Depression Among the Rebels.

Destructive Fire. TROY, New York, May 10.—A large fire has been raging here since 11 o'clock this morning, destroying the bridge across the Hudson river, the Fulton, Union and American Houses, Washington Hall, four churches and numerous other public build-ings. The Albany fire department has been brought here to assist in stopping the conflagration, but the fire still rages at this hour, 3 o'glock p. m., with a high gale blowing. The loss will be immense. NEW MARKET, Va., May 10.-Deserters from the enemy report that the recent Union victories caused the greatest de-pression among the rebel officers, who look upon their cause as hopeless. The look upon their rease as hopeless. The soldiers are very ragged, and without means of renewing their clothing, and hundreds would desert if it was generally known that they would be kindly received by our officers. The enemy's ranks are becoming daily thinned by desertion. No new more-ments of the enemy have been disclosed within the last forty-eight hours. Scat-tering rebel scouts are occasionally seen in the Eastern valley, above Columbia bridge, who fly on the approach of our men.
