DAILY POST.

Disposition of General Emory's Command. General Heintzelman, who was on the field in person, a little in the rear, had sent General Emory forward with a small command, which was afterwards increased to four regiments of infantry—the Third Michigan, Col. Champlin; Third Maine, Col. Staples; Fourth Maine, Col. Walker, and the Sixty-Third Pennsylvania, Col. Hays—with Benson's Second Artillery, and two batteries from General Kearney's division, all accompanied by Col. Averill's Third Pennsylvania Cavalry. When Gen. Emory reached the front with the cavalry, he learned from General Hooker, who had immediate command, that the limited length of the line in that locality did not admit of an opportunity to bring his arm of the service into action at that time.—General Emory, however, was sent with some of the force around along the roads to the left and rear, to observe movements of the enemy which the woods concealed. In this regard Licutenant McAlister, of the Engineer Corns. rendered General Heintzelman, who was on the cealed. In this regard Liceaccian ter, of the Engineer Corps, rendered valuable services, which were appreciated on the field, General Emory's command had a little skirmishing around among the fallen timber to the left, and near an opening within view of one of the redoubts. A squadron of the cavalry took possession of the work, which was partly deserted, and captured seventy prisoners. The character of the country and the cavalry took possession of the work which was partly deserted, and captured seventy prisoners. The character of the country and the cavalry took possession of the work which will be a resource when needed, their money not only being safe but bearing interest, instead of remaining unproductive. cealed. In this regard Lieutenant McAlister, of the Engineer Corps, rendered prevented General Emory making an effective demonstration in rear of the

The Operations on the Right. In the meantime the operations had extended further to the right. Gen. Peck's command, of which I have previously poken, was brought into action late in the afternoon, near the point where the York-town road opens into the space in front. The One Hundred and Second Pennsylvania regiment, Col. Rowley, was deployed to the right of the road, and the Fifty-fifth New York, Colonel de Trobriand, to the left. This was the time of the general They will cure the above diseases in ninety-nine movement along the whole line, and when They will cure the above diseases in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

Indeed by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofand's German Bitters, speedy vegetable hosts of ignorant quacks and unsergulation adventurers, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood gates of Noetrums in the shape of poor whisky, viley compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics. Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles, and big-belles which, instead of curing only aggravates diseases, and gave the disappointed sufferers in deepair.

The Relations between General Hooker and Joe Johnston.

It is an interesting incident that General Hooker and Gen. Johnston, who considered the state of the stat an hooker and Gen. Johnston, who con-fronted each other on that occasion, are old friends, fought side by side for the American cause in all the battles which took place in the basin of Mexico, and en-tered Chapultepectogether. Gen. Hooker has shown increased to be not only a pleas-ant gentleman, but an able officer.
