TO SHIPPERS OF CRUDE AND REFINED PETROLEUM OIL.—The undersigned is prepared to receive and store Oil in large quantities on one most favorable terms. The reduction of the Board of Underwriters precludes insuring oil stored within the city limits, and a strong effort is being made to have a law passed by the Legislature to prevent its being stored. Our docks at Elizabeth Port N. J., afford the best facilities for storage or shipment, as the oil can be insured and vessels can load at our own docks.

We will dispatch a ship to London as soon as a cargo of oil is received at our yard, and others will follow with regularity.

Advances made on consignments to our friends in London.

Ship via Pennsylvania Railroad and Allentown to Elizabeth Port.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

Our Army Correspondence.

LEESBURG, Va.
March 10 h 1862.

DEAR COLONEL: The advance Brigade of Gen. Banks Division, under command of Col. Geary, occupied this place on Saturday morning last. Col. Geary left Lovettsville on Friday at 4 p. m with six companies of his Regiment, three companies of the Michigan Cavalry and the first section of Knap's Pennsylvania Battery, and marched until 8 p. m, and occupied Waterford Learning during the night that the rebels were evacuating Leesburg the Colonel, notwithstanding the paucity of his force, pushed forward and arrived just at the heels of the retreating rebels—the balance of the 28th Regiment, under the command of Lieut Col. De Korponay, with one company of cavalry and the second section of Knap's Battery left Lovettsville at 12 p. m., and marching all night, reached Leesburg shortly after the advance under Col. Geary. Fort Johnson was immediately occupied by Col. De Korponay with five companies of the 28th and the first section of Knap's Battery The name of the Fort has been changed to Fort Geary. It occupies a high hill, a mile north-east of the town, and commands the approaches from the North, South, East and West The interior occupies about an acre, with the magazine (bomb-proof) in the centre. It has four bomb-proof casemates, capable of covering eight guns, opening north and south. The ditch surrounding the fort is about six feet wide and four deep. The wall surrounding the fort is built of timber covered with earth thrown up from the ditch, and is pierced for 24 guns The rebels commenced its erection immediately after the battle of Ball's Bluff, fought in October last, and have been working on it ever since. The labor was performed by citizens drafted for the purpose, the State Militia and negroes. The rebels had 18 pieces mounted, the largest one a 24 pounder burst about two weeks ago. Leesburg is quite a fine looking place—the population about 3,000. The principal streets are well paved, and the place is supplied with water from fountains. This cursed rebellion has ruined the business interests of the town and many of the finest buildings are vacant—their owners having followed the retreating rebels The negro seems to be universal—you meet the descendants of Ham at every step and the town is alive with members of the African persuasion, who have come in to see de Yankees. On my way to my quarters last night, my ears were rejoiced by the tone of a Piano, the first I have heard since November last. The warbling of a female accompanying the instrument brought home recollections and delights forcibly to my mind. The fatal field of Ball's Bluff lies east of the town, distant about two miles. I have not yet had time to visit it, but hope soon to be able to give you a description of it I am entirely ignorant of what is taking place outside of our lines, as other letters nor papers have reached me since the occupation of this place. Lieut. Geary will arrive to-day with the other section of our Battery—Captain Knap and Lieut McGill remain here with the mounted men. The Captain has his headquarters in the office of John M. Orr, Esq. Attorney-at-Law, Mayor of the place and Commissary of the sixteen or seventy-five Virginia Brigade of the Confederate army From the haste in which we found the rebels evacuating the place, the said Orr must have left in a hurry.

Yours,

P. S. I write on Confederate paper, and enclose it in a rebel envelope.

Battle at Island No 10, Imminent.

Movement of the Rebels.

CAIRO, March 15.—The Reporter of the Associated Press, on board the flag ship, two miles above Island No. 10, sends the following:

The flotilla got under way at 5 30 this Sunday morning, and dropped down slowly till about 7 o'clock, when the flag ship being about two miles ahead and six miles above the Island, discovered a stern wheel steamer, which ran out from the shelter of a point on the Kentucky shore.

As she steamed down the river four shells were thrown after her The distance, however, was to great for the shots to take effect.

At 9 o'clock the fleet rounded to, about three miles above the Island, and the Commodore ordered three mortar-boats into position.

At this hour, 2 P. M., we are within range, but as yet have heard nothing from the enemy

There appears to be a large force on the Kentucky shore. We can count thirteen guns in position on the Bluffs.

A large number of transports can be seen on the Missouri shore, busily engaged around the Island. What they are doing we cannot determine.

The mortars are momentarily expected to fire. We discern the much talked of floating battery at the Island.

LATER

BOMBARDMENT OF ISLAND NO. 10.

REBEL POSITION VERY STRONG

Later dispatches from Cairo state that the rebel position at Island No. 10 is represented as very strong

Forty-six guns have been counted The U. S. forces, with eight mortars, shelled the battery above the Island to-day.

The rebels left several times, but returned again.

They fired with only two guns.

Dispatches have been received by Commodore Foote, from General Pope that New Madrid is evacuated. Two rivers [illegible] Fleming has been [illegible] and Gen. Pope is now [illegible] of New Madrid. It is thought that the rebel [illegible] were trying to [illegible] passage.

A number of the rebel transports are detained in between [illegible] forces.

The encampments [illegible] enough to hold [illegible] thousand men.

Highly Important from New Mexico

SANDY HOOK N. Y., March 17.—The steamer Roanoke from Havana, on the 12th inst., has just arrived at this point bound up to New York. She brings Vera Cruz dates to the 4th inst.

The Spanish troops were returning to the interior.

The English forces were about to leave the country.

The French reinforcements had not yet arrived.

The French forces were en route for Tobuscan.

The Spaniards started on the 1st for Orizaba. General Marquez, with 5,000 Mexican troops, holds the road from Vera Cruz to Mexico. An American citizen belonging to Lowell, Mass., and a bearer of dispatches from Washington to Minister Corwin, was murdered on the 24th ult., while going from Vera Cruz to City of Mexico.

The negotiations between the Mexicans and the Allies were to commence at Orizaba on the 1st of April.

The reports about the movements of the English and Spanish troops in the above dispatch seem to contain some error which will be corrected when the steamer arrives.

The Roanoke brings Honduras advices to the 27th. A favorable reaction had occurred, and order was being restored.—Medina had been appointed President pro tem

The advices from Havana are unimportant. It is stated that the Spanish bark Theresa, which had been captured by one of our squadron, had been declared an illegal prize.

SECOND DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Further advices by the Roanoke confirm the statement that the English troops were about to leave Mexico. A portion of the Spanish troops are retiring to Cuba, and the rest have gone to Orizaba. General Prim commands the allied forces. The name of the American bearer of dispatches murdered, was Addison T. Arlen.

Latest from Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, March 16.—The steamer Suwanee arrived to-day from Roanoke Island on Friday and Hatteras on Saturday, with mails and passengers. No news to be made public.

The Hugh Jenkins arrived to-day, from Washington on Friday, with one of Prof. Lowe's balloons. The rough weather delays repairs on the telegraph cable. No boat from the Eastern shore to-day, and, consequently no news of election.

The Congressional Committee on Naval Affairs, and the Assistant Secretaries of War and Treasury, came down from Washington this morning, and returned to-night, after inspecting the Monitor and other objects of interest here.

Supreme Court Decision

MILWAUKEE, March 16—The decision of the Supreme Court of this State, in relation to the assessment of taxes, declares all State taxes since 1855 unconstitutional, by reason of the inequality of taxation The Legislature will take immediate action for the relief of the former mortgagee, which are also declared to be unconstitutional.

Destructive Freshet.

LOUISVILLE, March 17.—The rains of Friday night swelled Barren river out of its banks, and carried away the pontoon bridge over the river at Bowling Green. The Railroad communications with Nashville are consequently suspended for the present. The Ohio is also rapidly rising.

Parson Brownlow's Book.

PHILADELPHIA, March 17—The well known publisher of Dr. Kane's works has offered Parson Brownlow ten thousand dollars for his proposed book, containing an account of his sufferings, &c.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Neglected Insanity.

A gentleman, who eventually became insane, and died, alas, by his own hand, for months before he yielded to the delusion that led to his confinement and self-destruction, battled strongly and heroically with an illusion of the senses, which he was conscious had no existence apart from himself. He often conversed with his wife upon the subject of his horrible phantasy, and "unreal mockery," she trying, by soothing expressions of devoted affection and arguments addressed to his reason, to dissipate the terrible image that pursued him, like an evil eye, night and day. This gentleman's state of brain was not made a matter of investigation until his insanity was obviously declared. His reason and life would, in all probability, have been saved, had timely medical aid been obtained for his relief.

Scene for a Painter.

The following from a Knoxville, Tennessee rebel journal, describing a secret meeting of thirty or forty Unionists, called together by a well known patriot, David Fry admirably illustrates the 'idolatrous love' for the Stars and Stripes, and suggests a subject worthy the highest inspiration of our best historical painter:

Fry drew forth a United States flag, and spreading it upon a table in the centre of the room, called upon his followers to surround that emblem of the Union and take with him the oath of allegiance. This was late in the night, and after the whole plot had been fully understood, the conspirators surrounded the table in groups, and, by direction of the leader, placed their left hands upon the folds of the flag, raising aloft their right hands, and swearing to support the Constitution of the United States, to sustain the flag there spread before them, and to do that night whatever may be impressed upon them by their chief. The oath was taken by all except two or three, in solemn earnest and in silence; the darkness relieved alone by the dim and flickering light of a solitary candle. The scene was impressive—the occasion was full of moment—and everything calculated to fill the hearts of the traitors with a fixed determination.

A Mockingbird Story.

A man of short stature and most uninviting countenance, with the peculiar expression now claimed by Monsieur du Chaillu as that of the gorilla, purchased a property in a Western county of Scotland, from whence he strictly excluded trespassers. Some one sent him a large monkey, which he kept about his place; and a boy having been intrusted with the delivery of a letter and having found the monkey at the house door, was somewhat alarmed, so he threw down the letter and ran off. On his way down the Avenue, the boy met the new laird, who angrily demanded what he was doing there "I had a letter for you, sir," says the boy. "Well, give it to me." "Ah, but I gave it to your son, sir," replies the trembling laddie. "My son, you little rascal; I have no son." "Well, sir, I canna say for that, but he had an uncoleuk o' yourself."
