I rather think he is suited for the times, and having a strong faith in General McClellan and his military counsellors, will hold back the almost irrepressible tide that comes up from a restive people. I think, with others, the great majority of thinkers, that the time for strong and rapid blows has arrived, and that, with the best provisioned, clothed, and disciplined troops in the world, the word forward will prove the steel to pierce the heart of the rebellion. Another forty, eight hours of sunshine and wind will unravel the military paradox—if not—not.
