DAILY POST.

PENNSYLVANIAN'S DEAD.

In Pennsylvania's History
There's many a noble name
Of statesman true, or chieftain bold,
Whose deeds rank high in fame;—
From Him, the great and Christian sage,
Who first gave glory to the page,
Down to the last soul-stirring hour,
Which saw her clad in hope and power—
A star too bright to dimmed be
By other of the envied free.

Where'er a valiant deed was done—
Where'er a victory proudly won—
Her sturdy son, their valor lent,
And of their life's-blood freely spent.
And marched through mis'ry's fiercest throes,
To hurl destruction 'mongst her foes.

Where great Ohio sullen flows,
By Schuylkill's murky flood,
On Susquehanna's lovely shores,
Their deeds are writ in blood.
All hallowed is the sacred clay,
Made mellow with their bones,
Where more than Roman warriors lay,
Freed from the battle's tones.

Why cross Atlantic's surly waves,
And pass old Europe o'er,
To search for places of renown,
When here is brighter lore?
Europe's field have drunk much blood
To aid tyrannic sims:
But Liberty led on our hosts,
And consecrates our plains.

At Valley Forge's noted mound
What thoughts ennobling rise—
See how the suffering hero paves
His pathway to the skies.
Wanting's rich and blood-bought vale—
Where is the eye so bold
That has not shed the pitying tear
When her sad tale was told?

Paoli's marble marks the fate
Which crushed a gallant band,
But, ah! their leader lived to serve
With valor great the land!
Revenge, deep-seated on his brow
Gave vigor to his frame,—
The British soldier trembles now,
When told of daring Wayne.

Oh, their's were proud—aye, holy fates,
Who, in the gallant strife,
Glad yielded up their richest boon—
Man's dearest jewel—Life!
No compass limits marked their course,
Nor bar their deathless fame,
For Freedom's flames, when truly felt,
Permit no selfish claim.

They need no monuments—those men
Of sterling worth and patriot deed,
For first in glory's rank they stand,
And none deny the rich-earned meed:—
Each freeman's heart a casket is,
Wherein their actions deeply lie,
And never will they be forgot,
Till Liberty herself shall die!

A Sensible View.

Senator Jos. A Wright of Indiana, in his speech in the Senate, mentioned one and the most practical way of exterminating slavery, viz.: the introduction of free white labor. He said:

If I am not misinformed, seventy men belonging to one Northern regiment were married in the state of Maryland in the last six months. I know men from my State and New York who have bought land in Maryland in the last three weeks. Within fifty miles of where I am talking to you today, Northern men will be found in less than sixty days, turning up the earth and putting in clover and furnishing this market. If you will only let the army and the war alone, and not disturb the peace and harmony of the country with questions that have nothing to do with the prosecution of the war, all will go well.

RUMOROUS.

We hear much about the dangers of using coal oil, but while the insurance men grumble; the people continue to make light of it.

"That was very greedy of you, Tommy, to eat your little sister's share of cake." "You told me, ma, I was always to take her part," said Tommy.

The old lady who mended her husband's trousers with a patch of grass, is now smoothing her hair with the comb of a rooster.

Naturalists tell us that "wild boars" are become extinct in the land. What a capital thing if "tame bores" were to follow the example.
