A special displaten to the New York Herald, from Washington City, says: The Grand Jury of Washington county, District of Columbia, to-day found a bill of indictment against Horace Greeley, of the New York Tribune, for malicious libel of public officers. The particular charge against Mr. Greeley is libelling the United States Marshal, Colonel Ward H. Lamon. There were two presentments found against Mr. Greeley, but want of time on the part of the District Attorney prevented the preparation of more than one indictment. These presentiments are only the begin-ning of a series of similar charges that are to be found against the same offender. The Marshal was averse to this precedure; but the jury, having the facts before them, regarded the offence as so flagrant as to re-gure their attention, and the friends of the Marshal insist that the case shell be vigor.
