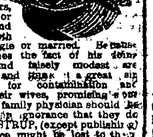
TO THE PUBLIC.



ESPECIALLY the ignorant and falsely Modest Physicians of all denominations, treat secret and delicate disorders, sexual abuse and diseases or situations common and incident to youths of both sexes, or single, single or married. Be assured Dr. BRANDRETH publishes the fact of his ability to cure every form of falsely modest and dangerously concealed, and those diseases are very immoral and for contamination and corruption among their wives, promising secrecy as a four family physician should be cautious in keeping up ignorance that they do the same as Dr. BRANDRETH'S SYRUP, (except publishing) less a learn've practice might be lost to them among stupid fussy modest and presumptuous families, born and raised in ignorance, sprung up as mushrooms and who compare society, intelligence, Math, &c., to doll rags and cents, mysteriously, meanly or ill gotten. It is to publicity, however that numerous parents and guardians are thankful that their sons, daughters and wards, previously feeble, sickly and out of condition and appearance, have been restored to health and vigor by Dr. BRANDRETH'S PILLS, besides many before and after marriage through him have been saved much anguish, anxiety, mortification, &c. Having by advantage of over thirty years experience and observation, consequently, he has superior skill in the treatment of special diseases, and who is daily consulted by the profession, as well recommended by respectable citizens, public boys, proprietors of hotels, &c. Spermatorrhœa, or so called nocturnal emissions. This dreadful malady can be completely cured by the very last discovery that has never yet failed. Is female diseases the Dr. has superior experience on account of his old age, seventy years, all irregularity is completely cured. As for consumption or pulmonary diseases my syrups, which are compounded from Iceland moss and other ingredients by a skillful physician five years at the business, has had more testimonials than all the preparations that have as yet been discovered, as the certificates will show. They are all genuine and can be found according to a pamphlet in which each person will get at the examination, all free of charge. Office 25 Smithfield street, above Diamond street. Private communications from all parts of the Union strictly attended to. Direct to President Lincoln's Orders.

Gen. McClellan to take the Field.

Fremont Restored to Active Command.

A "MOUNTAIN" DEPARTMENT MADE FOR HIM.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The following orders by the President were published by authority in the Intelligencer of this morning. Their importance and bearing are manifest.

War Gazette—Published by Authority.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27, 1862.

PRESIDENT'S GENERAL WAR ORDER No. 1.—Ordered that the 22d of February, 1862, be the day for a general movement of the land and naval forces of the United States, against the insurgent forces. That especially the army at and about Fortress Monroe—the army of the Potomac—the army of Western Virginia—the army near Munfordsville, Kentucky—the army and flotilla at Cairo, and a naval force in the Gulf of Mexico be ready for a movement on that day. That all other forces, both land and naval, with their respective commanders, obey existing orders for the time, and be ready for additional orders when duly given. That the heads of Departments, and especially the Secretaries of War and of the Navy, with all their subordinates of land and naval forces, will severally be held to their strict and full responsibility for the prompt execution of this order.

[Signed.] ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, March 8th, '62.

PRESIDENT'S GENERAL WAR ORDER, No. 2.—Ordered first that the Major General commanding the army of the Potomac proceed forthwith to organize that part of said army destined to operate upon active operations, including the Reserve, but excluding the troops to be left in the fortifications about Washington, into four army corps, to be commanded according to seniority of rank, as follows:

1st corps to consist of four divisions, and to be commanded by Major General J. McDowell; and corps to consist of three divisions, and to be commanded by Brigadier General E. V. Sumner; 3d corps to consist of three divisions, and to be commanded by Brigadier General S. P. Heintzleman; 4th corps to consist of three divisions and to be commanded by Brigadier General E. D. Keyr.

2d. That the divisions now commanded by the officers above assigned to the commands of corps, shall be embraced in and form part of their respective corps.

3d. The forces left for the defence of Washington will be placed in command of Brigadier General James Wadsworth, who shall also be Military Governor of the District of Columbia.

4th. That this order be executed with such promptness and dispatch as not to delay the commencement of the operations already directed to be undertaken by the army of the Potomac.

5th. A fifth army corps to be commanded by Major General N. P. Banks, will be formed from his own and General Shield's (late General Landes's) division.

[Signed.] ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, March 14, 1862.

PRESIDENT'S WAR ORDER, No. 3.—Major General McClellan having personally taken the field at the head of the principal army, other than that under the command of Major General Halleck, he retaining command of the Department of the Potomac.

Ordered further, that the two Departments now under the respective commands of Generals Halleck and Hunter, together with so much of that under General Buell, as lies west of a north and south line indefinitely drawn through Knoxville, Tenn., be consolidated and designated the Department of the Mississippi, and that, until otherwise ordered, Major General Halleck have command of said Department.

Ordered also that the country west of the Departments of the Potomac, and east of the Department of the Mississippi, to be a Department, to be called the Mountain Department, and that the same be commanded by Major General Fremont.

That all the commanders of Departments, after the receipt of this order by them, respectively report severally and directly, to the Secretary of War, and that prompt, full and frequent reports will be expected by all, and each of them.

[Signed.] ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Latest Southern Items.

BALTIMORE, March 12.—The Old Point boat has arrived. I learn from Lieutenant Hayward, who was a passenger, that a copy of the Norfolk DAY Book had been received, giving a highly colored account of the fight on Saturday.

It pays a great compliment to the bravery of the crew of the Cumberland, and admits that some shot from that vessel entered the Merrimac, and one shell killed seventeen men and wounded Captain Buchanan, who subsequently died.

The Monitor is admitted to be formidable. The paper says she appeared like a big Black Yankee cheese box on a raft.

The Merrimac on Sunday, being under the command of the traitor Thomas or P. Catesby Jones. The account given is mainly confined to the Saturday fight. Some slight repairs are said to be necessary on the Merrimac.

The reason why the Merrimac did not first attack the Congress was because Captain Buchanan had a brother on board as paymaster.

HOW NED SMITH WON HIS MEDAL.

A STORY OF THE CORNISH WRECKERS.

"We stood right above where the vessel struck. Sheer up from the beach—we measured it afterwards—two hundred and fourteen feet. A mouse could not have found footing down that cliff, and as it was within an hour of high water, no help could come to them poor souls but by letting some one down from the place where we stood.

"The dim light of morning just enabled us to see each other, and the white line of the shore waves. Some thought they could see the wreck; I cannot tell if it was so. For certain we could hear now and then, fainter, and fainter and fainter, the cry of mortal man.

"I can't stand this no longer," says Ned, at last. "I can't stand here in health and strength, with my two hands idle, while they poor creatures, are beaten to death against the very rocks we stand on. Bear a hand, here—I'll go down this place."

We stood like men blind and deaf for a minute, and then all tried to persuade him out of it, for we thought it was certain death. The rope, most likely, would be cut through, fraying over the cliff, or the wind might dash him with fatal force against the rocks. But nothing would stop him; he knotted the rope round his waist, and, taking a short gaff in his hand, stood ready to slip off. He turned a moment, and, says he:

"Give my love to Mary and the children, and if I don't see them more don't let them come on the parish."

He shook hands all round, and then stepped off; and in a moment he was hanging all his weight on the rope we held.

"Now God's sake, lower away," he cried, "I see them."

"We saw them, too, for God rent the black clouds, and looked through to see that noble deed. In the east there was a space of clear sky, thro' which a stream of light fell on the scene before us. An awful scene it was. The ship was broken to pieces, and with every turn of the waves her timbers tossed and whirled and among them were the sailors—some past help forever, and two or three still striving hard for life.

"Just as Ned touched the beach, one man was swept out from the narrow ledge they were trying to hold on to, with every third or fourth wave breaking over them. The man Ned came to first was just such another for height and strength as himself, and we held our breath with terror when we saw by his actions that he was (as is often the case) driven mad by his danger, and was struggling desperately with the only man who could save him.

For full five minutes they wrestled together. Sometimes we thought of pulling Ned up, and so making sure of him, for it was a hard choice between the poor demented stranger and Ned's young wife and three little children. But then the water left them once more, and we saw Ned had him down with his knee on his chest, and we knew it the tide gave him time he was his master. So it proved. He whipped a turn or two of rope round his arms, and catching tight to him with his left hand, gave the signal to haul away.

"They had nearly left the rock—for we pulled easy at first—when the whole keelson of the vessel was thrown against the very place they had stood upon. We had them in our left, however, and it the sight had been twice as much, it would have come to grass if the rope held.

"We were all too busy drawing them to look to see what happened on the way. I hold it as Bible truth that there's scarce another man but Ned would have brought that sailor up. He had, as I have said, one arm around him, and with the other, warded himself from the sharp face of the cliff, but he had some grievous bruises for all his courage and strength.

"When the man found himself lifted up in that strange way, he got more raving than ever, and finding that he could not use his hands, he fixed his teeth in Ned's cheek till they met. For all the pain and danger, Ned held on, and I shall never forget to my last hour what I felt as we drew them over the ledge of the cliff, and knew they were safe.

"Poor Ned! we laid him in a sheltered place, and would have put the stranger with him, but we soon found he was too wild to be trusted free, so we bound him for his own safety.

"In a few minutes after they were landed Ned's wife came. We had sent a boy for spirits and things, and he, youngster-like, told what Ned was about. None who were there will ever forget that fair young thing as she fell on her knees by her husband's side, and swooned away with her head on his breast.

"Ah, the man that had just braved such danger was like a child as he smoothed the golden hair of his wife. As weak as a child he was, too, from loss of blood. Well, other women came soon after and bound up their wounds, and then we got a cart and brought them down to my house.

"Eleven men and three boys were the crew of the Hesperus, as the ship was called, and only that one man saved. He lay for days—very quiet at last—and scarce spoke a word. What he did say was about his mother, and the name of some young woman. We we stripped him—by the doctor's orders—we found a little packet hung round his neck by a black ribbon, and as it was wet with the salt water, we took it away to dry. My wife, who tended him more than the rest, said he seemed to keep groping for something in his bosom, so she put it back again, and when he found it there all right, he never strove to rise and call out as he did before. It is not for me to say, but my old woman always considered that packet to hold some true love token. She often said she wished she knew for she thought how glad his mother and sweetheart would be to know he was alive.

PRIVATE DISEASES.

DR. BROWN'S MEDICAL and SURGICAL Dispensary, No. 6 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

DR. BROWN is one of the oldest Physicians in Practice for the last twenty-five years. His business has been confined mostly to Private and Surgical Diseases.

OTHERS AND STRANGERS who are in need of a medical friend, should call and find one. The cure placed within the reach of all. DR. BROWN is a graduate of a regular profession, and his experience in the treatment of a certain class of diseases is the greatest to be met with in the United States, as will be proved by the use of his remedies and following his advice.

DR. BROWN'S REMEDIES will never fail to cure the worst forms of Venereal diseases, Impurities and Scrofulous Affections, and all diseases arising from a hereditary taint, or manifesting itself in the form of a blotch, pimple, and a great many forms of skin diseases, the origin of which the patient is entirely ignorant, generally exhibited by bodily debility, and speedy recovery.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.

Dr. Brown's remedies for this alarming disease, brought on often by the solitary habit of self-gratification, which the young and weak-minded often give way to, (to their own destruction,) is the only reliable remedies known in this country—they are safe, and make a speedy restoration of health.

RHEUMATISM.

Dr. Brown's remedies never fail to cure this painful disease in a few days—he will warrant a cure. He also treats Female Diseases, Uterine Obstructions, Ulceration of the Womb, Leucorrhœa, Menstrual Derangements, Female Weakness, Monthly Suppressions, Diseases of the Joints, Pimples in the Face, Nervous Affections, Pain in the Head and Kidneys, Irritation of the Bladder, together with all diseases of an impure origin.

A letter describing the symptoms complained of, directed to DR. BROWN, No. 50 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa., will be immediately answered. Medicine sent to any address, safely packed and secure from observation.

AFFECTIONS OF THE KIDNEYS AND BLADDER,

which has been cured by upwards of

FIFTY HOMŒOPATHIC PHYSICIANS

in this country, private practice, and in the hospitals of Europe, as will be seen by the following names, reading Curtis, Cornell, Cleveland, Hull, Gatchell, Hispards, Kenyon, &c.

BELL'S SPECIFIC PILLS

Are speedy in action, often effecting a cure in a few days, and when a cure is effected it is permanent. They are prepared from vegetable extracts that are harmless on the system, and never nauseate the stomach, or otherwise disorder the digestive organs, as mercury, nitrate of silver, &c., do, commonly used for the above diseases. No change of diet is necessary while using them, as they do their action independent of ordinary circumstances.

Each box contains six doses PRICE ONE DOLLAR, and will be sent by mail, post-paid, by any advertised agent, on receipt of the money. Beware of spurious imitations. Genuine without my signature on the wrapper. J. BRYAN, Rochester, N.Y., General Agent.
