided Jefferson Davis—God forbid that such a day would ever be desecrated by the installation of a man contending against the government formed by the mighty mind of our own Washington.

The misgoverned Southerners should cease to demonstrate their evil passions, and return to their allegiance: for it is worse than madness to think that this government, formed and protected by the mighty arm of the people, will ever tolerate any power on earth to break it down.—The majesty of the master minds, impelled onward by loyal and true Americans, will assert the rights of the masses over fanatics, come they from the South, or the extreme East. The Union and the Constitution are safe; and to Secretary Stanton, McClellan, and others in authority, do the people owe everything in the triumphant march of glorious victory which has crowned our arms in every battle. May God turn the hearts of all men who would attempt to destroy the best purest, and most democratic government ever devised, or yet formed.

This morning is devoted to petitions, remonstrances and bills in place, with reports from committees, &c.

Mr. Gross two remonstrances from the people against the repeal of the act relating to Virgin alley in your city. This appears to be a vexed question, in which there are two sides. I am of the opinion that your streets and alleys would be the better of widening as they are rather cramped for young America.

THE MEMBER FROM GREEN COUNTY

One of the trustworthy and true Democrats in the House, is the substantial old farmer from Green county, Patrick Donley, Esq. The name smacks of Irish, but I am credibly informed that the honorable gentleman is a native of the county he is honored in representing on this floor. Democratic Green has never, in my Legislature knowledge, elected a more reliable gentleman than Patrick Donley, and I feel confident that the people will be proud of him when he returns home to give an account of his stewardship.

Mr. Donley is a man about fifty-seven years of age, stout built, with a good constitution which he inherits from a honored Irish parent. There is one thing above all others which will commend this member, that whatever he says can be relied on. A man of surest integrity and most reliable in every relation of life. Such, then, is Mr. Donley of Green county.

Mr. Worley, the Democratic member from Lancaster, rose to a question of privelage and asked the orders to be suspended for the present, for the purpose of allowing him to present a resolution—(Agreed to.) He then had read by the clerk, a resolution in regard to the "octagon stamps," (postages by the way,) to state money, which he had read from the desk of the clerk, an article published in the Republican organ at Lancaster, reflecting in severe terms on the member. Mr. Worley very properly felt worried, inasmuch as he is perfectly innocent, as he never had a stamp from the post office or from any other person without paying for the same. He then desired a fair investigation; this being done he would be fully exculpated and not held liable for the acts of others, as he knew nothing of the matter. The article written was from a partisan who figures as Senator, and done to bring down odium on him as a Democrat. He pronounced the whole a flagrant and outrageous assault on private character, which in justice this House should vindicate.

Mr. Scott made an eloquent and effective speech in opposition to the postponement of this question, for the articles of the press must have a check put to it in time, and not be permitted to libel members without cause. What I have to say in this, is simply this, that the Senators and members themselves are responsible for the information derived, as the article in question is said to emanate from the pen of a Senator. Correspondents who write regularly for papers are not to be held responsible for others who may write an occasional letter abusive of each other. Mr. Scott's remarks were caustic and well spoken, provided he had hit the right channel; but newspapers publish what they receive, holding, as they should do, their correspondents responsible for whatever may appear.

Messrs. Bigham and Williams spoke briefly favoring the investigation. Mr. Bigham declared that when he went to Philadelpeia, or to his home in the west, he did not want the people to ask him if he obtained any stamps. Let all who are clear be freed from the suspicion now attached to all, when it should be confined to the few. Mr. Williams amended the resolution, making it more resolute and pointed, and it passed in that way: so we will have the whole matter out, and the members' minds will be more at ease, for they have been terribly troubled of late by the "stamp act."

Judge Shannon appeared in his seat to-day. He has been absent for several days in the city, where his good lady has been on a visit and took sick. I am glad to say she has recovered from her late illness.

There are several gentlemen on hand from your city. I notice Messrs. Bagaly, Pennock, Singerly, Bell, Seldon, Jones, the city gauger with others.

SENATE.

There was not anything done in this grave body that would interest your readers, except probably the fact that Mr. Penny read in place, a bill of only 18 sections, for the formation of a "Petroleum transportation Company." It is too lengthy for any good to be expected from such. These things require watching. On to-morrow at 12 o'clock the Solons of the State adjourn to meet again, on next Monday. They go to Philadelphia to celebrate the 22d of February in grand style, and your correspondent will go west.

Yours, &c.

By Saturday's Telegraph.

Washington's Birthday at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, February 22—All the federal and corporation offices are closed, as well as most of the business houses.—There was a continuous firing of salutes this morning at all the camps, in honor of the day. The Hall of the House of Representatives being the great scene of attraction, as early as half past nine o'clock the galleries set apart for the public were densely crowded, while the doors leading thereto were blocked with standing occupants. The portions of the galleries reserved for the families of the diplomatic corps and those of other invited specitators and members of Congress were gradually filled, according to their convenience. Tickets had been issued to them, and, in order to avoid confusion, there were many police doorkeepers and ushers to carry out this part of the programme. Additional chairs had been provided on the floor of the hall to seat about six hundred persons.

Immediately over the Speaker's chair was a large painting of Washington, surmounted by a gilt eagle, and over this a golden starred American flag, while from each of the upper corners of the painting were hung banners of a smaller pattern. Crowds continued to penetrate the capitol, and many persons were unable to obtain admission. The interval between eleven and one o'clock was relieved by scenes in the galleries. Some of the door occupants would loudly and imploringly call to others who were crowding behind, not to precipitate them on the heads of those comfortably and seviously seated below them.

THE PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE

At 12 o'clock the Speaker called the House to order, when the journal of yesterday was read. At the request of the Speaker, the members proceeded to occupy seats on the left of the hall, leaving the three front circles for the invited guests.

Mr. Bill, of Md., made an unofficial suggestion that ladies in the lobbies be admitted to unoccupied spaces on the floor. The Speaker requested those in the galleries to preserve order, saying that if decorum could be violated, it would become his disagreeable duty to have them cleared.

Mr. Crittenden, of Ky., said that the joint resolution relative to the celebration did not contemplate the presentation of flags, and he therefore, moved that this be omitted as a part of the ceremonies.

Mr. Lovejoy, of Ill., supposed from the general tenor of Mr. Crittenden's remarks heretofore, that he would not oppose what any military man desired, and this flag presentation and been arranged by the War Department.

Mr. Dawes of Mass., inquired how could the flag be presented if Congress will not take tem. He did not propose to magnify the rebel flags in this way, and hoped that they would respectfully decline to receive them.

Mr. Campbell of Penna., said that these were trophies won by our officers and brave soldiers in hotly contested battles. He would not magnify the flags, but would magnify the deed of our armies, and trusted that these flags or flags would be received with respect.

Mr. Campbell, resuming that his previous remarks had been misunderstood explained that he held receive these flags and tokens in respect to the bravery of our troops.

Mr. Lovejoy came to be read the law of 1814 and 1813, to the effect that the Secretaries of War and the Navy be directed to cause to be collected and transmitted to them all flags, banners and colors which may have been or shall be taken hereafter by the army and navy from the enemy, and that all these, together with those in the possession of those departments, shall, with all convenient dispatch, be delivered to the President, for the purpose of being displayed in such public places as may be deemed proper.

Mr. Lovejoy said it was the law. That by receiving the flags we would recognize the rebel garniment was the most absurd idea ever originated in the brain of man. He was willing to receive every rebel flag, the more the better, in respect to the brave men who captured them.

Mr. Edwards of New Hampshire, expressed himself in favor of carrying out the arrangement for the presentation of flags.

Mr. Potter, of Wiscotn, in apparent seriousness, rose to a quion of order.—It was, that the gentlem was speaking with his back to the chai [Laughter.

Fight in Savannah River—Gen. Viele's Report.

NEW YORK, February 22.—The steamer Atlantic brings the following report from General Viele in relation to the fight in the Savannah river on the 15th. "I have the honor to report that the batteries on Venus Point were attacked at three o'clock yesterday afternoon by five rebel gunboats with a view of effecting a passage from Fort Pulaski to the rebel steamers then at that place. After an engagement of one hour the rebels were driven off, the flag officers boasting disabled and taken in tow, and the steamers that attempted the passage of the river returning to Fort Pulaski."

The gunboats on the right line and in Wall's Cut met with and retired several torpedoes placed for their direction.—One, on being exploded, was supposed to have had thirty pounds of poler in it.

The Celebration at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE Feb 22.—The city is gay with flags, and there is a fine military display in honor of this day at the principal points of our arms. The Washington monument is decorated with flags and flowers. The streets are thronged with people, salutes are firing from four quarters of the city, and all the bells of the city were rung at sun rise and noon.

The Celebration in New York

NEW YORK, February 22.—The celebration of the day is universal. Flags are displayed all over the city, and salutes were fired at sunrise and at noon. Business is, in a great degree, suspended and the processions are announced as being carried out.
