DAILY POST.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 9.

POEM WITH TWO MEANINGS.

The following poem in the Charleston Mercury, apparently copied from a New Orleans paper, is full of meaning to the infatuated secessionists, but its covert intention is not evident enough to lay the author liable to the charge of being a Union man in the midst of Secessia:

HURRYING ON

Hurrying on in the midst of excitement,
Pushing extravagant projects through;
Few of us know or pause ever to question—
Ever to ask where we are hurrying to;
Hurrying on over blessings unheeded,
Chasing some joy like the butterfly gone
What is the use of our hurrying on?

We have been hurrying on from our cradles—
What but its shadows have we for the Past?
We are still hurrying on as expectant—
What shall we get by our hurrying at last?
Graves are so thick that we cannot well miss them,
Going with the clothes we shall wear;
Where shall be, then, all we're hurrying after?
What shall we have, with our hurry, when there?

Hurrying on in the wake of the phantoms
Conjured alone in the fever of haste,
Hurrying on with extravagant projects,
Little we seek of treasures we waste;
Little we know of the diamond moments,
All to be gathered and garnered in store,
Making our worthy or worthless possessions
Up in the land were we'll hurry no more.

Treasures that lie all around us in plenty
We never heed as we are hurrying on,
And when in Heaven our coffers are empty
We shall first know they are lost and are gone,
Then we shall know how our spirits have wasted,
Wealth of Eternity planted in Time;
The soil for its seed growing barren as ashes,
While we are hurrying out of its clime.

God works but slowly—but slowly my brothers,
Not hurrying onward in passion and strife—
Works with Love only, and only for others,
Not for himself in the green fields of Life:
Let us sit down and be calm and be thoughtful,
Lifting our hearts to Eternity's brink—
Let us cease living alone for the Present,
Let us cease hurrying—what do you think?

A Mere Trifle.

Capt. Rodman, having successfully cast a 20 inch gun, and the test showing it to be safe and strong as a smaller cannon, is now at work on a pocket-piece for the President, the ball of which is to weigh 3,000 pounds, to have a range of six or seven miles, of two feet and a half diameter, while the gun itself will weigh somewhere in the neighborhood of 200 tuns. It is supposed, if the Warrior, or any English ship should be struck by one of the pills from this little joker, it would be difficult for the future historian to tell the precise spot where the English vessel was last seen or at precisely what instant she disappeared from mortal view. Capt. Rodman is now finishing six 15 inch toys for the new Monitors, three or four 20 inch playthings, beside Old Abe's pocket-piece, the 30 inch joker. The story that a guard is set over this gun every night to keep it from being picked up and carried off by some thief, is pronounced a canard.

Rumored Movement among the Border States Congressmen.

The following appears in the Washington correspondence of the New York Times:

The town was startled by a rumor today that all the members of Congress from the border slave States, and a number of conservative sympathizers from other States, where seriously considering the propriety of withdrawing in a body from the Senate and the House, and thus precipitating a decision by the people of the whole country on the radical measures of confiscation and emancipation. Although such a movement could not rally a large strength in Congress, any defection of the kind would have a most injurious effect in the States of Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Maryland, and give new hope to the slumbering secession element in those States. The wisest course would be to let the President deal with the unconstitutional acts of Congress. He has the wisdom and courage for the crisis, and will not fear the responsibility.
